GETS PREDATORY ANIMALS

Trapper Fulkerson Takes in Bobcat and Two Coyotes

R. C. Fulkerson, government trapper stationed here, killed a sheep-eating bobcat Tuesday, catching the animal across from the mouth of White river. The cat was given credit for killing seven of the Connolly lambs on Monday night and was a very large specimen of feline. Fulkerson also killed a large female coyote on Salt Spring canyon last week, it having eight pups.

He succeeded in killing a sheep killing coyote in Devil's canyon, getting the animal the latter part of last week. That coyote had been working among the sheep along the river.

Winter Killed Quail—

While setting out poison in Butler canyon Trapper Fulkerson noticed many dead mountain quail. He says that where there were large flocks before the extreme cold weather of last winter, but one of two are seen. He also told us that he found many dead porcupines, they having perished thru lack of food.

Takes Martin Residence—

Bobby Davidson has rented the Alvis Martin residence and as soon as the Martins go to The Dalles will move into it. Bobby will thus live on the main stem and be more accessible to those who desire his services as a truckman.

Pick Ups About Town

We have had occasion to remark about the skill of Bill Schilling in welding and his knowledge of the auto repair game. We still insist that Bill is all to the candy when it comes to the auto game. Nevertheless he had a peculiar experience one day last week, happening thusly: Bill went to Dufur to tow a car in, driving a Ford. On the way the carburetor became loosened and separated from the Lizzie. Unconscious of the fact Bill kept on and when he reached Maupin discovered the loss. In that respect a Ford is like an old-time Campbell cylinder press—take everything off but the cylinder and the blamed thing will still do fair printing.

Wilson the painter has returned from his winter's sojourn at his home at Silverton. He called at this print shop Tuesday and bemoaned the weather, saying that at Silverton he experienced some warm days but in this section he ran into a young winter. Now that he is here, however, he proposes to stick and gather in a few jobs of painting.

John Mannon has resigned a clerk at Hotel Kelly and has gone back to his original love—working with sheep. John has been employed by Farghers and is as busy as the proverbial ant in helping take care of the little woolies as they make their advent into the world, to them, of grass and mountain climbs.

Ernest Doty had a peculiar experience one day this week. He had sold a number of sheep pelts to a dealer of The Dalles, who, while on his way home lost a couple of the hides. One of them was picked up by a traveling man who sold it to Ernest. Our worthy warehouse man, realizing that the pelt had been lost and surmising who lost it, was not willing he should lose it altogether, so purchased it from the finder. Mr. Hide Dealer was thus compelled to repurchase his hide, learning the lesson therefrom to tie his load more securely when preparing to make a drive with it.

Fressie Martin is employed at the new Shell oil plant. All he has to do is to keep the earth loosened so a scraper can gather up a load to be dumped in another place, pick rocks out of the loosened earth and wear a pick handle out in so doing. Of course Fressie doesn't think that is work, but to us we know of several, yes, a whole lot of things, we'd rather do.

Lester Crofoot works on the new bridge, and keeps busy at all times. We were there Tuesday and observed Lester yieing a hand saw, making little sticks out of long ones. Lester says directing a hand saw is all right providing it is sharp, but when he is given a straight edge and directed to separate fir sticks with it, well, he'd prefer a flat file as a tool.
