The state legislature has under consideration a bill to increase the license of peddlers which will raise the $50 license to $300 and others to $1,000. The law will effect all classes of peddlers.

The Oregon Journal cannot comprehend our up-to-date method of spelling. Well, we will force the Journal, not only to comprehend it, but to adopt it, just as the Journal has forced the Oregonian to put in up-to-date machinery.

At the meeting of the Estacada Volunteer Fire Department Monday evening it was agreed that the department should build a tower for the fire bell on the lot to be bought of the townsite company, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the work. Two new members were taken in and one member, H. H. Taylor, was dropped from the roll because he is to move away.

EAGLE CREEK

E N Foster was at Oregon City last week. He has had some business there relative to having the streets of the ill-fated town of Eagle Creek closed. He has accomplished little from the so called new town proposition, and wishes it known that in the near future he will be raising 60 bus. of oats to the acre where heretofore nothing but town stakes have appeared. He declares that Eagle Creek, if it had made a town, would only have been a suburb of Estacada. Pearl Foster has gone to Portland to visit her brother, the popular policeman. Dr. Smith has a smile these days. He was somewhat down in the mouth during the cold weather of a week ago. A great many people were sick and it kept him on the go all the time. He states, however, that after a few days of rain people have better health. Noah Stingley has been oiling his 30x30 rifle, therefore look out for big game, he starts for the mountains in a few days. He is an expert with his rifle and has won many valuable prizes, and is better known as Dead Shot Noah. Ike Foster will visit Estacada in a few short months. He says that as his beard is now only a foot long he will have to wait until it gets to be presentable length. He is one of our prominent farmers. Zim.

vin. and W R Oatfield. Messrs. Radcliff and Trapp have recently moved here and rented the Krigbaum ranch. W R Oatfield has been reappointed road overseer for district 10 by the county court. The Garfield athletic club is in process of organization, and when in full blast it will furnish beneficial amusement for the young men who shall constitute its members. The mock trial Friday evening called out a large audience, some coming from Tracey district. The jury was tied, therefore the judge discharged the prisoner. —J E S

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tracy Entertain at 40th Anniversary.

The 25th being the 40th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tracy's wedding day, also Mr. Tracy's 60th birthday, they gave a sumptuous dinner to their children and a few friends. Their children and grand children were all present except Mrs. Edgar Heiple and child. Those present were: Messrs and Mesdames John Tracy, D M Marshall, N Tracy and four children, H Tracy and two children, Frank Thomas and three children, G Deshields and one child, F Harkenrider and two children, Edwin Bates Mr. White, E. Strunk, and Henry Boyer. Mrs. John Tracy and Mrs. Bates have the same birthday, and are the same age, and for many years have eaten their birthday dinner together on the 9th of Feb. but this year they celebrated their birthday on the former's wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy received a present of a beautiful set of dishes from their children, and their many friends all join in wishing them more happy anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Boltman of Sand Point, Idaho, have arrived in the city and will remain here permanently. They are relatives of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stratton.

Tuesday, A. F. Campbell came out with a couple friends and former acquaintances from No. Dakota. They were John Scott and Lewis Johnston of Oakes, N. D. They were shown the city, and other places of interest including Cazadero and the building of the railway Co's big power plant. Mr. Johnston has recently sold his farm and, like thousands of other people, he is out for a home in a milder climate. Mr. Scott has been on the Coast for two years and is manager of the Coast Cereal Company's Oregon business with headquarters in Portland. The three gentlemen had not met for several years and naturally enjoyed the visit.
