This fact is likely to have considerable influence upon the ultimate stand taken this winter by the senate on measures advocated by the presiden and endoreed by the people. It does not necessarily mean that the senate will fall in line and follow the lead of the president, but it points to such action, and the wise observers, after studying the situation, think they can see the senate supporting the president on the large issues now up for consideration. During the first weeks of the sessio it looked very much as if the senate would take issue with the president on many important questions of legislation.
