 MAUPIN, OREGON

Mrs. W. H. Staats went to Portland yesterday and will visit with relatives there for a few days.

Floyd Richmond and wife were in from the Badger creek ranch on a shopping visit Saturday last.

Mrs. Bobbie Davidson and little daughter are at home again after a visit with her parents at Hood River.

Mrs. Gus Derthick and Jim Vaughan and wife visited with the former's husband at The Dalles last Sunday.

Ed. Yeaton, foreman with the road oiling outfit, drove to Shaniko last Sunday in quest of living quarters.

Newton Crabtree is still at Scio, to which place he went to attend the annual reunion of the Crabtree clan early in June.

J. M. Conroy and family were in from their Shaniko ranch Tuesday evening and attended the mission meeting at the Catholic church.

F. E. Sedey and wife and Miss Maggie Wray came up from Portland Saturday and spent that night and Sunday at the H. E. Wray ranch.

R. R. Miller, brother of our "Shorty" Miller, from Salem, spent several days recently with his brother and family, returning home Tuesday.

Mrs. A. C. Martin and Mrs. Nettie Fuller came from The Dalles Saturday and spent from that time until Sunday evening with the John Confer family.

Miss Helen Weberg is again at her work at the Shattuck store; after having spent a couple of weeks with friends in the Valley and at Portland.

Dr. Stovall, wife and son, Estel, were visitors at the county seat on Monday, the doctor going there to attend a meeting of the district Boy Scout council.

Andrew Cunningham and wife returned from Los Angeles Saturday, they having been called there at witnesses in a case connected with gas and oil property in which Mrs. Cunningham is interested as one of the heirs.

Shearing Hunt's Sheep—
 The Kistner sheep shearing crew is busy at the Hunt sheep corrals in Maupin divesting the Hunt sheep of their wool. There are about 3,000 sheep to be sheared and the job will take all this week.

Choir at Church—
 The choir which furnished the singing at the mission meetings at the Catholic church this week was made up of W. H. Staats and wife, Mrs. James Woodcock, Mrs. R. E. Wilson and Mrs. George L. Morris.

Brought in Trucks—
 Joe Kramer and Art Morris went to Portland Tuesday and when they returned each was driving a new Ford truck. One of the vehicles will go to the Warm Springs Indian agency, while the other is for one of two men who have placed order for such gasoline buggies.

Pick Ups About Town

The spectacle of a little colt being left on the highway to starve or being taken care of according to the tender mercy of passer by, is one that demands the attention of the state humane society. Those horse drovers who were guilty of the inhumane act should be made to pay for their dirty work. Some drovers have been haled before the court because of like action in the past and this instance is one for drastic action.

Bill Schilling is rejoicing because Ben Fraley brought a new welding outfit back from Portland Monday. Bill is all to the good when it comes to sticking broken pieces of iron together, but the old equipment he has been using was antiquated, too much so for good work. Now, however, Bill has a chance to show just what he can do in the welding line.

Jass Derthick is at home from the sheep range. His legs gave out on him, and he says that climbing the hills while chasing sheep was a little too hard on stems that have carried him around for the past 58 years. He will stick around town until harvest and then help garner the wheat crop.

Leo Fischer drives an oil truck, working with the crew now oiling and graveling our highway. Leo is a lover of trout. As a fisherman, however, he is outclass ed by almost any lad in Maupin. When it comes to eating the succulent fish he is there with both feet. He says he can eat his fill of trout three times daily and top off with a bunch of same before going to bed. Wonder what he will do for fish when he leaves the banks of the Deschutes and moves to Shaniko.

Bill Williams has a pet fox puppy he calls "Dingbat." Tuesday Bill cut up a rabbit for fox feed and took "Dingey" in his arms to feed it a piece of bunny. His hands carried some blood and the little fox smelling it, sunk his teeth into the fleshy part of Bill's thumb. We advise our worthy pioneer to wear a pair of sheet iron gloves when feeding his pets hereafter.

Bates Shattuck is preparing to take a vacation, which time he will spend close to nature at some of our noted lakes. Bates has been a busy man since taking over the Wilson stock and is entitled to a time away from worry and work. At that we'll bet he will occupy his mind with ideas looking to a further improvement of his store and how he can make it more convenient for both customers and store help.

Personalities

Aaron Davis and family spent Sunday with friends at Dufur.

Wm. Woodcock of Wamic was trading in Maupin Tuesday morning.

Elmer and Bert Hammer were in town from the Flat on business yesterday.

Ben Fraley and son, Orville, transacted business at Portland on Monday.

Mrs. Geo. Darger of Spokane was a guest at the "Kelly" Cyr home over Sunday.

John Conroy of Sherars was an attendant at the mission meeting on Tuesday evening.

Jass Derthick has severed connection with the Yeackel sheep bands and has returned to Maupin. An attack of flu last winter so affecting Jass's legs that he found climbing the hills an impossibility, hence his return.

"Bo" Wilson concluded his visit with relative in Portland and came home on Sunday.

O. F. Renick and son, "Buzz" were at The Dalles Monday, going done on business.

D. L. Rutherford and wife were down from their Criterion home on business yesterday.

Mrs. Chas. Walker and daughter, Mi s Mammie, were Portland visitors the first of the week.

F. D. Stuart was a man from Maupin who was a visitor at the county seat on Tuesday.

A. A. Derthick came over from Dufur this morning and spent the day in Maupin with relatives.

Joe Kramer and Nick Karolus took a new Ford truck to the Warm Springs agency this morning.
