L. Ryckman. They are very much delighted with Estacada. Mrs. Talbert says there is quite an improvement to what it was 35 years ago when she lived in this part of the country.

Work at the Wooden Factory is Progressing Rapidly

The boilers and engine for the Estacada wood factory arrived last week, having been shipped direct from the factory at Indianapolis, Ind. The two boilers have been placed in position, and the brick work will progress as rapidly as the weather will permit. The stone foundation for the boilers and the concrete foundation for the engine are ready for the upper works. Piping is being put in the dryer which will soon be completed. The magnitude and importance of this, the first of Estacada's manufacturing industries, is not realized by the people. The company has already received many inquiries for different articles it expects to make, and by the time the factory gets running it will have any amount of work ahead. There seems to be an enormous demand for the material which such factories turn out. It is said the new factory will give employment to 30 or 35 men. This, of course, does not include those who will find employment in furnishing the lumber. The $10,000.00 capital stock of the company is nearly all paid in, and we have seen the best of proof that the stockholders are all good, substantial business men with plenty of capital to carry on business.
