YOUNG RANCHER KILLED NEAR OLLALIE LAKE

Ramsay Man Victim of Falling Limb While on Fire Line in the National Forest

Fred E. Gibson, a Ramsay rancher, aged nearly 47 years, was killed by a falling tree while fighting fire near Ollalie lake last Saturday. His neck was broken and skull crushed in by the impact.

Co-workers brought the body to the old Oregon trail and Bert Thomas of the Crandall Undertaking company conveyed it from there to The Dalles, a distance of about 75 miles, to The Dalles.

The funeral was held from Crandalls on Tuesday, the remains being laid to rest in The Dalles cemetery.

Gibson was at work on the fire line. He was standing near a tree, the roots of which burned off causing the tree to fall. He was directly in its path and before he could escape to a place of safety was caught by a limb, sustaining injuries as above noted.

His death causes mourning in the hearts of a widow and son, Durewood, aged 22 years. Mrs. Gibson is a school teacher, having last taught at Wolf Run, this county. Their home was on the ridge between Eight and Fifteen Mile creeks, where they had resided for several years. Before going to that section Mr. Gibson followed the trade of plasterer in The Dalles, and leaves many friends, each of whom deeply sympathizes with the stricken wife and son.

STOPPED GAMBLING AT FAIR

Constable Hedin Nips Game at Out-let—Confiscates Spindle

A couple of young fellows imposed on Secretary Gillis at the late fair and secured permit to operate a spindle on the grounds. Gillis was led to believe that the game was one where prizes were given winners. The game began but not with prizes, money being the medium of payment to those who were lucky enough to have the pointer stop on numbers chosen by them.

Constable N. G. Hedin, with an eye to infractions of law and order, sped the game and upon investigation proved to his own satisfaction the game was illicit. He acted with a promptness that surprised the gamblers and took away the outfit, thus effectually stopping further operation of the game. Hedin has received some criticism for his action but he was in the right and demonstrated to the gambling fraternity they would not be tolerated on the ground of the Wasco County Fair association.

New Car Haywire

Tuesday Ed. Griffin of the O. T. depot, was coming up the hill from the depot. He had reached the bridge and attempted to turn on that structure and was met by a car coming from the east side. Griffin's Dodge was struck on the right side, losing a fender and having the running board badly dilapidated. The injuries to the car show that Griffin was on the wrong side of the road, but as he was turning onto the bridge there is an excuse for his detection from set road ethics.

Painting Road Sign

George Wilson, the painter, is hard at work on a road sign which will be placed at the intersection of The Dalles-California and Sherman highways. A great many travelers are misled by the show sign now on that location, and it is for the purpose of calling attention to this place that the sign will be raised.

Boys and Girls Vie in Contests With Boys Excelling in Many Events

That the youngsters of this section are up and doing was evidenced at the recent county fair. There were contests in many divisions in which both boys and girls participated, and a many of which the boys excelled their sisters. The work of all was most commendable and shows just what training and application will do. The winners and the classes in which they were entered follow below:

Corn, Harry Rutherford. Wheat, hybrid variety, Vernon Peteron. Forty-fold wheat, Harry Rutherford. Potatoes, Theodore Kirsch Harry Rutherford, Ernest Kirsch and Bonney Duus. Rabbits, Frank Faught. Homemaking, Elizabeth Rutherford, Ethel Kidder, Nina Matthews, Jean Renick. Camp cooking, J. Slusher, Harry Rutherford and Ivan Donaldson.

Cooking, Division 1. Helen Hall, Elizabeth Rutherford, Harriet, Rorick, Betty Slusher and Jeanette Hulse. Division 2, angel cake, Betty Slusher, Elizabeth Rutherford, and Doris Ward. Canning, Elizabeth Rutherford, Nova Hedin, Rethia Turner, Betty Slusher, Avis Crabtree and E. Confer. Cookery, Elizabeth Rutherford, Dorothy Hood, Mary Slusher, June Statzer and Nova Hedin. Demonstration teams, breakfast, Dorothy Read and June Statzer; table setting, Elizabeth Rutherford and Jean Renick; removing stains, Nova Hedin and Nina Matthews; school lunch, Kathleen Loley and Allen Wilson. Jelly, June Statzer, Jean Statzer, and Margaret Wiley. Patching overalls, Ralph Kaiser, and Theodore Kirsch. Bachelor sewing, Theodore Kirsch, Ernest Kirsch and Ralph Kaiser. Sewing division 1, Harry Slusher, Doris Ward and Gertrude Hillgen; division 2, Marcella Race, Nova Hedin, Olive Brooks, Nina Matthews and Dorothy Hood. Specials, Betty Slusher, Elizabeth Rutherford, Doris Ward, Lura Adkins on, Margaret Hedin and Ernest Kirsch.

It is considered something of an honor to be accepted into the fellowship of the order, since but one funeral director in each community can belong. The requirements are high, and only such funeral directors as have a full understanding of the ethics and ideals of the profession completely measure up to the standards set by this order. The order lays particular stress on the necessity of rendering a service to humanity in the time of need that is modern and comprehensive, and at the same time so moderately priced that it is within the reach of all, even those in the most humble of circumstances.

The Golden Rule funeral director in each community identifies himself as a member of the national order by means of a symbol, which consists of an armored knight with raised visor who supports with his right hand a shield, bearing the motto of the order "Service Measured not by Gold but By The Golden Rule." In his left hand the knight grasps a drawn sword, as if to signify his readiness to defend the high principle inscribed upon the shield.

We feel that this community is fortunate in having in its midst a member of an order with such high ideals, and that the Crandall organization is particularly congratulated upon having achieved this distinction in their profession.

ON IDAHO FIRE FIGHTERS LINE

W. W. Richmond "Starved" and Busted Around in Blazing Forest

W. W. Richmond returned yesterday morning from a trip on the fire line which took him to the shores of Lake Pend Oreille, in the panhandle of Idaho. He left The Dalles a week ago Monday, going to Spokane and from there to the fire line. Arriving there he, with several other men, was left by the foreman with instructions to await his return. They stayed in that spot 36 hours without food, having had to catch trout to allay their hunger.

Upon the return of the foreman the party was transferred to the forces of the Lumbermen's association and then taken further inland. The fighters left were not even given credit for the time they spent in isolation. Later Richmond was discharged and received a ticket entitling him to passage back to Wasco county. He spent over a week on the road and in the forest, receiving but $6.12 for his time. He came home a sadder but wiser man.

In Woodcock Cottage

Prof. DeVoe and wife rented the Woodcock cottage next the Ernest Troutman home, and will be there for the school year. They were lucky in finding a suitable place in which to camp.

ROAD TO BE COMPLETED LAST PART OF OCTOBER

Six-Inch Base Will Be Laid and a Four-Inch Topping Next Year

We have learned from reliable authority that the Wapinitia cut-off will be completed, ready for the gravel not later than October 31st this year. Next year a four-inch topping course of gravel will be laid. Then that highway will be in fair shape for travel. This last section is of heavier construction than that of the completed portion of the road, which has an eight-inch base.

It is promised that this road will be kept open all year. Some of the road beyond Government Camp is reconstruction work, several dangerous and narrow curves being widened and rounded out, making travel much safer.

Regarding the Wapinitia market road, the county has promised to put it in first class condition by the time the main cut-off road is completed. This probably means that the market road will be worked over next spring and summer, to be finished with gravel and oil not later than 1931.

Gravel stock piles are to be placed ready for the oiling crews, which will follow the grading some time in 1931.

Annual Shoe Sale

We call our readers attention to money by buying at Wernmark's shoe store in this issue of The Times. That firm has reduced price on all lines of shoes, and is displaying an attractive line of school shoes for children. You can save money by buying at Wernmark's. All his goods are of the best and are going at prices within the reach of all.

Going to Conference

Rev. Everett Hazen and family will leave for Spokane and the annual U. B. conference, which will be held at the capital of the Inland Empire from the 12th to the 15th of this month. They go early so as to enjoy a visit with relatives in the Palouse country.

FARMERS TRADE WHEAT FOR LOCAL MADE FLOUR

Central Oregon Milling Company Doing Excellent Business This Season

Many farmers of this section and from near by places have been trading wheat for their season's flour, among them being H. E. Morrow of Kent, who traded 25 sacks of wheat for 37 sacks of Perfection flour, and Sam Burns of Madras, who brought in 27 sack of early Baart wheat and took home with him 42 sacks of Maupin-made flour, W. E. Crews, also of Madras, traded 32 sacks of wheat for his winter's flour last week.

The milling company has made delivery of a considerable amount of flour, having taken 20 barrels of flour and five bales of hotcake flour to the Erickson store at Bend; a ton each of flour and feed to the Baldwin Sheep company on Hay creek; 15 barrels of flour to the Gavin & Wheeler store at Shaniko as well as a ton of flour to the See Mercantile company at Warm Springs.

The Central Oregon Milling company recently purchased 750 sack of Early Baart wheat from S. E. Bender of Madras. That company is making a superior quality of flour, and is receiving orders from new customers every week. Its other cereals are also coming into renown, as is shown by increased orders.

BODY OF BLIZZARD VICTIM FOUND ON CASCADE TRAIL

Skeleton Found at Foot of Sister's Mountain Thought That of Dalles Man

What is thought to be the remains of Henry Cramer, Jr., who, with a companion, Guy Ferry, perished in the Cascades during a blizzard on Labor Day, 1927, was found by mountain hikers from Eugene and Salem last Sunday afternoon. Henry Cramer, the father, and son, Luther, went to the scene of the find Monday and will endeavor to determine whether or not the remains were those of the missing son and brother. They expected to meet a party from Lane county, headed by the coroner of that county, and if the remains proved to be those of the missing man will bring them to The Dalles for burial.

Extended Search Made

After the disappearance of Cramer and Ferry, following a Labor day blizzard in the Sisters area in 1927, an extended search was made but not a trace could be found and hope of locating the bodies was finally abandoned.

Found by Hikers

The skeleton was found by a party of hikers from Eugene. It was in an open flat near the second lake between the Middle and South Sister, two and a half miles from the Skyline trail.

Identification was partially made by means of gold fillings in the front teeth, one in a back tooth and a belt buckle with the initial "H". The man had been dressed in a sweater coat and in a pocket was a pair of goggles.

Mr. Fry, president of the First National Bank of Salem, who was a member of the party making the discovery, reported that the skeleton lay undisturbed. The right arm was folded across the body while the left lay by the side as though the dead man's companion had laid the body out in this manner, it was stated.

Both Cramer and Ferry had been students at the University of Oregon.

After discovering the skeleton, Fry reported his find to the Lane county coroner.

LOCALS FIGURE IN WEDDING

Dorothy Harris and Doris Talcott Are Recently Married

Miss Dorothy Harris, who for two years was a teacher in the Maupin schools, was married at her parent's home, Portland, on Sunday evening, her chosen mate being Roger Wilhelm, stationed at The Dalles, where he is connected with the state engineering department of the highway commission. The newlyweds will be at home to their friends in a new home on Fair street at the county seat.

Miss Doris Talcott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Talcott of Juniper Flat, became the bride of Clair Barnett of Klamath Falls store of the Marr system, the couple taking out the necessary license last Friday. The bride is well known to many here, she having been brought up here. She is a young lady of many attainments and that she has chosen wisely in her selection of a helpmate goes without saying. The Times extends best wishes to both the above couples and hopes their married life may be one of continued happiness.
