As the most nutritious hay in the world is of little or no value if the livestock do not like it and will not eat it freely, palatability is an important factor to be considered in providing hay for the livestock.

His stage will be equipped to carry package express. Mr. Hartman has been most accommodating during the time he has been carrying mail between Maupin and The Dalles, and should receive a good patronage from our people in the matter of his stage line. His schedule will appear in this paper later.

FARM REMINERS

Dairying authorities everywhere recognize Oregon as being far in the lead of other states in the control of the contagious abortion disease.

The use of hot water and sterilizing equipment, a clean barn and milk house and quick water cooling of milk are three important steps toward cleaner, better quality, and therefore higher priced dairy products, says the Oregon Extension service.

Cost-of-production investigations carried on by the Oregon Experiment station show that horse labor makes up from 5 to 15 per cent of the cost of farm products.

Reports show that Oregon leads the entire country in the number of cows in cow testing associations.

The practice of allowing hay to remain in the field for a period of several weeks while awaiting a baler is not conducive to the production of good quality hay. If the hay is to be baled from the field and a baler is not available at the time, it is usually best to stack the hay.

Pick Ups About Town

Garden aquariums have become the fad among wives of Maupin. Several housewives have installed concrete bowls in their flower gardens and have painted water lilies and other water plants therein. With the verdure is growing aquatic creatures such as gold fish, tadpoles, mud cats, beetles, water dogs, mosquito larvae and other things indigenous to water. It may be the wives have installed the gold fish for some ulterior purpose, for instance, insisting their husbands remain at home at time, to feed such fish when the wives desire a time away from their better halves, and insisting that the gold fish must be fed and looked after.

June is the month of roses, also of weddings as well as a month when love's young dream runs rampant. 'Tis then that lip meets lip, sigh attuned to sigh, heart beats with heart and the breath of love is as exotic as a zephyr blown from a rose. Gee Whiz! how that breath must offend when one of the loving ones has eaten butter toned with leeks or had enjoyed a meal of young onions. Halitosis is sweet by comparison.

Poets have raved over the wind; sailors invoke charms to cause the wind to blow and fill the sails; those visiting in the tropics welcome a wind as a cooling measure and the Hollanders grind their grain with its power. The Eastern Oregon country has wind to spare. Day may break with all the attributes of a pleasant day but with the rising of the sun come, a wind that blows a gale from the north, then switches around to the south and then changes its mind and blows from the other two points of the compass. It is the upriver wind that raises cane with fishermen. When that wind blows it is impossible to keep a fly in the water—and the fish won't bite then anyhow.

Is it parental teaching or influence that causes some children to act like heathens? We have noticed the difference in little ones and sometimes carry the idea that such are allowed to pick up knowledge how and where they can. Yesterday a couple of little ones were playing on the walk, using sand and stones as playthings. A man approached and the little girl arose with the remark: "I will frow this week at you." And she meant it, although she had not been distributed in her play by the passer-by. As children are taught in the home so will they deport themselves when from under parents' eyes.

This is the merry month of May but next month is the merry month of June.

Where do you sleep? We know that is rather a personal question but with hot weather coming on don't you think it would be much nicer to have a cool, screened-in sleeping porch to spend the night in than a hot stuffy room?

Once again we would like to help you plan a lattice fence, lawn furniture, or window boxes for the beautification of your home.

"Swat the Fly" or better still, put up Tum-A-Lum screens and keep them outside away from the family.

The new, athletic field at the school grounds has been leveled and will be seeded to grass.

"Do you want gas?" asked Doc Short as he puts Fischer in the chair.

"Yes, about five gallons," replied Verne, "and take a look at the oil."

Ford Offers New De Luxe Sedan

Ford De Luxe Sedan

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compartments. Absence of rear quarter windows gives the car a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious. Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars.

Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish moldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and hardware in an attractive pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver. It is moved quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous handle in the front center of the seat just above the floor.

The De Luxe Sedan, like other Ford body types, can be obtained in any one of several color combinations.
