ter a cousin of Mrs. R. E. Wilson, are guests at the Wilson home and will be here a fortnight. Mr. Rollinson came up to recuperate from a throat ailment.

Crabtree Improving—

Andrew Crabtree, who went back to the hospital at The Dalles for the purpose of being under care of his physician during recovery from a recent operation, is improving and will soon be at home again.

Visiting Daughter—

W. P. McFarland and wife, parents of Mrs. Dr. L. S. Stovall, coming from Corvallis, are in the city on a visit with their daughter and family. They will remain during the rest of this week.

Ernest Home Again—

Ernest Kramer and wife returned to their Maupin home last evening after enjoying a vacation of better than three weeks. While away the Kramers visited the stock show at Portland, called on friends in various Washington cities, and otherwise enjoyed themselves. That was the first vacation Ernest has had for over a year.

Directors Monthly Meeting—

The officers and directors of the Maupin State Bank met in regular monthly meeting at the bank on Tuesday. Routine business was transacted. Those attending were President Henneghan; Vice-President Stovall, Cashier Stuart; Assistant Cashier McDonald, and Director Brown.

Visited in the Valley—

Ben Fraley and wife spent a part of last week and this visiting with Mrs. Fraley's folks in the valley. They returned on Wednesday.

Pick Ups About Town

We sometimes wonder does it pay to monkey with moonshine? The law says nothing but the very smallest alcoholic content shall be allowed in beverages, yet there are those, ye editor among them, who indulge in contraband liquor more times than is good for them. Let's observe the law, and try to make our country as dry as the Sahara, then we might be allowed to procure a bottle of that beverage called "German courage" by some once in a while.

The case wherein a sheepherder sued his former employe for personal damage for injuries received when the employer's car left the highway, and in which the plaintiff secured payment of $750.00, as balm for his wounded feelings—we doubt much whether he was otherwise injured—has worked an injury to all those who are compelled to seek the good offices of car owners when desiring to go to the county seat or other places. That case places the owner in a peculiar position, for he is liable for all injuries that might accrue to his passenger in case of accident. As a result it will be harder for us to "pear" a ride when we want to go to The Dalles on business once each week.

Those dance attendants who lost their hats Saturday night are but casual victims of the petty larcenist. To lose a hat is exasperating, especially when having to go home through frosty air. Again the act of stealing such a thing as a hat stamps the thief as being entirely without conscience. It may be he steals the hat to keep his brains—if he has any—warm, for it is only a chilly-brained imitation of a man who thus replenishes his wardrobe at the expense of others.

The coming supper of the Ladies Aid promises to be something different. The ladies have arranged to serve supper cafeteria style, and the spread will take place of the regular evening meal at the Maupin cafe. Mr. and Mrs. Shearer having obligingly given over the time to the Aid. While listening in on plans we learned that about everything imaginable will be on the bill of fare, that numbers on the menu will be marked in plain figures, so that all participating may determine just the amount they want to pay for their meal. The date will be Saturday, November 16, the place, the Maupin Cafe.

We have asked delinquent subscribers to relieve our poverty by coming in paying their arrearages, and in a few instances some have responded. There are some on our books who pay no attention to statements sent them, seeming to think the publishers of The Times can get along without eating, wearing clothes, buying paper, ink, rollers and the many things needed in the printing of a newspaper. Some of those delinquents are notorious as being slow pay. We ask that they get hold of themselves, make up their minds that
