Smock Prairie
Looks rainy today.
Farmers who have sowed about are anxiously looking for rain.
H. L. Dodge is moving to the Mayfield house for the winter.
J. E. Woodcock and W. E. Kershner are hauling in their alfalfa.
B. C. Scott is filling his silo with the help of his neighbors, having purchased E. T. Felch's corn crop for silage.
Rev. F. C. Stevens of Dufur is circulating about Smock this week, working in the interest of Christ's kingdom. Services were held for the past two nights at Mrs. Bradley's.

R. Rufer, recently purchased a cow from J. E. Woodcock for shipment to Portland.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Woodcock were callers on Mrs. Bradley Monday evening. Their daughter, Carmel, returned to Portland on Sunday for treatment for rheumatism.

Elmer Kramer is at work for B. C. Scott. Mr. Scott reports that Elmer spent two days of last week in The Dalles looking for work but failed to find any. Unemployment is a "boogy" when it comes to Wasco county.

Leslie Woodcock and Vernon Hill are out of school this week, attending the fair at Salem, being winning members of the Pig club.

FOR SALE—Dixie Peason's gentle saddle only together with saddle and bridle, all for $25

Mrs. Bradley is preparing to leave Smock in the near future.

NOTES FROM MAUPIN SCHOOLS

Vacation Thrills
(By Elton Snodgrass)
Cyril Fraley worked during the harvest, spending his vacation on the "end of a pitch fork handle", as he says.
Orville Fraley and Ira Kidder rode driving down The Dalles highway on three wheels. They were able to control the car somewhat, the vehicle sliding one hundred and forty yards.
Aliene Greene visited in Portland seeing this town from an airplane, and claimed she was very near Heaven.
Doris Kelly's vacation was spent mostly with friends in Portland and the remainder in the mountains. There she picked one or two huckleberries. The rest of her time was devoted to swimming.
Estel Stovall worked in the Maupin bank all summer, intending to hunt in the mountains a short time before school, but was unable to follow plans, so went to the seashore for three days.
Merle Snodgrass decided she would rather be a "Hello" Girl than a dishwasher on the ranch.
Elton Snodgrass took his vacation as chief dishwasher and had a wonderful time.
Kenneth Snodgrass helped protect out National forest against fire this summer.
Gladys Martin spent her time washing dishes and waiting table at the Rainbow restaurant this summer.
The thrills of the remaining students have been promised for a later issue.
It is time for the students to begin their library reading. Mr. DeVoe ordered fifty books from The Dalles, which arrived Monday morning. Quite a number of the books have already been drawn from the library.
Misses Genevieve and Adeline Seethoff, the former being a graduate of the 1928 class, were visitors at the school on Monday.
Each student in the grade school has been sent a small sample of the well known breakfast food, Creme of Wheat, by the manufacturers of that product. We'll tell you how they like it in next week's news.

Gretchen Seethoff, who attended school here last year, visited her classmates. Monday Little Roy Mayhew also was a visitor on Monday.
Miss Harris reports that the library sent them fifty books, which will be used for reading. They are studying geography from "Red Feathers," a supplementary geography book.
Those who have gone to the state fair at Salem from Maupin High school are: Arthur Appling and Elizabeth Rutherford. Elizabeth won her trip on sewing while Arthur will represent Wasco Co. in agriculture. Those from the grade school are Betty Slusher, Theodore and Ernest Kirsch. Betty won her trip on her excellent cooking. Arthur and Theodore left Saturday and Elizabeth on Tuesday.
W. A. Granelle, representative of Dank & Co. of Portland, called on the Seniors Tuesday and showed them sample of class ring and pins. The class selected two rings and two pins, which they wished to be sent to them at a later date for use as samples.
Each Friday some of our music students are to give special selections at the regular singing assembly. Mrs. Bothwell has volunteered to help in the preparation of these numbers. Everyone enjoys these recitals. Doris Kelly responded last Friday with a piano solo, "Dream Pictures."
Did the civics class know what was up? Yes, they certainly did, when they saw their civics instructor carrying a typewriter up the street Wednesday evening. The following day came fifty true-false questions from which our grades on the first four chapters will be determined.
The senior class had their first meeting Friday afternoon. Officers were elected at this time. Kenneth Snodgrass was elected president, Merle Snodgrass secretary and Arthur Appling treasurer.

Mr. Lillard, a representative of The Columbia Publishing Company, came to the High school Wednesday. He gave instructions on salesmanship, in order that the students might understand how to offer. The Ladies Home Journal, The Saturday Evening Post, and The Country Gentleman. The school was divided into two contesting teams, the Red and The Green. Merle Snodgrass is captain of the Reds while Estel Stovall leads the Greens. The school receives 50 cents of every subscription sold and 60 cents if 90 per cent of the students make sales. The winners will be entertained by the losers after close of the contest.
The manual training boys are providing a temporary bench for the two grade girls who play the piano. Later on a better bench will be made. The boys are also constructing a turning bar for the fifth and sixth grades.
The football team is progressing, except for a few minor accidents. Games have been scheduled, one with Madras at Maupin, October 6th; with Dufur at Maupin the 12th, with Wapinitia here the 19th. Some arrangements have been made with Grass Valley for a game but the date has not been definitely set. The dates 2nd, 12th, 17th, and the 24th are open and may be filled later.
The chemistry students have begun the study of "Hydrogen." The subject seems interesting, although quite difficult.
The seventh period of the day has been set aside for physical exercise for the girls. They seem to be enjoying themselves.
The sewing class has spent the week reviewing the operations of the sewing machines. They are using a treadle machine and an electric. This class has used the simpler attachments, such as the hemmers and rufflers. At present they are practicing on tailored, or bound, button holes.
Eyes bothering you? See Dr. Clarke, EYE SIGHT SPECIALIST, in Maupin on Monday, October 1st, at the Home Hotel.
