

ESTACADA, OREGON

The new terminal city of the Oregon Water Power and Railway Company's standard gauge electric railroad, is 36 miles Southeast of Portland on the Clackamas river. A rich farming, fruit-raising and stock raising country surrounds the place. Any amount of the best of timber abounds which is converted into lumber by numerous sawmills and sold at reasonable prices. The railroad facilities are the best, see time table elsewhere. Estacada is situated to become a manufacturing center, the river will supply any amount of power. The railway company is now constructing a 15,000 horse power electric plant one and a half mile above here. A large woodworking factory is in operation. Here is a good field for a furniture factory, an implement and handle factory, wagon and carriage factory, box and basket factory, shoe factory, and other industries. A fruit cannery would pay well. The city is nicely located and the site is easily drained. A visit to Estacada by prospective homeseekers will convince them that this is the place in which to locate.

Car Off the Track]

One of the cars of the 5:30 p m train on the O. W. P. Ry. Co's line jumped the track near the switch at Barton last Sunday and ran on the ties for 100 feet before it was stopped. Ten feet farther it would have gone down an embankment 10 feet high.

The car was the middle one of the train and was filled with men and women and children. When it ran off and began to sway violently the women jumped from their seats and many rushed to the door. The men held them in check and soon all was quiet. A few men leaped from the platform the car platform and escaped injury.

A wrecking crew was sent from Estacada and after an hour and a half delay the train proceeded on to Portland, but an anxious crowd was waiting at the Estacada depot waiting to be taken home.]
