A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS

Four Victims Call on Dr. Elwood in One Automobile

A chapter of accidents kept Dr. Elwood busy at divers times during the past week. At one time a car drove from Wamic, containing young Tom Woodcock, who had had his hand caught in a separator belt, sustaining a badly lacerated hand; Ralph Chandler, who had fallen off a header, getting a broken shoulder at the time; his little daughter with a dislocated elbow, and Mrs. Wm. Lucas, who came in to have a fractured rib made whole.

Albert Hachler of Wapinitia was in to see the doctor and seek surgery from the pain, caused by a dislocated elbow. Orville Davis sustained several broken ribs and a strained back, caused by a trip rope breaking while unloading hay at the Frank Fleming ranch on the highway. He was thrown from a load of hay by the breaking of the rope. Another Davis, thus one being John who works on the Hinton ranch, who sought the good offices of the physician to set several broken ribs and a wrenched back. His accident occurred when he attempted to ride a horse into a barn, the equine slipping on a concrete floor, throwing the rider off.

A man named Worlman, with his wife and two other ladies, was coming toward Maupin from the Wapinitia market road last Thursday evening. As they were turning into the highway their car skidded and turned over, throwing the inmates out onto the road. Mr. Worlman sustained a wrenched ankle, his wife a severe cut on one leg, one of the other ladies had a deep cut back of one ear, while the other one was badly bruised and shaken up.

The same evening a party of tourists, coming from Montana, went into the ditch at the top of the White River grade. Both occupants of the car jumped to the road, the man receiving a cut on his head and the woman a cut above one eye.

Will Go to Madras—

Dr. W. A. Short will leave for Madras Sunday evening, going here on his regular monthly visit to look after the grinders of Madras people. Dr. Short is receiving a liberal patronage from people in that section. His work meets with approval and that fact is shown by the increasing number of people who call on him and solicit his dental services.

will be on the grounds for the entertainment of the customers. One ure thing to be mentioned is that both a fine merry-go-round and Ferris wheel will be on hand, and possibly a novelty ride, something never before seen in these parts.

It is up to the people to put the air over. It is a thing that belongs to them and if they desire a continuance of these shows they will turn out and help make the fair a success. We have the most prolific part of Wasco county about this section; our crops have been better than was expected earlier in the season and all should wear an air of optimism and make arrangements to attend the Wasco County fair all week days. Come out and pull for still better and greater agricultural exhibitions.

Young Kentucky Man Handles Millions

Cousin of Maupin People Made Head of $300,000,000 Bank in New York

The following story from the Wayne County (Kentucky) Outlook, published at Monticello, that state, has to do with a cousin of Mr. H. E. Wray and Mrs. M. I. Shearer of this section. The subject of the sketch was recently appointed to the vice presidency of the Bank of the United States, a $300,000,000 concern in New York.

The special, with a commentary of Mr. Oliver Vickery's life in his home town paper, reads like a romance and is given below:

(By Russell Harriman Jr.) New York, July 25—One of the most outstanding achievements of financial success accomplished in a short space of time has been the good fortune of Oliver Vickery, of Monticello, Ky., who has just been appointed vice-president of one of New York's biggest banks, The Bank of the United States, with resources of $300,000,000 at 70 Wall St. In addition to Vickery's many other responsibilities, he is in charge of the call loan market for the account of out of town banks and bankers. The amount of money that changes hands on his signature runs into millions of dollars.

In searching the history and antecedents of this dark eyed boy who is by all appearances still within his twenties, we find a report that sounds like a great romance and adventure in a story book. Coming to Wall Street unsung, unknown, and unheralded and making a success has been accomplished by others and with the stretch of the imagination one can understand this, but taking a 7-day stiff entrance examination, a Vickery did a few years ago in one of the nation's leading universities, and passing above all others with only a 7th grade school education as a background, and then graduating four years later with honorable mention, is too much even for the imagination. Oliver Vickery is a genius.

Immediately out of college he began with out money, influence, or family connections to build up a good reputation for himself in California; later extending his good will making from San Francisco to New York by creating out of nothing and for reasons best known to himself a national college finance fraternity and becoming its president. Thru his sincerity and untiring efforts the organization is today the wealthiest and perhaps the most constructive college fraternity in the world. Its list of paid up members reads like a bank directory and "Who's Who" of America. Over 3 millions of dollars are represented by the members. Ollie saw them all and when he sees, he tells.

During his brief visits to New York he lost no time in making it his business to make business with bank presidents. What he says to them is not known, but it works. And how!

Young Vickery has a very pleasing personality so characteristic of the southern gentleman, but the most pleasing thing and the factor that interested my father in him, is his not being puffed up about anything. Oliver said, "to be a banker on Wall Street of a Kentucky Hill Billy, is a matter of environment, it's all in one's own life. Mind is all powerful, life is all spiritual." After all, he continued, "what is money anyway, if it isn't a mental concept based on faith? Wall Street bankers are

Prepare Your Children For School Entrance

Have Children Examined for Physical Condition Before Sending Them to School

A great many parents take advantage of determining accurately the physical condition of their children before sending them to school. These parents are to be congratulated for their foresight in having their children fit to enter school. If your child has not had a thorough physical examination, you do not know the condition of your greatest asset—the health of your child.

Pre-school child health examinations are being held all over the United States. The purpose of these examinations is to discover conditions that need attention, that would handicap the child, or would make him susceptible to disease if left unremedied. The physician pays particular attention to the general health as indicated by weight posture, heart and lungs, hearing and vision, throat and nose, and teeth. When corrections are needed, the parents are urged to go to their family physician for advice and treatment.

You want your child to enter the school well and strong. The progress of his school program is dependent chiefly upon his health. Physical defects make mental progress difficult. You doubtless know that diseased tonsils, decayed teeth, impaired vision and hearing will handicap the child in school. Three out of four children who enter school have correctable physical defects. It is important that your child have a good physical examination. Make an early appointment with your physician. Present a copy of his report when the child enters school.

Now is the time to get ready for school. In order that your child may enter school physically fit he should have a health examination. The doctors of this state are co-operating in a plan to see that every child is in good physical condition.

This summer the way can be smoothed a little by attending to some necessary matters. Every child should be vaccinated against small pox before he is sent to school. The administration of toxin-antitoxin is equally important and is becoming a routine in some counties. The physical handicaps of the child should be determined. All defects that can be remedied should be attended to before school opens.

Attended Legion Convention—

Carl Pratt and wife attended the recent Legion convention at Salem, they being there on the 8th, 9th and 10th. Carl represented the local Legion post as delegate while his wife went as delegate from the Maupin Legion Auxiliary. They report a good time and say that many thousand Legionnaires and auxiliary members were in attendance.

just as human as my former Kentucky school Ma'm who used to beat me because I wouldn't learn. The public should make an effort to understand bankers. The trouble with most of us is that we manufacture a queer brand of inferiority complex and are not human ourselves when we meet so-called big bankers.

Oliver pays a beautiful tribute to his parents: "My father is the most honest man I have ever met, and my mother is the most religious!"

The parents of this boy wonder can be proud for Wall Street is of the opinion that he will continue to add good-will and bring great credit to his name.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION DATE

Taxpayers Notified When They May Kick Against Their Taxes

County Assessor Will L. Doud has a notice in this issue of The Times calling attention of taxpayers to the meeting of the county board of equalization, which will convene at the court house, The Dalles, or Monday, September 9, continuing in session for two weeks. If you are dissatisfied with your assessment then is the time to meet with the board and register your kicks. All objections must be filed with the board during the first 15 days of the session, and the board may be in session longer than the advertised time if necessary.

STABILIZING WHEAT MARKET

Federal Farm Board Asked to Stop Speculative Gambling

The federal farm board received many insistent appeals last week to buy up the surplus wheat and store it, in order to stabilize the market and stop the speculative gambling and uncertainty, but the board declined and decided to wait the perfecting of the machinery of the farmer's national grain marketing corporation, which is designed to handle such emergency. The board also announced: "If the farmers can be induced to hold back their shipment past the congestion period, the effect of stabilization will be accomplished and the farmer generally will be benefited by the slower marketing movement."

GOES BACK TO CANADA AGAIN

Clifford S. Andrus Will Suffer Second Deportation

According to yesterday's Oregonian Clifford S. Andrus, the fellow who was arrested at The Dalles a short time ago on a charge of having stolen an auto from Portland and who also drove a stolen car to Maupin after having seduced a Maupin girl into a fictitious marriage is now in the Multnomah county jail. He was taken there from The Dalles last week and is being held under detention by the immigration authorities.

Roy Norens, chief inspector for the department, says that Andrus was deported to Canada last September and that he came back to the state unlawfully shortly afterwards. The deportation was from Seattle.

CRABTREE INSTALLS MODERN DAIRY EQUIPMENT

Covers Requirement of State and Makes for Better and Purer Milk

Job Crabtree has recently installed a modern dairy equipment and patrons of his dairy need have no fear of getting other than milk which has been taken care of in a modern sanitary manner.

The equipment consists of a steam boiler which is connected with a sterilizing unit, this containing 144 bottles at one time. Vats are arranged for washing milk bottles and at the same time sterilizing them. When the bottles are placed in the vats each receptacle is washed with a revolving brush, after which it is rinsed in hot and cold water and then given another sterilizing by live steam, emerging as bright as is possible to make glass.

After the bottles are filled they are placed in a cooler, where they remain until time of delivery. A filter and capper has also been installed. The new arrangement precludes all handling of milk by hand and guarantees milk to be as pure as is humanly possible for it to be.

Mr. Crabtree has a modern dairy barn and his herd of milk cows number 12, each of which is of good breeding and a good milker. The name of Crabtree milk is spreading and new customers are being added to the already large list weekly.

VALLEY RAISERS SELL WHEAT

Mills and Warehouses Get Bulk of Willamette Grain

The wheat raisers of the Willamette Valley are selling their new grain to the mills and warehouses more generally this season than in past years. The uncertainties of the last year have made them doubtful about holding over for better prices and they are accepting the $1.18 to $1.20 per bushel which is now prevailing. Considerable wheat has been coming into Portland the past several days by trucks and a large per centage of the farmers through Washington and Yamhill counties are selling instead of storing their grain.

'GRIP OF THE YUKON' SHOW

Vivid Story of Life in Arctic Regions Sunday Night

The next offering on the screen at Legion hall, which will be on Sunday night next, will be a play telling of life in the arctic circle amidst the gold fields of Alaska. The story is vivid in its situations, illustrative of mining life and carries me far away to the everlasting ice fields and vicissitudes of vendetta, love and adventure. Prices will be 15 and 35 cents. The bill also will include a news reel and a laughable comedy.

Dr. Clarke of the Clarke Optical company, 221 1/2 Washington Street, corner Sixth, Portland, Oregon, EYE SIGHT SPECIALISTS, will be in Maupin all day and evening, Sunday, August 18th, at the Home hotel. SEE HIM ABOUT YOUR EYES.
