A Letter From Yakima

It is feared that if the present cold weather continues there will be a shortage in the crops this year. The thermometer only registered 110 in the shade yesterday.

Miss Coyote Pocahontas, the belle of North Yakima, gave a select party last week. After a very enjoyable evening spent in doing the Ghost dance and several other ancient American games, the guests were treated to stewed canine a la Siwash.

There is to be a big excursion up the irrigating ditch tomorrow. Every body come and see the beautiful scenery consisting of enormous, awe inspiring sage brush, the lovely though barren imitations of hills, the stately wigwams of the noble red skins and other sights that make the pen falter when it attempts to describe them. Fare for round trip $1.00

Several prominent nimrods of this town were out on a hunting expedition Friday. They returned from the chase with two jack rabbits, one sage rat, the noisy end of a rattle snake and three crows. Pete-With-The-Dirty-Face reported seeing a coyote on one of the sand hills but it is not generally believed.

Pontiac-Who-Never-Lies, an old pioneer of the region, said the other day that his grandfather told him that his great grandfather told him that he once saw it rain on the very spot where N. Yakima now stands. As no one could be found who could successfully contradict it, his statement had to be accepted as true.

Social Dancing Parties.

Chas. L. Brown, manager and director of Brown's Military Band & Orchestra of Portland, was in Estacada this week perfecting arrangements for a series of dancing parties to be given in the Estacada Park pavilion beginning Saturday evening Aug 4. These dances will continue during the season, every Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon and evening. Brown's band made a hit in Estacada on the 4th, with the excellent music. Only the best musical talent is employed by the management who, in inaugurating these dances, assure the public that they will be entertainments of high class and perfectly legitimate. Mr. Brown will personally conduct these parties which is a guarantee that everyone will be treated courteously and have a good time. The first dance, Saturday eve. August 4 in the pavilion. The music alone will be worth the price of a ticket.
