MR. JOHNSON WRITES.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—

I take my pen in hand in an endeavor to put the minds of some of your readers at ease and in hopes of giving others a new field of thought to work in, a field wherein there is room for all of us, a field into which every man's ambitions lead him, and yet a field that most enter in the dark. But few there are who have a crop from this great field in which every man, woman and child have equal rights, equal shares and privileges in this great field of progression. Just imagine yourself 100 miles in the air where you'd have a view of the entire American continent. You would behold a scene as if gazing on an ant hill or the hive of a thrifty swarm of bees, each one doing his best, encouraging all his brothers by the everlasting hum of his wings, the life-inspiring tones of his little voice, and the never ceasing ambitions of his little body, we could reap that for which all are aiming, for which but few are working and still fewer are getting. Now let us take a look at our little the town of Estacada, see what we have done get, what we should have, and last but not least, see what we can have and what we will have if we will put forth efforts to bring it about. It is not my intention to paint a grand and glorious imaginary picture of the future of Estacada, but simply to outline in a brief way what can be achieved to make this a city or town of which we can be proud. Not a 2nd New York or a little Chicago, but a little town that can contain and maintain all its till our pocket books are too full or our head so large that there is no longer room for our hat bands to expand or to give our thoughts a proper airing. I have been asked the question at least 100 times the past ten days what we were going to do at the brick plant. Are you ever going to start the thing? Do you think they can make brick here, or do you think they will ever make brick here? And then we have few men who are very anxious to see it running. We hear them say: we were told when they put that thing in they would make 20,000 brick a day and use 20 men. I don't believe it and never did, for all I ever saw them do was to run around with a lot of plans and peddle hot air. Some of them think the brick plant was put in to sell lots for the town-site Co. There are still others who say: If you don't do something soon our town will go to hell. This furor started in our little town and had it been thought that it was a dangerous disease at the time it first broke out, measures would have been taken to stamp it out while in our midst and not to spread as it has from time to time and place to place until today it is furor raging throughout this entire country. Every inhabitant of Clackamas county knows we have a brick plant here, that we can never make any brick. They also know that the town will never be anything, and many wonder why business men were so foolish as to invest money here. They cannot see why they don't sell out and get out of such a place. We can see what we have done and what we have not done for ourselves and our town by our lack of energy and enthusiasm which is so essential to progress and prosperity. In fact had we shown but a part of the enthusiasm and energy to make this place a town that was exercised by the founders of Estacada, who made this town what it is today, we could have had all that was promised and more. It is not possible that our streets would have been paved with silver or our pockets with gold but we would have paved a way to that ever soaring goal—success. Now then, instead of using our brains to help others who are trying to help themselves and to help us as a body at the same time, we come out and call them grafters, liars, thieves, or hot air merchants etc. we are not boycotting them but ourselves. They can get out; can go some where else while we poor devils can stay or get out as best we can. They brought us here; they tried to do something for us. They have done something for us; they will do something for us if we are willing to help them to do it and to have a disposition to help ourselves. We don't want these people to be able to say that they did all they could to put Estacada on its feet, but with the class of people they got in here they couldn't run a hog ranch. We don't want to give them a chance to say anything of this kind; we don't want any outsiders to come in and say you should have done this or that and then it would have been all right, nor do we want any one man to run us and our affairs when we know he isn't capable to run his own. Because a man gets up and puts up the best talk we ever heard and hollers his head off about what this or that one has not done and cannot show a single thing that he himself has done we don't want to uphold such a man when we have nothing but his say so for his ability. We take a man on his word till we find him out by giving him a chance, not by giving him charge of our affairs, but watch what he does for himself, if he can handle his own affairs successfully then he can handle ours if he will. I ask, who makes a town, a country, a nation? Who makes anything? Where would the rich man be without the poor man, and where would the poor man be without the rich? Don't want to see the rich do before we take hold. But when we hear a man of means say he is going to do this or that that will benefit all we should take hold and do all we can to make it a success, to encourage him and show him we are willing to work with him instead of trying to pull him down to build ourselves up, that gives him business. On the other hand he has the power to trample us down to meet his own ends knowing well that he at the hands of the poor man would get no more mercy and many times not as much. Never will that day come when we will need no financiers; and never that day when we shall need no leaders, unless we go back to the days of primitive childhood, or the days of Adam and then we see Adam the boss of the roost. The day must come when rich men will turn to our call, bow to our wishes, when he knows it is for his good as well as ours. It is not meant that he is to turn at the point of a bayonet, but it will be a pleasure. (Continued on back page)

Sciatica Cured After Twenty Years of Torture How often do we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. For sale by the Estacada Drug Store.

Mrs. A. F. Shultz has had her ice cream and refreshment parlor repaired and fitted up, so that it is one of the nicest and neatest places of its kind one finds in all his travels. More fixtures have been placed in the room, and they are better prepared than ever to accommodate the people.
