REASON FOR ROAD CONDITION

County Board Awaiting Action of State Highway Commission

Much has been written concerning the condition of the Wapinitia market road and much profanity has withered the grass along that route. Recently The Times man made a trip over the road and when he returned home was ready to take a well-earned rest. Why is it not fixed up? is the question. Here is that reason:

About the time the cut-off road was graded members of the state highway commission signified a willingness to take over the market road and make it a part of the cut-off highway, even going so far, so we are informed, as to enter into an agreement with the Wasco county board to make the move. Later one member of the state board suggested that a new road be constructed, that to run from the Brown service station diagonally across the country to connect with the Dalles-California highway. Awaiting the state's action the county board has not made any move to remedy the condition of the market road, with the consequent result that that part of the county's road system is in a deplorable condition. When the state makes a move to take the road over and make it a part of the state system, then, and we think, then only, will travel over the market road be made with any degree of comfort and ease.

Sheridan—Sheridan Sun changed hands.

ELEVEN YEARS AGO

From The Times August 23, 1918. Willie (now called Bill) Miller has received a call to report for military service between the 3rd and 6th of September.

Word was received here recently to the effect that Quincy Morrow had sailed for "over there."

So far this month we have had considerable rain and very little warm weather. An August like May. (Different this year.)

Writing from a rest camp in France Jack Morrow tells his father he has been at the front the past two months, and that he was in the aviation service.

Word has been received here that Soldier Cavallo from Wapinitia had been killed in France. John Gavin writes The Times this week that he had received a letter from the supposed killed soldier, written at Bordeaux, in which the writer states he was "fat and sassy." He was supposed to have been killed in May, but his letter was dated July 29, which proves that reports are of times erroneous.

Cecil Chastain met with a peculiar accident on Sunday. He was helping push a stalled car up a hill when the vehicle started up. A tent pole, containing a nail in the end, protruded, and when the car started Cecil stepped back, the nail catching him by the left ear, nearly severing the member from his head.

G. I. Dertick, now in the navy, was home from Bremerton a few days the first of the week.

While in the mountains last week Orrin Farlow killed a large black bear and now his neighbors at Snook are eating bear steaks.

Pick Ups About Town

For some time past the rancher on Juniper Flat have been crying for water. Some of them imagined there would not be sufficient for stock and household purposes. As a disclaimer of that idea Lloyd Woodside has personal evidence that conditions were not as bad as painted. One day last week he was moving his combine to the Roy Batty ranch. Entering a particular field the combine went to the hubs in mud, the plunge requiring the assistance of several additional horses for extrication. That is an evidence the soil on the Flat holds moisture to a great extent.

Among the lovers of flowers among the ladies of Maupin is one woman who guards her blooms with the intensity of a watch dog. She is ever alert to the acquirement of new varieties of plants. Recently she discovered a strange bush in her flower garden. She watered it and took care it was not injured. It grew and thrived. One day recently she called on a neighbor, also a flower lover, and asked for a diagnosis as to the shrub's kind. Imagine the dismay of the first grower when the neighbor pronounced it a healthy specimen of sage brush.

Kelly Cry is bemoaning the ruin of a pair of pants, incidentally a badly bruised leg. Monday evening he was working at the slaughter house. He attempted to go from one part to another and doing so had to travel over a plank walk. His attention was attracted to a couple of "chink" pheasants and he paid no attention to where his steps were leading him. Suddenly he awoke to the fact he had stepped through a hole in the walk, which caused the rip and bruise. Kelly admits he alone was to blame, for he had declared an intention to fix the hole, but procrastinated. This goes to prove that "procrastination is the thief of time" and in this instance a breeder of bruises and torn pantaloons.

"Out of the mouths of infants come wisdom." Besides there are many ready sayings originating with little ones. A case in point: Recently our little grandson endured a trip against a dish in the hands of his grandmother. This caused a crying spell, which his maternal guardian attempted to quell. As the crying ceased the boy was asked if he wanted a drink of water, to which he replied, "Can't hold watty, head boke."

Later he intends to equip a vehicle with seats and will then advertise a passenger stage to and from The Dalles. A long felt need.

"You are coming right to the front, aren't you?"

So observed an officer of this bank the other day during an interview with a young business man. "Yes," he replied, "and your friendly, helpful counsel and banking service have been important factors in my success. . . . And, by the way, your bank is coming right to the front, too! And, deservedly—if the constructive assistance you have given me is a sample of what others receive."

The above, and many more commendations, show the relation in which we stand to the business interests of Southern Wasco County.
