ENTERPRISE HAS ENTERPRISE
 The Oregon City Enterprise showed real enterprise last week by publishing a mammoth edition of that paper. Every industry connected with or adjacent to Oregon City was mentioned in the issue, as well as write ups of prominent citizens, pioneer settlers, early history and innumerable topics of interesting facts pertaining to one of the earliest formed communities in Oregon. The issue was well printed, profusely illustrated and evidenced the thoroughness and competency of the editorial and printorial force of the Enterprise. Publisher Brodie has no excuses to offer for the edition, as it was one of the best yet to be published in the west.

Crane—Central Oregon Telephone company installed new switchboard at central office in this city. Joseph—Newly constructed plant at this place dedicated recently.

Cafeteria Supper—
 The Ladies Aid cafeteria supper at the Maupin cafe Saturday evening promises to be the event of the season in Aid circles. The members have been busy concocting delicatessen dishes for the feed and when time comes for the meal there will be dishes of all descriptions laid out to tempt the appetites of the many who will attend. The kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Shearer in donating the use of their kitchen and dining room with the necessary accommodations will be greatly appreciated by the members of the Aid.

and Addie Wray "snapped" them. Among them were eight coyote, three skunk, one bobcat and one badger hide.

Has New Studebaker—
 "Kelly" Cyr is now numbered among those elite who enjoy riding in and owning a Studebaker car. Kelly traded his Chevy in on the Study and he is now sitting as straight as a regular chauffeur at the wheel of his new car.

Down From Troutman's—
 J. H. McMillan, who has been nursing Troutman's sheep flocks during the past season, has come down from the ranch and will sojourn in Maupin for the winter. Mac has put in a long season and is entitled to the rest he will now take.

Fine Fur Display—
 R. C. Fulkerson brought in a number of pelts of predatory animals he had taken lately. He displayed them on the drug store fence.
