BOX SOCIAL HELD NEXT WEEK

After Postponement Event Will Be Pulled Off At Legion Hall

Owing to the severe cold weather and snow the Community club box social, scheduled for January 6, has been definitely set for Friday evening, January 27, at Legion hall. The members of the club are making arrangements to make this the premier box social in the history of Maupin and each one is getting ready to cook up all the dainties they are able to make the event one long remembered by Maupin people.

White Buys Ranch Tract.

Acy White has purchased the Fred Magill homestead which lies above Wamic, in the timber, and will get busy at once cutting wood. The tract is just above the sawmill operated by Elmer Mink, has some clearing and being on the ditch, will make a fine dairy ranch. Mr. White will move on the ranch as soon as the condition of the roads permits.

Reappointed Notary Public.

Geo. McDonald has received his commission as notary public, and as soon as the document has been filed will be ready to continue taking acknowledgments. The new commission runs until January 10, 1932.

Revival Meeting to Start.

Rev. Hazen has concluded arrangements for a series of revival meetings to be held at the local church. The meetings will begin Monday evening, January 23, and will be prosecuted by Rev. S. S. Turley and wife, two prominent revivalists from Indiana.

Brought In Coyote Pelts.

Tommy Kingsley came in from his homestead Monday morning and on his back bore a big bale of coyote pelts. Tommy has been in the hills all winter and devoted his spare time to trapping and otherwise hunting the predatory wild dogs.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Dr. Short had a birthday last Friday. That he was not forgotten was shown by a receipt of a fine birthday cake, which our genial tooth artist distributed among his intimate friends. Usually a cake is surmounted by a number of candles signifying the number of years the recipient has lived, but in the case of Dr. Short's cake, it contained but one large hole in the center. It may be that the doctor had reached the age of 100 years, as signified by the hole; then again the cake might have been a big doughnut, a species of baking usually built around a hole.

Jess Temple proved himself a master at excavating a few days last week. He has entered into a partnership with Theodore Radtke in the Maupin garage and as soon as he showed up Friday morning Theodore handed him a shovel and directed him to the back room, where the dirt is being removed preparatory to putting in a concrete floor. Jess performed heroically for a time, then thought of a repair job which needed attention, and left the shoveling part to others.

Jim Chalmers took care of two business places last week—the Tum-A-Lum lumber company yard and his own shop. Oscar Renick was called home by the death of his father and left Jim in charge of the yard. We have not learned whether or not our worthy blacksmith used a two-foot rule in measuring lumber or some other scale, at any rate he got by with the job in good shape.

We have been asked by several why we did not include several eligible males in our leap year story last week, some being mentioned. We wrote only of real bachelors, not intending to include the names of several widowers—both sod and grass—in the list, and those we were told of have among them men who have had their fling at married harmony. (?)

The members of the Maupin Community club will give another of their excellent suppers at Odd Fellows lower hall tomorrow night. Of course all who partook of the last feed will whet their appetites preparatory to the coming occasion, particularly when they learn that chicken with noodles will be the chief dish.

Tygh Valley citizens are agitating the organization of a commercial club for the town. That is a step in the right direction. Maupin might emulate our neighbor and do likewise. It is a sure thing that, aside from the newspaper, there is no other thing that brings a town to the attention of the outside world as does a commercial club, and in that instance Maupin is woefully lacking.

THE BANK HOTEL

The one place in The Dalles to make the rancher and out-of-town fellow feel at home.

Get The Best!

Bates Shattuck is advertising a gigantic clearance sale in this week's Times. Bates has a fine stock of all lines of merchandise and desires to make room for new spring goods, and is making prices that are a revelation to all those who are in need of what he carries, as well as those who have an eye to the future. Some rancher has lost a fine shepherd dog in town. It is a large dog, fine dispositioned and is being fed by The Times folks and several of our neighbors. The dog is black with a white collar, white feet and a brush of white on the end of his tail.

SPECIAL OVERHAUL PRICES

As this is the dull season of the year and we desire to keep our shop force busy, we have decided to offer special inducements to car owners who want their cars overhauled and placed in shape for next year's use. Come in and let us tell you just what we will do the work for you. Remember our prices will be lower than those charged in the busy season.

The Farmers' Non Partisan Defender in Washington

You need this valuable newspaper in your home, because: You will receive FRESH NEWS every week, that is edited for farmers by men who know agriculture.

THE NATIONAL FARM NEWS gives the farmer and the rural town man an all-agricultural survey of the week's news, with a leaning toward the economics of production and marketing. The editorial staff is in close touch with the marketing machinery of the Agricultural Department and all the heads of the various cooperative marketing associations that are located in Washington.

WASHINGTON is the great clearing house of farm news. Every day brings the National Government into more intimate relationship with the country's basic industry—farming. Congress is just at the beginning of its real farm legislation. The wild scramble of blocs and policies that marked the past few years has subsided. But from now on there will be a steady, constructive program developed for the permanent improvement of farming.

Washington is the headquarters of the United States Department of Agriculture. This vast governmental agency is constantly at work on farm problems. It concerns itself not only with production, but with the business side of agriculture.

Washington, too, is the headquarters of many other branches of the Federal Government whose work touches in many vital ways the business of the farmers.

Most of the big farmers' organizations recognize the strategic advantage of being close to the governmental wheels. They maintain headquarters at the National Capital.

Washington is the center of farm news.

In addition to its news, The National Farm News carries some carefully conducted departments. For the housewife there is the women's page, where interests and matters pertaining to the household are discussed.

In addition to these features is an excellent legal department. Advice on knotty problems may be had for the asking, given by competent lawyers engaged in daily practice.

Then, too, there is a "Question and Answer" department for agricultural information. You may send in any question and it will be answered as quickly as space will permit. The Congressional Library is here and it has the largest collection of books in America.

The National Farm News is equipped to perform a real service for the farmer and to meet a real need in his business.

The subscription price is only $1.00 per year.
