JUDGE BUTLER'S CANDIDACY

Judge R. R. Butler's decision to become a candidate for the United States representativeship being relinquished by N. J. Sinnott will be welcomed by republicans in this part of eastern and central Oregon, who have long felt that Mr. Butler's political abilities rank him as worthy of national recognition.

The peculiar nature of the campaign which must be made in order to procure the "write-in" nomination will necessitate arduous work on the part of any candidate who hopes to win. Judge Butler will have a strong lead by reason of his popularity in Wasco, Hood River, Sherman, Wheeler and Gilliam counties. He is the present state Senator from Wasco and Hood River counties, and he formerly served as circuit judge for the latter three counties. Judge Butler will get many votes in these five counties, and he will stand an even chance in others in the district.

It is estimated that a maximum of 5000 write-in votes will win the nomination. The actual winning figure probably will be considerably less than this, therefore it may be seen that large majorities in the five above-mentioned counties will be a big factor in favor of Butler.

From the standpoint of ability Judge Butler is equal, if not superior, to all rivals for the nomination. He has a state-wide record for oratory, and the eloquence that has convinced many a jury would be a big asset in the national house of representatives when issues vital to Oregon are at stake. Also, Judge Butler had his political eye-teeth cut many years ago, and is thoroughly familiar with the maneuverings that often play an important part in gaining favors for a district.

The stork is said to be hovering about the home of the crown prince at Brussels. Which shows the old bird is still on the job and is favoring royalty this time.

When "30" was called on the career of Edgar B. Piper, late editor of the Portland Oregonian, it was a call which sounded wherever newspapers are read. By his writings he was known everywhere and that he has been called from this field of labor the press of the world, and that of Oregon especially, has suffered a loss that is irreparable. Mentally we turn a rule and recite his many virtues to ourself; they were known to all in this state and we refrain from publishing them in The Times for we could not do the subject justice.

WHY CHANGE

A New York lad who started as messenger two years ago has bought a seat on the New York stock exchange. Must have made connection with Sinclair's oil companies.

Portland baseball fans suffered no shocks so far this week. Two days traveling and one day rain left the team of that city in a state of status quo.

Politicians are worried because people do not take more interest in politics. If they did it might be bad for the politicians.

We have been told the bootleggers of Wasco county are legging for Chrisman. Wonder why?

Italy is shaped like a boot. No wonder Mussolini is eternally kicking about something.
