

1928-1929

We wish to acknowledge our appreciation of the most liberal patronage accorded us during the year just closing. Especially do we appreciate the friendly feeling existing between us and hope for a continuation of same.

We extend the season's greetings and wish you one and all

A Most Happy and Prosperous New Year

Personalities

Low Henneghan is out again after a siege of the flu.

Tom Gallagher and family took in a show at The Dalles Christmas evening.

Gus Derthick, wife and daughter, Fannie, shopped at The Dalles last Saturday.

C. E. Tunison is spending a few days at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lester Crofoot.

Mrs. Jean Wray is again at her work in the Wilson store, after a week's wrestling with the flu.

Miss Winifred Kaiser is spending her holiday vacation from the State University with her parents in this city.

Freddie Shearer at 10:30 from S. C. and took in the Christmas program at the church here Sunday night.

Ernest V. Doty and children partook of Christmas dinner at the Dolph Goetjen home in Tygh Valley Tuesday.

Ernest Confer and family have been at the home of Mrs. Confer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dyer, this week.

The Kelly Cyr and George Morris families spent Christmas at Bend, where they visited with Mrs. Cyr's parents.

Miss Jean Wilson arrived from Portland Saturday and is spending the Christmas week with her parents in Maupin.

D. L. Rutherford, wife and children came in from Criterion Sunday and attended the doings at the church Sunday night.

J. W. Temple and wife spent part of Christmas day with their daughter, Mr. Gordon Metteer, and husband, coming from The Dalles.

Mrs. Arthur Creighton is in Seattle, where she is visiting with her daughter, and where she will remain until after the holiday.

Mrs. P. W. Knowles, sister of Mrs. L. C. Henneghan, spent this week at the Henneghan home, coming over from her Dufur home.

Miss Ella Shefflin came up from her school at Portland and is spending her vacation with her father and mother, and brother, Robert.

Elmer Talcott, son of W. H. Talcott, is visiting with his brother, Dee, at the latter's ranch this week. Elmer makes his home in Sacramento, California.

George Lofton came over from Tygh Valley Christmas, accompanied by his parents, the three spending the afternoon visiting with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Gus Derthick, and family.

A. W. DeVoe and wife departed Friday afternoon for Spokane, where they will spend the two weeks of vacation. Mrs. DeVoe will visit with her parents and her husband will attend to settling up the affairs of his father, recently deceased.

Snow and Chinook
The old saying that "a green Christmas makes a fat graveyard" was well knocked out so far as this section is concerned by a generous snowfall on Monday afternoon and night. Christmas was a regular eastern white day, the air being tangy and the snow crisp underfoot. That night however, a chinook wind came up and by Wednesday evening a trace of the snow was left, that being on the hillsides. Today is rainy, snowy and altogether uncomfortable, especially under foot.

Almost a Hospital
The H. F. Bothwell residence has taken on most of the attributes of a hospital, there being five cases of flu therein. Three of the Bothwell boys—Charles, Douglas and Jack are down while Mrs. Lucile Cantrell and her little daughter are also numbered among sufferers with the ailment.

Little Girl Improving
Little Norva Nye, who has been ill at the home of her grandparents, John Confer and wife, is reported to be on the gain. Norva was first attacked with scarletina, during which pneumonia set in and at one time threatened her life. At this writing she is improving and it is hoped will soon be able to be out.

Big Crowd at Dance
The Christmas dance given by the local Legion post was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. The music was furnished by Sexton's Columbians from The Dalles, and proved an inspiration for all on the floor. A large crowd turned out and each one seemed to enjoy himself to the limit.

The Christmas Program
The program and tree at the U. T. church Sunday evening was well attended and greatly appreciated. The little ones had been carefully drilled in their offering, the chorus and choir, made up of well known singers, rendered appropriate carols and the visit of Santa Claus, who was portrayed by "Kelly" Cyr, with his baskets of Christmas goodies, made the affair one long to be remembered.

On Way to Arizona
R. W. Richmond writes from a northern California point and says he and his party expected to reach Los Angeles on Christmas day. They found the climate of the coast too damp for Floyd, and after a short stay at Los Angeles will proceed to Tucson, Arizona. The members of the party were well and were enjoying the trip greatly.

Changed Location
In writing The Times asking a change in his postoffice address, Jack Staats said he was now located at Dillard, Douglas county. He has been living near Portland all winter, but evidently has gotten hold of something better than he had in Multnomah county.

Dance Postponed
The Shady Brook Community club had scheduled a dance for their hall on this week Saturday. This office got out bills announcing same, and then came word that the dance had been postponed. No doubt the prevailing epidemic of flu had something to do with the postponement.

It's Another Boy
Maupin's population grew by one last night, when Mr. Everett Richmond presented her husband with a brand new son, the little fellow arriving at 11:45. Both mother and son are O. K. With two little boys and a girl the family of our worthy councilman has reached the average in number and in a few short years Everett will be depending upon his sons for relief from the arduous work of conducting a service station and truck line. Congratulations from The Times as well as many other friends.

Staits Improving
W. H. Staats, who has been under the weather for some weeks, is making progress toward health and is expected to show up about his usual haunts soon. Bill has been having a spell of overworked nerves and that has caused him considerable worryment aside from the weakness engendered by the ailment.

Very Thoughtful
The local Rebekah lodge members are most thoughtful regarding the condition of all, whether members of the order or not. The day before Christmas several members of the local lodge called on several ailing ones, leaving beautiful carnations and ferns as a cheer for the sick. It is such acts as that which show the spirit of the order and endears the members to all.

HOME POINTERS
A standard material, as serge, always gives better value for the money than a material of some new weave.

Deer has an influence on the wearer as well as on the observer. One loses self-respect when dressed in a ragged or soiled garment. An over-dressed or inappropriately dressed woman is uncomfortable herself and wins the respect of others with difficulty. Good nature may be increased or decreased as the clothes worn are clean, comfortable and appropriate, or the reverse. Perhaps on first thought it may seem an exaggeration to say that neat clothing is a factor in virtue, but observation will prove it is easier "to be good" when properly dressed.

The faded appearance of a blue garment may be counteracted by rinsing it in a strong bluing solution. Other delicate colors may be dipped in a dye solution of the same color. Time is saved by having bottles of various colored dye solutions on hand.

The color in wash fabrics may be set by placing the material or garment in a strong solution of salt water and letting it stand until the water is cold.

An excellent paste for cleaning silverware is made by using one tablespoon of ammonia, three of soft water. Stir in enough whiting to make a thick paste. Rub this on the silverware with a soft cloth, let dry, then rub it off with a flannel, and polish with a chamois skin. Whiting is obtainable at any drug store.

(A once-a-week service to weeklies and semi-weeklies)
Always feed the dairy cow at regular hours. Dairy cows are very sensitive to changes in feeding routine.

Varietal names of corn mean little; but knowledge of where a strain has been grown and how it has been selected is all important in choosing seed for planting.

Few people realize that wet leather "burns" much more readily than dry leather and often spoil their shoe by putting them while wet on hot radiators, pipes, or stoves. Shoes should be dried very slowly in a place that is not too hot. They should not become hot to the hand.

The flavor of the humble onion has a place, but it is not in egg. Avoid feeding onions—or any other highly flavored products—to laying hens kept in bare yards without access to green feed, as under these conditions the eggs produced will taste of the products.

All you need for waterproofing shoes is a little petrolatum and beeswax. Melt the materials together at the rate of one pound of petrolatum and two ounces of beeswax and apply the grease while warm, but not hotter than the hand can bear. Another simple formula for the same purpose is four ounces of cod oil and 12 ounces of tallow. Grease softens rubber, so rubber heels on shoes should not be treated.

Strains of common alfalfa grown in a mild climate do not take kindly to the severe weather in the north and it is good policy for the northern farmer to use seed that was produced under climatic conditions at least as severe as where the seed is to be sown, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In the south, preference should be given to southern strains, as they usually produce a somewhat heavier tonnage where the winters are so mild that a cold-resistant alfalfa is not needed.

OREGON NEWS NOTES

Wheeler—Westwood Lumber company reopens electrically operated mill here; 500 men will be eventually employed.

Portland—Oregon State Highway Commission recently met delegation from Curry county to discuss construction of Pogue River bridge on Roosevelt highway.

Dufur—Dairy industry prospering in this vicinity.

ELEVEN YEARS AGO

From The Times Dec. 28, 1917
Mrs. W. L. Morrison, publisher of The Times, announces the birth of a fine little daughter to her and her husband, the little Miss arriving December 14.

A card from Lee Jackson from Pocatello, Idaho, conveys the information he was on his way to France. He has signed for work in the French forest service.

Johnny (Jack) Morrow arrived from Fort Worth, Texas, to spend Christmas with his parents. He expects to go to the front soon.

Ernest Confer came over from Seattle to spend Christmas with his parents.

The new United Brethren church at Wapinitia was dedicated on December 23. Bishop Washinger and Superintendent McDonald had charge of the exercises. The band boys from Maupin and Wapinitia were out and added greatly to the musical end of the dedication.

Arthur Rice, who has been at Long Island, N. Y., or some time, writes his parents at Wapinitia that he will sail January 6th for France.

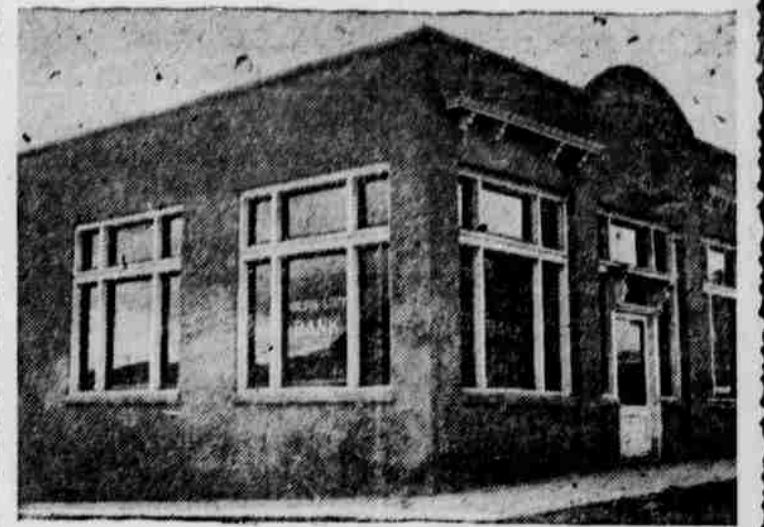

It has come to light that George Cunningham and Christine Dyer quietly went to Vancouver on November 23, being married there that day. Upon their return they were greeted by many friends and in the evening a charivari party enlivened things around the Dyer home.

Seas. Roebuck & Co. contributed a check for $15.00 toward furnishing the new church at Wapinitia. The money will be used in buying window shades, etc.

Pick Ups About Town

Bill Schilling has been up to his ears in work lately. He had just completed overhauling an ancient Ford when one of the bread wagons was hauled to the garage. The driver had failed to notice the oil feed pipe had come loose, with the result that all the bearings had been burned out. Bill, with his faithful helper, Gus, took the car apart, working the better part of the first 24 hours on the job, then putting in about 18 hours each day until

Holiday Greetings

We take this means to express our appreciation of the exceptional business accorded us during the year just closing. Our business during the year past has been the best in our history, and it is the patronage of our friends that has made it so. To our patrons, and to all others, we extend our wishes for the car was made ready for the road.

Freddie Anderson did not enjoy his Christmas dinner at the place he intended to visit. On the contrary he partook of the good things dished up on that occasion from his bed. He managed to fall from the top of the decking of the false work of the new bridge, sustaining a badly smashed foot along with many other bruises and contusions.

"Dad" Richmond, in writing from northern California, says that the air on the sea coast is too salty and damp to suit him, therefore he will be to Arizona where the atmosphere is more to his liking. It is evident Dad is not built to live near the sea, he preferring a land where the tang of sage and hot east winds prevail.

Jess Temple and wife came over from The Dalles for to eat Christmas dinner with their daughter. Jess cursed the weather a little, the stringency in the money market more and the leanness of this year's turkeys still more. At that he professed to be glad that he was allowed to still clutter up a certain amount of space on this mundane sphere.

Joe Kramer has endeared himself to every little one in this neck of the woods. By taking the initiative Maupin little ones, yet, and some of the older ones, too, enjoyed a community Christmas tree, and especially did they enjoy the sacks of candy, nuts and fruit handed them by Oliver Resh as Santa Claus.

Low Henneghan says the flu is no respecter of persons. It makes no difference the social status of people, whether they are rich or poor, the old flu takes them all in. He has just recovered from a siege of the ailment and says: he does not wish anyone to an attack of flu. When it comes to bone boiling, muscle binding, throat roughness and a feeling of general don't-give-a-darn the flu has it all over any winter ailment extant.

Low Wilhelm has the right of it. He likes to "sit in" on a game of penuche but desires that he be treated with the deference his age demands. When that consideration is not shown him he uses good judgment in refusing to patronize the place where he received the affront.

Tom Gallagher, now that Christmas with its attendant store duties has passed, has gotten down to real work and has taken down all decorations he put up in the Shattuck store. When it comes to window dressing, sign writing or explaining the good points of his goods, Tom is there with all four feet, as was shown by the magnificent patronage enjoyed by Shattucks during the season just past.
