The business men of any town expect their community's support, and are entitled to it. They, as a rule, form the largest portion of the town, and it is through their success that any place becomes of any importance.

New Orleans is wrestling with the yellow fever scare. The mosquito is blamed for the whole, but it is noticed that the poor Italians are the ones that are dying, and spreading the peril. Again our immigration laws are somewhat at fault.

Portland has just completed the census work, and the officers give the city's population at somewhere between 115,000 and 120,000. Like all modern, rapid growing cities, Portland has its numerous populous and wealthy suburbs just outside of its city limits. Portland has more of these than most cities; and they are all connected with electric car lines. These suburbs are really a part of the big city, and including their population, Portland should have over 130,000.

The Clackamas county fair committee on exhibits, that has charge of the display and exhibits of this county and city at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, has let the contracts for the purchase of fresh fruit to be delivered each day in order to keep the stock at the exhibit fresh. It has also let contracts for fresh vegetables to be delivered every few days. Clackamas Co. exhibits now leads all the Co. exhibits, and it is especially valuable in grain, fruits and vegetables.—Enterprise.

A town that never has anything in a public way is on its way to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping dig the grave. A man that will curse his town furnishes the coffin. The man who is selfish as to have no time from his business to give to village affairs is making the shroud. The merchant who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The one that is always pulling back from all public enterprises throws bouquets on the grave. The man that is so stingy and selfish as to always be howling hard times preaches the funeral sermon and sings the doxology and thus the town lies buried free from all sorrow and care.—An Exchange.

The Bank of Estacada has opened its doors for business. The banking business of the town and country can now be done at home, and another business institution which is needed here should be encouraged as much as possible. It has taken some time to get the interior of the bank in shape for business. The woodwork and fixtures are finished in dark oak, which has a very pretty appearance. W. A. Heylman will act as cashier. Mr. Heylman has a pleasant law office and library in an adjoining room. The bank has a large fire-proof vault and an up-to-date security safe. The News wishes the bank a good business.

The W. C. T. U. meets at 3 p.m Saturday with Mrs. Williams.

District Attorney Heney says he after the big fish in the land steals, but it is necessary to bait some of the small fish in order to catch the big ones.

Mrs. R. G. Bound and Mrs. W. E. Hoover, of Roseburg, sisters of Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, were here the past week. Mrs. Buchanan accompanied Mrs. Hoover to Portland today.

Superintendent of Schools Zinser announces that a teachers' examination for certificates will begin at 9 o'clock August 9 and continue till 4 p. m. August 11, at the usual place in Oregon City.

Mrs. George K. Porter, daughter Etelle, and Miss Susie Murray, of San Fernando, Cal. visited at the Heylman home last Saturday. Mrs. Porter's mother was a sister to the statesman, Daniel Webster.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Foley and daughter, Irene of Folda, Minn., and Miss Mabel Stratton, a niece of R. A. Stratton, spent several days here. Mr. Foley is an attorney at Folda. Mrs. Foley is a sister of R. A.

Mrs. W. A. Cunningham has so far recovered from her illness that on Wednesday Mrs. Mary Burrell, the professional nurse who has been attending her, was permitted to return to Portland. Mrs. Burrell's faithfulness and efficiency as nurse in this case can not be spoken of too highly.

Last Thursday evening a real pleasant surprise party was given Miss Anna Harkinrider at their home north of town. A great number of her Portland friends hired a special car and came out and surprised her. They all had the best time of their lives and returned to Portland late in the evening.

Rev. R. L. Cartwright, who has been conducting religious meetings at and around here the past week, is continuing the work, and will do so for several days. Last Sunday's open air gatherings attracted many people from out of town. The effort that is being made by the Christian church is to establish a church organization here and, if possible, to build a church.

Coos bay is to have a railroad to run from Drain via Scottsburg and Gardiner to the bay.
