C. F. Howe Merchandise

In many instances nature seems to direct the person to do that for which he is best adapted. This is so with Merchant C. F. Howe. Mr. Howe was the second merchant to begin doing business in Estacada. He came here from Southern Oregon where he was engaged in mining, though he had previously been a successful merchant in the east. His store is the home of select groceries, and with these he carries all the accessories which usually are found in a family grocery. He also keeps a stock of dry goods and footwear. Goods that can command his personal recommendation are what he keeps, and this fact is one of the reasons for his success.

He has a fine store building on Main street, with pleasant living apartments upstairs where the family lives. Mr. Howe is a member of the Board of City Aldermen and belongs to the local I. O. O. F.

John F. Lovelace Flour, Feed and Grains

John F. Lovelace has been in the store business in Eastern Clackamas county for a number of years. He first conducted a general store at Viola, afterwards going to Springfield where he remained in business until the City of Estacada was started. He quickly saw the importance of Estacada's future. A partnership was formed with H. Cooper, and they had one of the first stores doing a general mercantile business in Estacada. After selling his interest in the merchandise business, Mr. Lovelace established a flour and feed store. He has a large warehouse conveniently located on a sidetrack where he sells flour, feed, all kinds of garden and grain seeds, land plaster, stock food, shingles and lath. In addition he does a grain commission business. Being an old resident he knows what the farmer wants in his line. Mr. Lovelace was appointed city marshal when the city was organized. The family have one of the finest homes in the town, and everything quite comfortably fixed.

Odd Fellow Hall

The only fraternal orders in the city are the I. O. O. F. and the Rebekahs. Estacada Lodge 175 of I. O. O. F. is about two years old and has a membership of 59. The lodge owns two good lots in the city on which the above hall has been built. The property is valued at $1,500. Regular meetings are held Saturday evenings, and at present the lodge is conferring initiatory and other degrees on from one to four candidates an evening.

Centennial Rebekah Lodge 147 was organized in February of this year. It has thirty-five members who take an active interest in the welfare of the organization. Meetings are held on the 2nd and 4th Wednesday in each month.

G. H. Lichthorn Baker

No business in town is conducted in a more efficient and masterly manner than that of the Home Bakery, Mr. G. H. Lichthorn, proprietor. He is an experienced baker and takes delight in making his patrons the very choicest eatables. Mr. Lichthorn has been following his present occupation for twenty years, having learned it in Germany. He has property in Estacada and believes in the city's future success and growth. He was only recently married to Miss Emma Sagner, who just recently arrived from Germany.

Mr. Lichthorn has been in business in several Oregon towns, but prefers the mild and equable climate of eastern Clackamas.

Fire Protection and Water Works System

The Estacada Volunteer Fire Department was organized soon after the town was started. At present there are 22 active members, with M. H. Richards, president, and William Straight, chief. The Department is equipped with 300 feet of hose, two carts, hooks, ladders, axes, buckets, lanterns and everything necessary. Regular business and drill meetings are held each month. In case of fire the water supply is practically inexhaustible. The 100,000 gallon reservoir sets 192 feet above the city giving the enormous pressure of 96 pounds. This heavy pressure is not used for the daily water supply of the city, as the water can be run through reservoir No. 2, which gives a pressure of only about 40 pounds which is sufficient for domestic purposes.

At present water is pumped from the Clackamas river into the upper reservoir by an electric pumping station, but the proposition of changing to a gravity system is under consideration. Few city water systems and fire protection excel Estacada's.

Our Schools

Although the city is yet young its schools are the best. Professor E. F. Surface is in charge of the higher department, including the 9th grade, with 32 pupils enrolled. Mrs. E. F. Surface teaches the primary grades and has 55 pupils on the school register. The work for a new, modern four-room school building is progressing, and when completed another teacher will be employed. The new house and its furnishings will cost $5,000 and will occupy a block which has been given the school district by the town-site company. When finished Estacada will have one of the finest school buildings in the county.

Lantz Brothers Meat Market

F. M. Lantz came to Estacada last spring from Gresham and established the Estacada Market. He has labored hard and industriously and by so doing has built up one of the best business enterprises in the city. His brother Samuel, of Salem, has recently formed a partnership with him and does the outside work. They own the property in which their business is conducted. Both are men of experience in their line, and if possible buy all their stock of the farmers of Clackamas county.

The boys are endeavoring to do a satisfactory business by the people, and strive to keep a supply of meats and other goods which are demanded by their patrons.

Reed & Barr General Merchandise

The general merchandise firm of Reed & Barr carry the largest stock of goods of any house in the city. They keep a very large supply of shoes and foot wear of all kinds and their dry goods stock is the best in the city. Mr. J. W. Reed, the senior member of the firm, one of the first men to invest in Estacada real estate, and is showing his confidence in the future of the city by buying more whenever an opportunity presents. Mr. Reed is represented in the daily work of the store by E. C. Rich.

Mr. A. E. Barr is the junior member and is a former San Francisco and Portland merchant. He purchased an interest in the present business last spring. About two years ago Mr. Barr married Miss Anita Schmied, a California lady. They have their home upstairs over the store.

Reed & Barr's store is the home of everything good to eat. Their goods are always kept up to the standard and are always fresh. Mr. Barr makes personal purchases of most of the stock carried. Their policy is to keep the goods people ask for and insist on having, and by so doing have built up a good trade. They have a small branch store at Cazadero under the management of Shuman Brothers.

M. H. Richards Barber

Estacada has one of the best barber shops of any place of its size in the State. M. H. Richards, the proprietor, has followed this profession for a number of years. His place of business is conveniently located on Second street between Main and Broadway, where gentlemen may go and get a nice smooth shave or hair cut at popular prices.

Mr. Richards believes in keeping his place of business neat and clean where it is always a pleasure for one to sit, and wait until he is "next."

Birkenfeld & Wirtz Blacksmiths

The village smithy is presided over by Fritz Birkenfeld assisted by T. J. Wirtz. Both are capable and reliable blacksmiths. Mr. Birkenfeld came with the first robin, and Mr. Wirtz moved here a few months ago with his family, and has built a new house in which they are living.

Farmers get their horses shod, wagons and all kinds of farm machinery repaired here with the knowledge that all work turned out is guaranteed to be satisfactory.

Killed While Blasting

Monday while blasting stumps on his farm near New Era, Clackamas county, Lafe Moore, an old and respected pioneer, lost his life by a premature explosion of a heavy charge of giant powder. Death was instantaneous. Mr. Moore was 81 years old, and leaves a widow 75.

Orring Cutting of Molalla killed a fine large cougar last Saturday.

Electric freight train on the O. W. P. Railway - Fortified Estacada.

The O. W. P. Railway Company

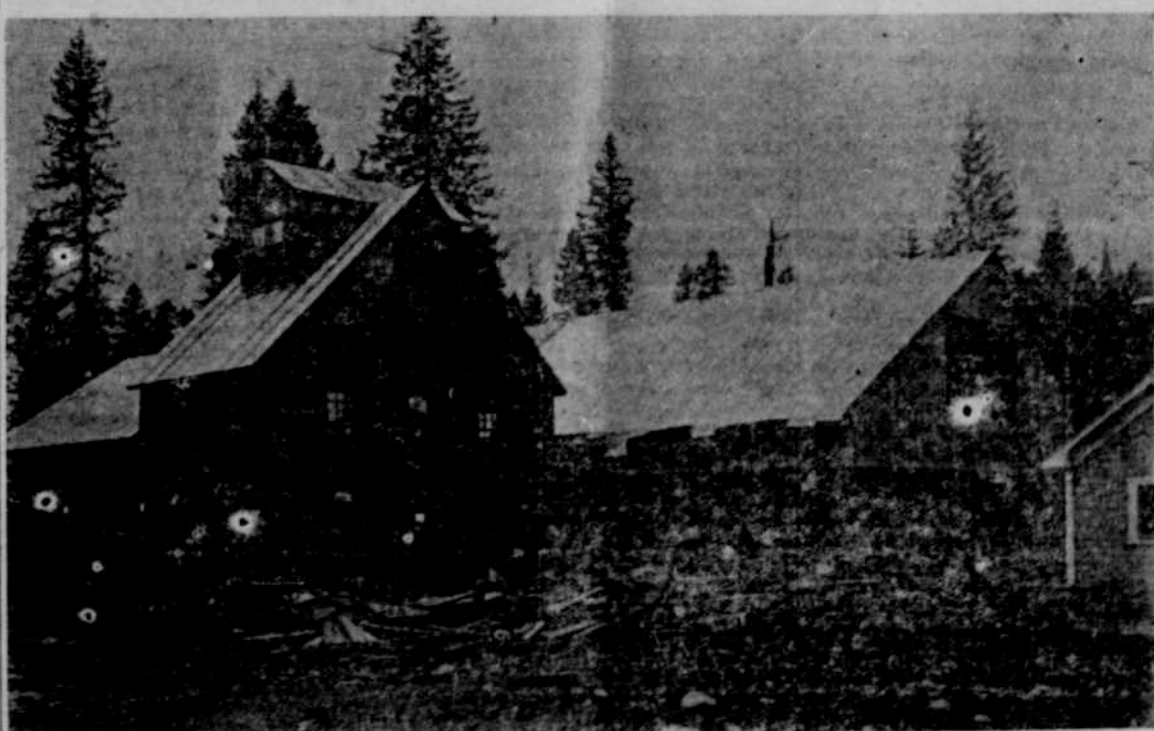

No agency is as influential and powerful in the development and building up of a new country as the railway. It is the one great factor by which a paradise may be peopled and a wilderness changed to a paradise.

The advent of the railroad into eastern Clackamas county has already worked a wonderful change in the country, and this change is continuing for the great good of the county's growth and prosperity. The Oregon Water Power & Railway Company's roadbed is one of the best on the Coast, and the accommodations in passenger service excels that of any other western railway. Six trains make the trip between Estacada and Portland every day. The fare charged is below that charged by other companies for the same distance. There is a daily freight both ways which gives ample marketing and shipping facilities. Of course the coming of the railway has already brought many people here who find occupation in different lines, but there is room for many more. The O. W. P. & R. Co. is harnessing the almost limitless power of the Clackamas river one and a half miles above Estacada. The river is being dammed, and the water will be run into a sixty acre reservoir on the south bank of the river, where large sawmills will be built to work up the millions of feet of sawlogs that are to be floated down the river.

This water will also be used in generating electric energy of over 25,000 horse power. The railway company will use what it wants of this power and sell the remainder.

Over a million dollars is going out to labor and property for the making of this wonderful project.
