JUNE 8, 1905

A large number of people from Estacada, and the country went to Portland last Thursday morning to see the opening of the Exposition. Everyone was pleased, and particularly surprised at the great military parade, the splendid and imposing ceremonies, and the general appearance of the Exposition. It is much more extensive and on a larger scale than many had thought it would be. The main buildings were all completed, but several smaller and concession buildings were yet building, especially in the Traill district. The exhibits are all in place and are all up to the people's expectations. It is a grand place for recreation, amusement and, above all, instruction. Washington has the most palatial state building on the grounds, with Oregon and California following. Every person on the coast is expected to visit this wonderful school of seeing the world in miniature.

The East is coming west this summer. To see the great fair? Well, yes, but also to see the West. The people of the east have heard much of the Pacific west, and they are going to see it this year, and the Lewis and Clark Exposition is the cause of the great awakening in the east and the rush westward. Many who are coming will not see the fair but these are more interested in investment opportunities. It is now the duty of the westerner to see that the homeseeker, the sightseer and investor are well taken care of.

The democrats are capturing the municipal government of the city of Portland. The republican machine needed cleaning, but it could not be cleaned while Williams was mayor; he had to be defeated. How much a democrat mayor and a republican council can do in changing the state of affairs remains to be seen. Much of Portland needs purifying, and it will be the first case Dr. Lane will be called on to treat.

Condon is no longer an inland town without a railroad. The line has been completed and trains are running.

The city council met last Friday evening and adopted two ordinances regulating the sale of liquor in the city. Major W. K. Haviland, the chairman of the ordinance committee, introduced the measures. One fixes the license for selling strong liquors at $500 a year, and for malt liquors such as beer at $250. The other was a special ordinance which permits liquors to be served on the tables at the Hotel Estacada at a nominal tax of $100 a year. Bonds of the recorder and treasurer were placed at $2,000 each. The board held another meeting Wednesday at which John Lovelace was appointed city marshal.

Cashier Henninger will leave for Estacada, Oregon, on the 25th of this month where he will engage in the banking business. He and Jas. Johns, formerly of Denhoff, having organized a new bank at that place. Mrs. Henninger will join him at Jamestown and they will travel to their new home together. In the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Henninger, Goodrich loses an estimable family, active church workers, and a business man of exceptional ability. But as the move is for the betterment of their condition the regret for their departure is mingled with the best of wishes for their future happiness and prosperity in which the Citizen most heartily joins.—Goodrich, N. D. Citizen of May 17.

C. G., a brother of W. S. Henninger has been made cashier of the Goodrich bank.

The following news notes were sent in by F. M. Gill. They will be of interest to many readers of the News:

Mrs. A C Ostereng is seriously ill with typhoid pneumonia; but is beginning to improve. Julius Ostereng lost his house by fire last week. His loss was about $400. He has set out an orchard of 400 apple trees this spring.

Wm. Walker formerly of Viola, with his parents and brother, resides five miles west of Dufur, on a fine farm, and is enjoying prosperity.

Eli Surface, a brother of E. F., is living near The Dalles. John, another brother lives at Mosier, west of The Dalles, where are also James Burlingame and Elmer Green. Edgar Burlingame, at Mosier, boasts of a pretty little daughter who came to their home a short time ago. The writer closed a three months term of school here the 30th and will be in Estacada about June 15.

SMILES

Why is a baby like a field of wheat? It has to be well cradled and threshed before it is fit for family use.

What is a kiss? A receipt given by a young lady after paying your addresses.

Why is a policeman like a rainbow? He rarely appears until the storm is over.

Why cant a cook eat his apron? It goes against the stomach.

Dont let the weeds and ferns on your lot grow to an unsightly size. It doesn't add to the appearance of the town. There should be some way to compel non-residents to keep their vacant property clear of unsightly weeds etc.

Dr. Hill and wife have been spending the week in Portland.
