"Huh!" exclaimed Growells the other evening when he came home, "I see evidence of crooked work around here during my absence."

"Why, John, what do you mean?" asked his astonished better half.

"Oh, you can't deceive me, madam," he retorted. "You have been trying to drive nails."

SKIN DISEASES

Altoona, Pa., June 20, 1903.

I was afflicted with Tetter in bad shape. It would appear in blotches as large as my hand, a yellowish color, and scale off. You can imagine how offensive it was. For twelve years I was afflicted with this trouble. At night it was a case of scratch and many times no rest at all. Seeing the good the medicine was doing a friend who was taking it for Eczema, I commenced it, and as a result the eruption began to dry up and disappear, and to-day I am practically a well man. Only two tiny spots are left on the elbow and shin, where once the whole body was affected. I have every confidence in the medicine, and feel sure that in a short time these two remaining spots will disappear. S. S. S. is certainly a great blood purifier, and has done me a world of good. I am grateful for what it has accomplished, and trust that what I have said will lead others who are similarly afflicted to take the remedy and obtain the same good results that I have.

125 East Fifth Ave. JOHN F. LEAR.

While washes, soaps, salves and powders relieve temporarily, they do not reach the real cause of the disease. The blood must be purified before the cure is permanent. S. S. S. contains no potash, arsenic or mineral of any description, but is guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our book on the skin and its diseases, which is mailed free. Our physicians will cheerfully advise without charge any who write us about their case.

RECKLESSNESS IN MID-AIR.

That familiarity breeds contempt of danger is shown by an article printed in the Pittsburg Leader. "See that?" asked an engineer of the East River bridge, pointing to a small ladder set into one of the steel piers at an elevation of more than two hundred feet above the street. So closely did the ladder cling to the smooth surface of the steel that it seemed almost impossible to get the fingers between the rungs and the pier.

"Those steps were intended to be used only under the most pressing circumstances," continued the engineer, "and then only with great care. Yet the men would leap for the ladder from a platform about three feet away, snatch at a rung and climb up rather than use a safe and guarded scaffolding erected for the express purpose only a few yards away. Warning notices were posted that anyone who did it would be discharged, yet the very day the decree went forth a man jumped for the ladder. He struck the side of the steps with his head, and was dashed to the ground. Of course he was killed instantly."

"That stopped the ladder-climbing, but the men still do all sorts of reckless things. For instance, they climb out on a narrow beam projecting over the river from the very top of the structure, and stand there on one leg to be photographed."

"Not long ago one of our foremen found a man taking an after-dinner nap on the girder at a height equal to that of a twenty-story building. The girder was just wide enough for him to lie on, and there was nothing but air between him and the ground. Yet he was quite indignant when the foreman woke him up and threatened to discharge him."

"Our window cleaners are as rash as any workman," said the superintendent of a skyscraper. "Each of our windows is fitted with heavy iron eye-bolts, into which the cleaners are expected to snap steel hooks attached to broad canvas belts that are buckled about their waists."

"You would not imagine that any man would dare to stand on the ten-inch window-sills without seeing that the belt is hooked into the eye-bolts as firmly as it will go. There is absolutely nothing else for the cleaners to hold on to, and in front of them is the smooth face of the glass. The men stand bolt upright and even lean back a little. Yet every day we catch one or more of them climbing out on those narrow sills, twelve stories and more above the sidewalk, with the belt unhooked."

THE HUMAN PILLAR.

Herr Schmidt, the human pillar, is conceded one of the world's strongest men. He holds on his back and shoulders the great cycle "tank," in which a rider whirls. The total weight is almost 2,000 pounds.

"The O'Neals were great people in Ireland," said a man to an Irishman. "I have just been reading a book, and find that the O'Neals were dukes, and kings, in Ireland." Whereupon the other Irishman said: "Yes, and if you will look at that book again, you will find that an O'Neal wrote it."
