

Arrangements Complete for Bridge Dedication

STANDARD TABLES INSTALLED AT SHATTUCK'S

Self-Service Tables Gives Room for Better Display of Hardware Goods

The Shattuck store is now rearranged, both in the hardware and grocery departments, the arrangement tending to a better display of goods and a saving of room.

Bates Shattuck has just completed the installation of eight tables they being recommended by the National Hardware association and term "Standardized Display tables." The tables are built with compartments below, the tops being surrounded with rails. To these rails are attached glass partitions, so arranged that compartments of any desired size can be built. A price clip is attached to each separate compartment, these containing a slip telling the price of the article in the box. The tables are so arranged that customers can walk around them and pick out the articles desired. The lines of hardware displayed are nearly all small, although some of the tables contain chinaware and glassware.

The grocery department also has undergone a complete rearrangement. Some of the counters have been changed from the front to the rear and now rest at the rear of what once was the mens furnishing department. A series of step shelves have been elevated above the rear counters, the sink removed and its former position occupied by stock cases. The cash register has been carried to the rear, next the regular wrapping counter, thus effecting a saving of many steps in the course of a day. The new refrigerator case occupies a prominent position near the front of the grocery department.

The whole arrangement speaks for more room, better service and a saving of much labor, and at the same time gives chance for a better display of goods. The public is invited by the management to come in and inspect the improvement, whether they purchase or not.

DIAMOND LAKE YIELDS MILLIONS TROUT EGGS

Take Short of Last Year's and Other Lakes Make up Such Deficit Says Ryckman

Diamond Lake will yield a take of eight million rainbow trout eggs for the hatchery department of the state game commission, this season, according to Matt Ryckman, superintendent, who has just returned from Central Oregon. The number falls far short of that taken last season but the unusually large yield from Crane Prairie and Spencer creek makes the total take in excess of that of 1928. "Diamond Lake was frozen over to a depth of three feet and as a consequence many of the fish spawned near the shore line," said Mr. Ryckman. "The ice was three times as thick this season as it was last year, and that accounts for the shortage of rainbow eggs."

He received the unanimous vote of the meeting. Mrs. N. G. Hedin was re-elected as clerk. Although the meeting was slimly attended all present showed great interest in school matters and entered into matters connected therewith with emphasis. ### CASE FOR HUMANE SOCIETY

Drovers Leave Crippled Colt on Highway to Starve

The horse buyers who last Sunday shipped a bunch of Indian ponies from this place are candidates for investigation by the state humane society. With herd of ponies was a mare with a crippled colt by her side. The colt was weak and could not keep up with the herd, so the drovers deliberately left it on the highway, not seeming to care whether or not it starved to death. The case should be taken up by the authorities and the heartless drovers made to suffer for their infraction of the law looking to the protection of weak animals.

VISITORS EXCEED LAST YEAR'S

Registrations Within State More Than in May, 1928

With the advent of spring, the call of Oregon's climate and scenic outdoors is answered from every entrance to our state, and reports from the bureaus maintained by the state department for the registration of nonresident cars give promise of the usual busy tourist season.

During the month of May, the number of visitors registering within the state was 7,671, about 400 more than for the same month in 1928. From past experience, it is expected that the number will be doubled for the month of June, this acceleration continuing during July when the registrations will no doubt be well on to 20,000 for the month.

Boy Scout Camps at Scout and Lost Lakes

Will Open July 7th and August 11—Two 10-Day Periods Provided For Scout Vacations

With the approach of summer, comes the thought of camp, and the Boy Scout camps for this summer will feature that important part of every boy's development, swimming.

A Senior Red Cross life saver, Alvin Howlett, of Portland, will be in charge of the water front activities, conducting a swim period for advanced scouts, and a separate period for beginners. The aim and slogan of the camps of this year will be "Every Scout a Swimmer." The morning period for swimmers will start at 10:15 and continue for 45 minutes, while the afternoon period will start at 4:00 o'clock for the same length of time.

Beginners will take the water at 11:00 o'clock for a half hour, and again at 4:45 p. m. for 45 minutes, which will enable the guard to give instruction in both fundamentals and the test work that must be done before a Scout can become first class, or receive the merit badge of athletics, swimming and life-saving.

Camp Ringwaak, located on Scout Lake, near Suttle Lake, in the Central Oregon playground area, will open July 7th for two weeks for Scouts, and an additional week for the Boy Rangers, if a sufficient number, of at least 25 can attend at that time. Reservations for this camp are being received by Don H. Peoples, 118 Oregon street, Bend, Oregon, who announces that prompt reservations are necessary to enable the camping committee to make proper arrangements.

Camp Limberlost at Lost Lake, 28 miles from Hood River, will open August 11th for two ten-day periods closing on August 30th in time for the scouts to return home and be ready to enter school after Labor Day. Reservations for Limberlost to be made or mailed to Courthouse, The Dalles, Oregon. Scout Executive, W. W. Belcher, will be the Camp Director at both camps.

A new camp award, an overseas cap, will be given all scouts when they reach camp. This cap will have space upon it for the placing of the different letters denoting the points the wearer has earned with the honor point system used in these camps. These awards will be different from any past year, and will make any scout proud of them.

RECIPE FOR HOME BREW

Comes Within the Law and is Easily concocted

We have been looking for a recipe for home brew for 10, these many years and believe the following will appeal to all those who would keep within the law and at the same time enjoy the privilege of indulging in a glass of German delight. Read the following and then, if you are so disposed, proceed with the manufacture of a batch of home brew:

Chase a bunch of wild bullfrogs three miles over the hills, gathering their hops as they proceed. Add to the hops ten gallons tan bark (this to give proper color) one pint of shellac and one bar of strong laundry soap. Boil the mixture 36 hours then strain through an I. W. W. sack to keep it from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick. Then pour a little in the kitchen sink. If it takes the enamel off the sink it is ready for use of those who usually drink ordinary moonshine liquor and should be bottled immediately. This is guaranteed to come within the limit of the Vollstad law.

Beginning Monday next Wernmark will sell several broken lines of shoes at rock bottom prices; all late styles.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

INDORSED BY NEWSPAPERS

Intensely Interesting Newspaper Story at Legion Hall Sunday Night Next

John Ballard, editor and publisher of the "Free Press," supports the law in its battle against the underworld. His son, Bill Ballard, who is a reporter on the paper, falls in love with June Wescott, after rescuing her from a wrecked taxi. The reporter later learns that Miss Wescott is a ward of Daniel Steele, the power behind the underworld. Steele and the elder Ballard are old friends, the editor not knowing the extent of his friend's sway in the underworld. Ballard and his star reporter, Callahan, work to uncover the real power. When the railroads have a playground closed through crooked methods, a child playing in the street is killed in an accident. Ballard accuses Steele in an editorial of being the cause of the child's death and that night a mob, led by the child's father, attempt to attack the underworld king's home. They are driven away. Boss Maloney one of Steele's henchmen, is delegated to kill Ballard. On the eve of an election for mayor the editor is killed. Before dying he turns over the proofs of Steele's guilt and enough facts to keep the underworld's candidate for mayor from being elected. Steele and Miss Wescott call on Bill asking him not to print the stories, but he refuses. A bomb is planted by Maloney in Bill's office, but young Ballard is not injured. When the building catches fire, the loyal staff goes to work on the presses and the edition is safely put on the streets. As officers come after Steele for the murder, he gives his ward to Bill and then shoots himself. Bill and June embrace.
