Criterion News Notes

A Few Reminders

Just to remind you 4H boys and girls:

That the county fair will soon be here.

That you may make your stock club reports now. You can estimate the feed cost and stock grain on what it is running now.

Cooking Girls—Are your reports filled out. Do it now. Do not wait till August 30. Make up your minds to have all work done by August 10.

Sewing Girls—Stitch on; do not let the bachelor boys finish their sewing first.

Poultry clubbers, Canning clubbers, Home clubbers, get busy now.

Mrs. P. J. Kirsch and children went last Sunday evening with Mrs. D. D. Wilson.

Mrs. Austin, who has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Dave Wilson, returned to her home at Forest Grove last Friday.

Jean Caton, who has been a guest of Louise Duus, returned to her home in Maupin last Friday.

Mrs. P. J. Kirsch and her husband's brother, Gus Kirsch, visited at the Cook homestead on Ridgeway last Sunday.

Mrs. H. Cook is visiting with her daughter, Bernice, and husband in Seattle.

Dave Wilson's threshing crew began work on Monday.

Jean Caton arrived at Criterion on Tuesday and will be a guest of Gertrude Kirsch.

Bonney Duus and Harry Ruthford were swimming in Deep creek last Sunday.

Harry Ruthford is assisting in threshing on the C. A. Duus place.

Bert Appling and Verle Bonney have started their thresher on Bert's place.

Our "ther." is lower this week.

Pine Grove Happenings

Jeese Crabtree and Merle Snodgrass visited with Cyril Fraley and Ella Shepflin at the Shepflin ranch last Sunday. Then the young folks went swimming at Tygh Valley.

A caravan of five rubber tired buuggies crossed Wapinitia Plains a few days ago, driven by agents of a store company of Akron, Ohio. They plan to start a canvas from Dayville. The old style travelers came up from California.

Jeese Cox has been taken to the Charles Cox home, being threatened with typhoid fever.

Roy Batty was host to a radio party on Thursday last, where the gathering listened in on the returns from the Tunney-Heeny fight.

"Doc" Wilkins moved his outfit into camp on Elk creek along the Frog creek feeder canal, where he will tackle the two and four-tenth miles section of the Wapinitia to Clear Lake road, between the Baker and Etna Insurance Co. work on the west. The Baker Construction company is closing camp at this writing having completed its three-mile stretch.

Brown of Mitchell has doubled his tractor crew and put on extra speed to keep in the clear on the time allotment on his job of road work.

Clear Lake continues to be the Mecca for tourists and campers. Some 200 spent Sunday there, fishing and enjoying the shade of the big trees.

John Confer and family drove stakes at Clear Lake last week.

J. S. Brown and wife went to Fish lake last Wednesday to move their boat from Ollalie lake to Fish lake.

John H. McFarlane is as busy as a cow with triplets supervising the construction of his new mill. McFarlane Bros. have established business connections with the Maupin bank and the merchants there and plans to become fixtures here for years to come. A goodly number of children will be added to the Pine Grove register by the McFarlanes coming in.

Lucile Walter has been helping as clerk at the First and Last Chance filling station.

O. S. Walters and sons are threshing and heading on their several farms, owned and rented, between Pine Grove and Wapinitia.

Ed. and Mary Florschutes, uncle and aunt of Mr. N. G. Hedin, are visitors at the Hedin. Mr. Florschutes, who is an authority on cucumber raising, is looking up local possibilities for cucumber culture on a large scale, naturally and by hot house culture. The visitors live at Glendale, California, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Hazel Laughlin is substituting at the Wapinitia hotel during her sister's absence. Gertrude is visiting at The Dalles.

Mrs. Henry Peterson spent the past 10 days at Maupin, returning to her home on the Flat last Saturday.

Dr. Geo. McDonald, superintendent of the U. B. conference, spent Saturday and Sunday at Maupin and Wapinitia on official duties for the U. B. local churches.

Par. Everett Hazen is rolling his sleeves and girding his ample waist line for the harvest fields, assisting as a real top hand, on various ranches, where he fits in very nicely. Rev. Hazen is not too proud or too soft to do real work of the so-called physical type in order to add to the all too small church salary receipts.

Wm. Sturges and Mose DeLore are through heading and stacking. Jesus Shepflin is in the tack of it, having about eight days of heading to do at this writing.

Ella and Julius Shepflin visited with Mrs. Shepflin and Bob at the Jaekkel ranch, above Wrentham, last Sunday.

Nova Hedin has been presented with a toy terrier pound pup—pot hound-go-get-em brand. Nova says the pup can whip her weight in meat seraps.

Oregon cluster hop crop estimated at 100,000 bales. About 80 cars fat lambs have been shipped from Yoncalla since May.

FARM REMINDERS

If every bit of leaves of gooseberry and currants affected with anthracnose or leaf spot could be completely destroyed before the buds start in spring the disease would be stopped, the Oregon experiment station finds. Growers cannot depend on this but must of necessity resort to sprays—one when the leaves approach full size and another as the fruit is picked—for the latter bordeloux 4-4-50.

Cultivating soil keeps down weeds and prevents caking of the surface oil thus allowing oxygen to go into the ground, stimulates root growth by keeping soil in a loose condition and gives the garden a well kept appearance.

Mash hoppers on the free range are located near the houses so that the pullets will eat plenty of mash.

Watering in dry weather is essential to healthy plants and is best done early in the day so the plant will dry off before night making them less susceptible to disease. Lack of moisture stunts and weakens the plants often causing flower buds to dry up, drop off or develop into worthless small specimens.

Hens used for breeders are chosen from fowls that have laid one year and proved to be good layers. A vigorous fowl that is in good flesh is best.
