Several Springwaterites attended spelling school at Dodge last Thursday night. Howell Bros run their chopping mill Mondays. "Bet your boots" they do good chopping. Robert Guttridge has his new house nearly completed. Bob will have a fine cage for one of our bright lassies. We wish to congratulate the Dodge correspondent on securing a cook. If a dozen of Springwater's young bachelors would follow suit it would be a good thing. The Springwater Journal has begun operations again. The editor, Mr. Smith says that if there is such a demand for the Journal as there was last winter, he is going to secure the necessary stationery and run opposition to the Estacada News. WHAT A NOTED DIVINE SAYS OF THANKSGIVING

"All good things are apt to be counterfeited. This is as true of religion as of the 'coin of the realm'. Thanksgiving day suffers in that it is employed oftentimes in ways not in accordance with its true spirit. Yet above this perversion of it, in the clearer light appear its valuable characteristics. It is a good thing for a nation to set apart a special day annually for returning thanks to Almighty God for the blessings he has bestowed. It is most fitting that this day should be observed after the ingathering of the harvest. I mention five particular ways in which our National Thanksgiving day is advantageous to the people: First it is a day on which the poor are remembered--on which a kindly spirit prevails toward the needy. Notwithstanding the manifold charities of the year, on this day gifts are more spontaneous and the entire nation in some degree feels the spirit of compassion; second, it is a home day--a day of family reunions, and no doubt the reflex influence upon the home is markedly felt; third the day affords an opportunity for uplifting before the people of National ideals by both press and pulpit. This will no doubt be exceptionally true in this year of reforms. It is a good thing for the inhabitants of the valley to lift their eyes on such a day to behold the beautiful mountain peaks of truth standing so distinctly and majestically above the horizon line; fourth, this value lies also in the public recognition of God and God's liberal hand in the Nation's life. Happy is that people that is in such a case; yea happy is that people whose God is the Lord; fifth, our Thanksgiving day observed in proper spirit is an earnest of God's continued favor and blessing. As a nation we can feel that not only 'hitherto hath the Lord helped us', but in the coming year he will vouchsafe unto us his aid and grant unto us his mercy." From indications in the lumber market, the price of building material is liable to go up. The contractors are hastily placing their orders wherever they can at prices agreeable. The price of lumber has been low, and the big demands that are being made on the producers may cause a raise. Right of way work on the Cedarville extension of the O W P & Ry Co's line to the Columbia river was finished at the west end last week and as soon as the east end can be looked after, work on the road will begin. Oregon City is very much worked up over the city election which takes place there soon. The elements at war are the franchise and the anti-franchise people, the fighting will be carried to the last count. Nothing of importance was transacted at the council meeting, Tuesday evening. The proposition of fixing either Main or Fourth street so that teams with loads can travel up and down the grade conveniently was discussed, and it appeared as though it was a delicate subject to handle. The Main street people want the grade on Main street put in a passable condition and Broadway people prefer to have Fourth street opened to Broadway. And there you have it.

Estacada is one of the most beautiful towns in the state, and is sure to have a population of 5,000 before it is five years old. It will certainly become a manufacturing center. The city is situated on the O. W. P. Ry. about 35 miles from Portland. The railway company is with the people in building up the community and it is sure to be a winner. Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Portland, Oregon, on Jan. 11, 1906, viz: Edwin A. company, has just returned from a visit to New York and Philadelphia. He said there is no doubt that the road will be built; the plan has long been considered, numerous surveys of a general and preliminary nature have been made and the money for construction has been secured. It has not yet been determined whether the road will be built by the Oregon Water Power & Railway company, or whether a new company will be formed for the purpose. In either event the capitalists who own the O. W. P. lines will furnish the money. None of the surveys that have been made across the Cascades into eastern Oregon has been made in detail, but this much has been decided on: the new road will leave the Clackamas river at a point on the Springwater line not far from Estacada and will go over the summit of the range at some other gap than the Clackamas river canyon. The road will then go through the Warm Springs Indian reservation and then on into the inland empire. It is estimated that 100 miles of new road, beginning near Estacada, will take the line over the Cascades into central Oregon. It will be built as a steam road. While the trend of modern railway building is toward using electricity as a motive power and the builders of this line will make ample provisions for securing water power along the route for future electric plants, it will be constructed as a steam road and the first locomotives will be steam engines. This will be a necessity because of the impossibility of building electric plants in the interior without the use of steam power in hauling the machinery and heavy material to the ground. The road will be entirely independent of any transcontinental line. Mr. Morris said to lay that he hoped to connect the eastern terminals with some line extending across the continent but that contingency has no connection with the construction of this line.--Oregon daily Journal.

The O. W. P. Going Over the Cascades

It is stated as an absolute certainty that the financial interests that are behind the Oregon Water Power and Railway company will build a railroad from Portland over the Cascade Mountains, through the heart of Eastern Oregon, into Klamath and Lake counties, and ultimately to Malheur county, connecting with one of the transcontinental railroads. Fred S. Morris, treasurer of the Oregon Water Power & Railway
