COUNTY WILL HAVE CHANCE TO BUY FAIR GROUNDS

Movement Under Way to Place Matter on Ballot at Coming November Election

A movement is on foot, in fact petitions have already been drawn up for the placing of the purchase by the county of the fair grounds in Tygh Valley measure on the ballot at the coming November election.

Up to this time the county fairs have been carried on by a private corporation. That body has erected all necessary buildings, improved a half-mile track, installed a water system and has provided for premiums each year.

By making a special levy of from one-tenth to one-twelfth mill a sufficient amount to pay for the grounds would be raised, and this without increasing taxes to any appreciable extent.

The voters of wasco county will do well to consider this movement and when election day rolls around if they vote for its adoption they will have done something that will prove of lasting benefit to all people of the county.

OUR HUNTERS SCORE AGAIN

Fulkerson and Halbrook Get Into List of Animal Killers

R. C. Fulkerson and E. T. Halbrook, the former stationed at Maupin, the latter on the Deschutes at Bend, have been active in rounding up coyotes the past month.

During the month 14 hunters captured a total of 271 predatory animals, they being 258 coyotes and 13 bobcats, one hunter, Chas. B. Brown in Malheur county, killing 12 of the cats.

LAND OWNERS DISCUSS ASSESSMENT AT SHANIKO

Decide Present Levy is Too High on Lands Classified as Grazing Areas

A large number of grazing land owners living east of the Deschutes river met at Shaniko last Saturday and discussed taxation matters.

Nearly 40 people assembled at Shaniko in response to a call for a meeting of those paying taxes on grazing lands in Wasco county.

H. C. Rooper opened the discussion, reading an extract from the code, relative to the valuation of property for taxable purposes.

Taylor said the excessive taxation lowered the selling price of the land. People couldn't pay the present tax; on it and make anything out of it.

Cram said $3.00 was out of reason. He had bought a good deal at $1000 and up to $1500 a section, but wouldn't buy an acre at over $1000 per section.

Mr. Doud explained that so much money had to be raised and if these lands were assessed lower, rates would have to be raised, which did not come into the question at all.

Finally it was concluded to form an association and elect temporary officers to take such action as seemed to them best.

Afterwards the directors above met and listened to the county officials and informally discussed the situation.

SHIPS CARRY OREGON WOOL

23,000,000-Pound Total to Go to the East Coast

Tuesday's Oregonian contained the following story about the movement of Oregon wool to the East coast:

Because of the large volume of wool moving from the Pacific northwest through Portland to the Atlantic coast, the American-Hawaiian Steamship company is diverting the steamer Mexican from Puget sound to Portland loading, and this vessel will take virtually a full cargo of wool here.

The steamer Georgian, on her regular schedule in the American-Hawaiian service, was loading at terminal No. 1 yesterday and will go to Longview today, departing from here tonight for sea.

The steamer Pennsylvanian will be due in Thursday in regular service and will load about 7000 measurement tons of freight here, mostly wool.

C. D. Kennedy, district manager for the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, yesterday in announcing the coming of an extra ship estimated the wool movement through Portland this year at 23,000,000 pounds, the largest on record.

W. E. Johnson, general claim agent, and A. S. Powers of the treasury and auditing department of the American-Hawaiian, both of San Francisco office of the company, were Portland visitors yesterday.

Ging to Snohomish

PAUL BUNYAN MISSED ONE SECTION NO. 37

The Forest Log Digs Up Such a Section in Klamath Lake District

It is generally believed by all credible foresters, lumber jacks and other timber savages that Paul Bunyan is responsible for the absence of all sections 37 in the United States system of rectangular survey having hooked Babe, the blue ox, to each section 37, dragged it to the river or lake shore where the timber was removed and high water allowed to wash the land away.

Additional feeding ponds are being built at the Oak Springs hatchery and these will give ample feeding space for the new hatch.

CHAMPIONSHIP WON ON FOUL IN FIFTH ROUND Max Smeling, German Pugilist, Wins Heavyweight Belt in Fight Last Night

"A king is dead; long live the king," is cried at the demise of one ruler and the accession of the crown by the heir to the throne.

Sharkey was the aggressor in all rounds fought, although Schmeling showed he possessed both staying and hitting power.

By gaining the decision Schmeling wins the doubtful title of champion heavyweight pugilist of the world.

WATER FLOWING ON FLAT REACHES ALL PARTS THEREOF

Irrigation Conditions on Flat Are Best in Many Years With Plenty of Water

Paradoxical as it may seem the fact remains that there is now more water flowing down the irrigation ditches on Juniper Flat than at any time during the past decade.

The above condition shows what might have been accomplished had the Wapinitia Irrigation company or its supposed-to-be successor, the Mt. Hood Land & Water company, given the attention to the system promised when the money for water was accepted from those ranchers who desired to cultivate and improve their hay lands.

A little work on the ditches was done this spring by the ranchers. This was undertaken when there seemed no possibility of either company going ahead with the program of supplying water.
