

Hummingbirds From Tygh's One and Only Newspaper

Excerpt From Copy of Tygh Bee of August 17, 1905 and Comment

We have secured a copy of the Tygh Valley Bee, published at that place by Elmer O. Shepherd and given to us by R. C. Tanson. The issue we have is dated August 17, 1905, published nearly 25 years ago.

The paper is well filled with advertisements, among them being a three-column announcement of Sexton & Walther, The Dalles. Hinman & Knowles, Dufur also advertise a line of general merchandise. Scott & Young's Tygh Valley Roller Mills and W. M. McCorkle advertise flour and mill products in fairly large ads. VanDuyn & Adams tell the world that they carry all goods necessary to keep up the house, and Mrs. R. A. Driver calls attention of the ladies to her stock of millinery at Wamic. The Fifteen Mile stable of C. P. Balch, which was managed by R. B. Cantrell, ask the patronage of the traveling public, while the Tygh Valley Drug Store advertises proprietary medicines and souvenir post cards. Dr. J. L. Elwood, now practicing at Maupin, carries a card in The Bee. Three orders, Odd Fellows, M. W. A. and Royal Neighbors give directions concerning meetings in a lodge directory column. The usual run of patent medicines also appeared in the paper.

Among the news articles was an account of the death of Wm. Helsler, Sr., which occurred at his home in Dufur August 14, 1905. Under Wamic news is a note to the effect that Wheeler & Magill were moving their sawmill to the Simpson place; that Mrs. Lizzie Allen has a new assistant cook who can wash dishes, peel potatoes and onions, and advises the girls to set their caps for him.

An article lauding John F. Stevens as the best man to build the Panama canal occupies considerable space. In the Tygh Valley items was one telling that the Bowman stage suffered a broken axle while coming down the Tygh grade; that one of the horses on the Burlingame stage fell down and broke a shaft; that wheat hauling and harvest occupies the time of ranchers; that Mrs. W. H. Staats and son, Harvey Slusher, stopped in Tygh while on their way from Dufur to Victor; that the editor and wife were regaled with ice cream and cake, the gift of Mrs. Jim Scott; that Joseph Davies and wife had gone to Portland to attend the Lewis and Clark exposition; that J. L. Hannah of The Dalles was employed by Wallace Fargher on Dead Dog; that Frank Batty of Juniper Flat was trading in Tygh recently.

The paper was nicely printed and the make-up arranged in readable manner. It is a five-column eight page sheet, four pages being patent medicine and advertisements.

CON BUCKLEY'S CLOVER PASSES SEED INSPECTION

Two acres of Ladino clover passed the field inspection for certification for seed purposes on C. A. Buckley's farm in Tygh Valley. This inspection was made by D. E. Stephens, superintendent of the Moro Experiment station Monday, July 21.

This is the only field of Ladino clover raised for seed purposes in Wasco county, according to W. Wray Lawrence, county agent. This field of clover is exceptionally good and should make a good source of local grown seed for farmers interested in growing this valuable crop for pasture or seed purposes. Ladino clover is one of the most outstanding pasture plants that can be obtained. Lawrence stated, and on land where there is plenty of moisture it cannot be excelled in carrying capacity or quality.

Where it is to be used for pasture purposes only it is quite often advisable to plant a mixture of Meadow Fescue and Orchard grass together with Ladino clover as this has a decided advantage in doing away with the danger of bloat.

Other farmers having good fields of Ladino clover this year are Wm. Melcher, Dufur; and Pine Dairy, Mill Creek.

One hundred sixty acres of Hybrid 128 wheat belonging to Ray Crabtree passed the field inspection for certification requirements at a recent inspection made by D. E. Stephens, superintendent of the Moro Experiment Station.

This is the only field passing certification requirements in the Juniper Flat community, according to W. Wray Lawrence, county agent. BACK FROM AULD SCOTLAND

Angus McDonald Returns After Nine Months Absence

Angus McDonald returned to Maupin on Tuesday after having spent nine months at his old home at Iverness, Scotland. Angus left for the land of bannocks and heather last October. While in Scotland he visited among friends and relatives, making a call upon the father of our James Chalmers as one of his visits. He arrived at New York on the 9th of the present month and spent a week at Portland before coming to Maupin. He went to Antelope today and after a time with friends at that place will return and again buckle down to hard work. All his friends welcome his return.

WRAY DAIRY A MODEL FOR OTHERS TO EMULATE

Herd of Cows Hand Picked and Milk Absolutely Pure When Delivered in Maupin

The Times man visited the dairy ranch of H. E. Wray recently and was shown just how Mr. Wray takes care of his milk and cream. At present Mr. Wray is milking 11 grade and pure bred Jersey and Holstein cows, the very best for dairy purposes. His barns are a model of neatness and the cows are given a thorough cleaning before each milking.

The dairy proper is equipped with a sterilizing plant. The milk is put through this and the procedure entirely eliminates all matter detrimental to the quality of the milk. When the milk is brought from the milking room it is put through a strainer. From that receptacle it falls over a series of water cooled pipes into a huge vat. Connected with this are two faucets, under which the bottles are placed for filling. When the milk reaches the bottles it is cooled and when the bottles are filled they are capped and then sterilized.

It is Mr. Wray's intention to later install a milking machine. When that is done much work will be eliminated, as milking by hand consumes much time and hard work, and with a milking machine all possible contamination of milk is obviated. Mr. Wray is ably assisted in his dairy work by his son, James, and with their other ranch work the two are kept on the jump every working hour of the day. The Wray dairy supplies practically all the milk and cream used in Maupin. It is gaining in popularity daily and Mr. Wray will soon be called upon to add more cows to his already fine herd.

Kicked by Mule

While working with his "Missouri canaries" this morning H. E. Wray was kicked by one of them, the blow striking on the gentleman's right hand. The member is badly swollen and put out of commission for the time being.

Lady Loses Purse

Mrs. Harold, wife of one of the road oiling crew, mislaid her purse on Tuesday. She left it in a lavatory and then went away and forgot it. When she recalled her act and returned to look for the money receptacle it was not to be found. The purse contained the sum of $85.00.

McCorkles Enthralled With New Home In Ashland Town

Maupin's Former Postess Dictates Lines Regarding Her New Home in Ashland

Having thrown aside the cares and work incident to ranching on Juniper Flat and having decided to abide a while at Ashland, R. W. McCorkle and wife are now happily ensconced in that thriving city. In order to express her appreciation of the new home, Mrs. McCorkle submits the following verses to The Times, and we are sure they will be read with pleasure by all in this section who know the author:

HERE IN ASHLAND

(By Jay L. McCorkle)

Days so balmy—nights so cool,
Both just pleasant as a rule;
But, when evening shadows fall,
And the sun's behind the wall,
Directly—when one goes to bed—
Needs, some covers, it is said,
Here in Ashland

Full up blanket—feather light,
It's woolen—yes—but that's all right—
One can not afford to freeze
In the chilling July breeze.
Then when one has hit the hay
He may sneeze till peep o' day
Here in Ashland.

MORNING BREAKS, OH, GRAND SURPRISE,

Secures a Road Contract
Morris Greene Will Build Two Miles of Contract Road

Morris Green has taken a contract for the construction of two miles of the road being built to connect with the Wapinitia cut-off highway at the Brown service station. Morris' contract calls for the construction of the extreme west end of the new road. He expects to have a crew of men with horses and equipment ready for work by Monday next.

Morris built a couple of miles of the cut-off road and his section is one of the best on the whole stretch. He also built a portion of The Dalles-California highway near Criterion.

Newlyweds "Seranaded"—
Addie Wray and wife were recipients of an old-fashioned charivari this evening, the donors being a flock of women and kids. Of course some men were among the musicians. Addie responded in the usual manner, after which he and his wife were left to their peace and quietness.

Ford Flopped Over

A Ford car driven by a Portland man who, with his wife, was on his way to the big leap, tipped over at the old rock crusher site on the Maupin grade on Tuesday. Joe Kramer hauled the car down and fixed up some crooked wheels, tightened the brakes and sent the travelers on their way. The driver admitted going rather fast, also that he was engaged in rubbering around and not watching the road when the flop occurred.

Oiling Upper Highway

An oiling crew working for the state, is at work on the Criterion grade and is putting a coat of oil on portions that have been badly worn. The crew recently completed repairing part of the highway near Dufur.

Driver Injured

A Ford truck, the steering apparatus of which gave way near the top of Cow Canyon on Tuesday, threw the driver out when it capsized, badly injuring his head. He was brought to Maupin by a tourist and Dr. Elwood fixed him up. The truck is at Richmond's, where it will be put into condition again.

Went Clamming

Frank Klimpt and wife spent several days of the past two weeks at Jetty, near Rockaway Beach. While away Frank spent some time digging clams and also catching crabs. He says he got many of the nicest crustaceans ever pulled from their ocean beds and deplores the fact that his work on the O. W. section demanded his return to Maupin.

Streams of gold gleam from the sky,
With enchanting aeroplane
Scudding through the fleecy main,
One must turn one's eyes on high
And view the wonders of the sky—
Here in Ashland

One may saunter in the park,
'Neath the shadows cool and dark—
But we would rather see the deer
And pet them when they draw near.
The ducks, the swan, and birds of feather
All go to roost and squat together—
Here in Ashland

Then, one doesn't have to spend
Dimes and nickles to no end
For soda-pop and foolish matter,
For one may drink the Litchia water.
One puts the fountain to his lips,
And then the cooling nectar sips
Here in Ashland

Howdy! to our friends back home,
As in distant lands we roam.
Some day, when our journey's done
Then we'll face the rising sun,
And we'll send our Model A,
Hootsey—tootsy all the way
Back to Maupin

Oh, my goodness—Hully gee!
When again our friends we see
We will dance around and sing
And we'll cut the pigeon wing.
Mercy on us—now it's dark—
And we're strolling in the park—
