REAL CHARITY

Charity may be defined in several ways, for instance: 1, love, good will; 2, liberality in judging; 3, generosity; 4, alms, act of kindness; 5, charitable institution, gift to support one beneficent, liberality, almsgiving.

Number one carries the charitable act further than all others, for it is expressive of that attribute which does not seem to be a part of everyone. To give with a heart full of love and good will shows the giver to have full understanding of the needs of others, to take the view that in extending aid he is giving only a part of his substance for the well being of the receiver, and with that love is carried the good will that brings a feeling to the aided that beautifies the act.

Recently a Maupin man met with misfortune. He was taken to a hospital at The Dalles, and there cared for until he had regained somewhat of his strength, when he was discharged from the institution. During his occupancy of the hospital ward he was visited by several old-time friends who expressed sympathy in a substantial manner. One visitor upon leaving, tendered the sick man a five spot with the remark: "You may need this; take it and forget payment." Another passed a ten dollar bill with about the same talk, while a third, upon leaving, left a check for $20.00 upon the bed of the stricken one. Neither of those men gave with that of payment. They realized the predicament of the sick man and tendered, not only words of sympathy and good cheer, but went farther and extended the aid which they thought necessary to help a fellow man in distress.

In telling The Times man of these circumstances the victim of the illness desired us to state for him that those friends spoken of, in his estimation, by their acts of kindness, good will and love shown to him, checked themselves to front seats in Heaven. We will not mention the names, but each person referred to here is well known to many of our people, and The Times joins with the recipient of their bounty in thanking them for the true Christian spirit shown in their acts.

A NATION OF METAL USERS

Metal users are always progressive nations. If figures were compiled, it would probably be shown that the average American uses more metal per capita than any other individual in the world.

This is due to the fact that we have more railroads, more automobiles, more steel buildings, more electric development, more telephone equipment and more radio apparatus than any other nation. These all take metal.

The Western metal mines furnish the essential metals for many of our greatest conveniences. These mines have been leaders in adopting new and progressive methods and utilizing ores which a few years ago were considered as so much waste.

The nation owes the American miner a debt of gratitude for the courage and perseverance which he has shown in giving the world some of the earth's greatest treasures.

As a nation we should maintain our interest in mining, and encourage its development by every legiti-mate means.

Let no pleasure tempt thee, no profit allure thee, no ambition corrupt thee, no ambition sway thee, no persuasion move thee to do anything which thou knowest to be evil, so shalt thou always live jollily, for a good conscience is a continued Christmas.—Poor Richard's Almanac.

Economy and efficiency in government functions should be the goal of every public official.

New Telephone Directory.

The Maupin Telephone Exchange will soon issue a new telephone directory, and as soon as this print shop can get the work done the books will be in the hands of subscribers. Quite a number of new subscribers have been added to the exchange since the last directory was issued, and all such will be found in the new work.

Catching Fine Mink.

Last week John Confer had an usual run of luck with his trap line, he catching six fine mink. The fur is in the best possible condition and as such will command the very highest price on the fur market.

On Extended Vacation.

Frank Dyer and wife left yesterday for a few week's vacation in the Willamette Valley. They went to Eugene first, and after a visit with relatives there will go to Banks, where other kin reside. They expect to be gone until the last day of December.

Went To Portland.

Theodore Radtke, manager of the Maupin garage, was called to Portland on Friday last, a business deal taking him down. Since coming here Mr. Radtke has become quite popular with autoists, for the work he is doing is the best, a fact which car owner are quick to recognize, and therefore the growing patronage of the Maupin garage.

Willing to Accommodate

An old Chinaman delivering the laundry in a mining camp, heard a noise and spied a huge bear sniffing his tracks in the newly fallen snow.
"Huh," he gasped "You likee my tracks; I makee some more."

THE DALLES MADE A DESERT

Pre-Holiday Cleanup of Bootleggers Nets Several Such Peddlers

The Dalles as an oasis for those who care to "wet their whistles" with draughts of moonshine seems to be destined to change color. Monday night officers at that place made a round-up of booze dealers and makers, gathering in a total of seven whose chief means of livelihood was traffic in the stuff made illegal by Volstead. Included in the capture was a car, which was confiscated. Those apprehended were Albert Hill, George H. Pratt, Frank McLoughlin, William Miller, Roy Weedman, Manio Cheek, James Sternweis, recently released from jail after serving nearly two years for hog stealing, was another taken in the raid.
Pratt admitted to the officers, so it is stated, that he had been engaged in the liquor traffic over a period of five years, while Hill is credited with having sold booze in The Dalles during the past several months.

Old World Charm Meets
New World Conveniences

PLACING your house according to your lot is the privilege of the person who builds this practical dwelling of the English farm house type. The entrance is so arranged that the house may either be placed lengthwise for a thirty-foot city lot or crosswise for a 60 or 75
foot lot.

The design here calls for a combination of stucco and stained sliding with the roof of dark weathered shingles.
The pleasing features of the living room include its windows on three sides, open fireplace and built-in book shelves. The open porch or sunroom may open off from either the living or dining room. The kitchen has all the details that delight the housewife—cupboards, broom closet, breakfast nook and double windows over the sink.

The three bedrooms all have double exposures and are well provided with clothes and linen closets. The bathroom is so placed as to be equally accessible from each bedroom. The attic is ventilated and makes a serviceable storage or playroom by sheathing the rafters and sides with celotex, which serves both as a wall-board and insulating material.

This small home so light and spacious, yet compact and adapted to doing without a servant, is a typical 1928 product. The poky, dark houses of fifteen or even ten years ago with their poor planning would be scorned by the modern housewife who has learned to expect comfort built right into her home and to have everything planned for her convenience in working. Cold, draughty houses are also out of date. All well built houses, are insulated as this one is, with celotex sheathing on the exterior walls under the stucco. This effects a great saving in fuel in the winter and resists the intense heat of the sun in summer.
