Eagle Creek

Mrs. A E Alspaugh went to Portland last Wednesday to visit the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Lord of Portland are in camp on the creek.

Dick Githins who went to the hoppicking bazaar took sick and had to return home. He has recovered and is again at work.

Quite a crowd of people from Portland spent last Sunday on Eagle Creek, and they were unfortunate enough to miss the last car, and passed the night by a bonfire swapping tales of daring among wild animals.

Bob White.

Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch is going into the banking business. We might all be bankers if we had the imagination of Mrs. Rice.

A man digging in a ditch near Oregon City unearthed a Spanish coin of 1811. The piece of money is the size of our dollar. Its history would be interesting, and no doubt more valuable than the coin itself.

Feasted on Venison

Bear meat was the popular family luxury in Estacada last Saturday. The day before James Marrs living near Dodge killed a fine young black bear on the mountain side three miles behind Dodge. Mr. Marrs was out with his two dogs and they loped Bruin up the mountain and chased him down to where Mr.

Marrs was and he barely escaped being crushed beneath the three as they came down. It took several shots before the animal gave up and died. It was brought to town and sold to the meat market, and 125 pounds of sweet bear meat was distributed among the people.

The school district east of Garfield in which no school has been held for some time will be opened up again for school business.

Mrs. Martha Gossett of Ellwood is advertising a sale of their Household goods and personal property to take place Oct. 9. Mr. Gossett was in town, Monday. He says they will move from the old homestead estate at Ellwood onto a farm they own near Orchard, Wash.

H. H. Eyman received word while in Portland and on his way to Indiana that his mother, Mrs. Nancy Eyman, had passed away. This changed the plans Mr. Eyman had made, as he could not get to Indiana until after the burial, and after a day at the hop fields, he and his wife who has been picking hops, returned to Estacada.

The Springwater Mill Co. has been reorganized. L. W. VanDyke has bought W. H. Kendall's interest and Jonn Kiggins has bought J A. Livengood's share. The business will continue at the old stand with Mr. VanDyke as Secy.
