tries sufficient to fill all races and there were run according to schedule, and to the satisfaction of all who witnessed them.

The free attractions, especially the work of the little Richards boys, who excel in acrobatic work, were of higher plane than usually seen at county fairs. All were clean, attractive and entertaining, and each turn was vociferously applauded.

The evening dances in the exposition building dance hall, were well attended and proved to be an attractive feature of the fair. The movies put on by C. M. Plyler were most acceptable and drew full houses each evening. The line of concessions were cleaner, more attractive and devoid of that loud bally-hoo usually accompanying such, and each did it to share of business.

The special days drew many from various parts of the county, especially on Friday, when a large delegation from The Dalles had possession of the grounds. That delegation was accompanied by the Boys' band and helped in "pepping up" the program of the day.

Right here is a good place to say something of the management of the fair. The association's principal officers, W. E. Hunt, president, and A. H. Gillis, secretary, have been busy for months with arrangements for the fair. Mr. Gillis has spent a great deal of his time taking care of the grounds, fixing up the track and getting entry tags, gate tags, and other necessities together for the opening. He has worked hard to have everything in readiness and that his work was done was shown by the completeness of arrangements on the opening day. He has shown keen interest in the welfare of the fair and his efforts to make each fair a greater and better one than its predecessor have been marked with success. Mr. Hunt has given of his time and money for the advancement of the Wasco county fairs. If it had not been for his liberality and interest in the institution there would not now be a grounds on which to hold our annual exposition. He has carried the financial end of the association. Their work has been most unselfish, each being prompted by a desire to make known to the world that this section of Oregon is alive and able to contribute its share to the general upbuilding and progress of our state. We wish there were more men herabouts of the spirit and determination of Messrs. Hunt and Gillis.

Sixteenth Annual Fair Best Held In Wasco Co.

FAR EXCEEDS IN POINTS OF INTEREST ALL OTHER LIKE EFFORTS OF EXPOSITION—GENERAL EXHIBITS MORE NUMEROUS AND BETTER QUALITY

The sixteenth exposition of the Wasco County Fair association has become history and goes down as such in a blaze of glory. It far exceeded all other efforts on the part of exhibitors and attendance was greater than ever before. To go into details and mention each individual exhibitor would tax the columns of this paper, therefore we will but generalize on the exposition. There was a larger list of entries of cattle, sheep and hogs, while the horse section was represented by more and better equines than ever shown in any fair in this section of the state. The horse entries clearly demonstrated the fact that while tractors may be more numerous on ranches, still the horse is coming back, and those employed in agricultural work are of larger size, better breeding and better stamina.

Dairy and beef cattle were there in abundance, each kind showing a vast improvement over those shown previously. In fact the showing made certified that this section is going into dairy cattle stronger each year, while the strain of such cattle is improving, there being many herds hereabouts containing none but thoroughbreds. Jerseys, Holsteins and Guernseys predominated at the fair.

Sheep and hogs were at the grounds in heavy numbers. Nearly every breed in each division were on show, and each class called forth praise from many who make a business of producing such stock.

Even the poultry section was well filled with birds that would win blue ribbons at any show. The poultry house was filled with ducks, chickens, turkeys and geese, while per stock such as pigeons and rabbits occupied many pens.

In the exposition building was the largest and finest collection of grains, grasses, vegetables, fruits, women's handiwork, club members showing, Indian bead and leather work, canned fruits, and the thousands and one things which go to make up a superior exhibition. The showing was such as to open the eyes of strangers to southern Wasco county, and clearly showed that this section is second to none in the matter of such products. The 4-H club members' showing was greater, of better quality and more diversified than ever before and the members who won prizes merited them on the excellence of their exhibits.

The races were many and varied. While Klickitat county drew some horses that otherwise would have been at our fair, still there were en-
