Austin T. Buxton Addresses the People at the Picnic

Hon. Austin T. Buxton, State Member for the Grange, spoke at the picnic at Mt. Zion grove on the subject, The Grange. His address was in part as follows:

Now, in truth, the grange has a proud record of work accomplished for the beneficial betterment, not only of its members, but of all the farmers of the country; of this I'll speak more a little later, but that is not the only nor by any means the greatest work that it has done for the American farmer. And that is not the only fact upon which it is at present basing its claim for the support of all live, progressive farmers. Everywhere and thru all our history as a nation it has been conceded that the strength and sinew of the nation has been drawn from the farm. From the time Paul Revere roused the country folk from their midnight slumbers to defend themselves against the tyrant's invasion the farms of the nation have furnished its ablest defenders in the times of war, and its greatest captains of industry and profoundest statesmen in times of peace. Agriculture has been and must continue to be recognized as the basic industry of the nation. The Grange began at the foundation by teaching the principles underlying the improvement of the home, and seeking to establish for the farmer his proper position in the social and economic world. It taught the principles of broad and noble charity for the rights, the feelings and deeds of others. Pledging themselves, "to earnestly endeavor to suppress personal, local, sectional and national prejudices," the founders of the order fully declared that "we cherish the belief that sectionalism is, and of right ought to be dead and buried in the past. Our work is for the present and the future, and in our agricultural brotherhood and its purposes we shall recognize no North, no South, no East, no West. On the afternoon of Dec. 4, 1867, a half dozen men met in a small building on the grounds of the Agricultural Department in Washington and formed the organization of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry. The movement once started it spread rapidly so that by the close of the year 1874 when the national organization was finally incorporated there had been nearly 23,000 dispensations issued to subordinate granges and state organizations had been formed in 23 states in a prominent grange state of the East last year, contracts were made by which the grange took the entire output of a large wire fence factory. Binder twine and other supplies of like character were bought by the train load. In a large number of states including our own fire and life insurance associations are maintained as very satisfactory and profitable financial features. In the earlier days the grange did some very effective work by using the power of organization to force a reduction in rates charged for transportation for grain and other products from points on the Upper Willamette to Portland. When the dealers in farm implements put the price of wagons so high that farmers could no longer possibly meet their terms the Grange shipped in a quantity on their own account and the price was forthwith reduced below $100 and has never again risen above that figure. In these matters which are only a few that are cited as examples of its methods, the action of the Grange has resulted, as in all similar cases, in benefits to the whole country and not to the members alone. But great as the results in this line have been they do not compare in importance with the moral, social and mental development that has been brought to the farmer and his family. The Oregon state grange caused to be spread on the ballot by initiative at the last election two bills placing a 3 per ct. tax upon the gross earnings of sleeping car, refrigerator car, express & oil companies, and a 2 per ct. tax upon the gross earnings of telegraph and telephone companies doing business in this state. The agitation for the initiative and referendum amendment was begun in Oregon by the Grange. It was thru the influence of the grange that the National department of Agriculture was raised to the dignity of the other departments of the government to be presided over by a member of the president's cabinet. The grange was the first to advance the idea that if it was right for the government to deliver mail to the doors of the city residents the people living on the farms of the nation were, in justice, entitled to the same service. The last session of congress in passing the law giving additional powers to the Inter-State Commerce Commission conformed to the policy advocated by the grange for years.

[It is impossible for us to print all of Mr. Buxton's address, only a few of the salient points appear, and about a twentieth part of his entire talk.]

Gideon Krigbaum, one of the old and prosperous farmers in the Garfield neighborhood, was in town on Tuesday. He has just completed threshing his grain, and reported a bounteous harvest of 1,500 bushels of grain from twentythree acres of tilled land. This is a yield of sixty five bushels to the acre, and shows what can be done by intensified farming in the Garfield country.

A. Morrow's new livery, feed & sale stable is looming up like a full moon in the Southeast. Mr. Morrow chose one of the most commanding and conspicuous points in the city for his equine hostility, and it is easily reached by the weary wayfarer. The ground floor will be of plank and gravel, and the second story will be large enough to hold several tons of hay. Mr. Morrow is progressing rapidly with work on the new barn and expects soon to have an Opening Day.

A gentleman with undoubted veracity says that one night last week he saw a good sized cougar meandering about town. This was not club-meeting night and the one who tells the tale was seen to retire early so there must be some substance to his story. The fierce looks of the beast as seen from a safe perch in a chamber window was enough to still the blood of a Roman. So after this if you are fooling around your neighbor's hen house at unreasonable hours of the night be sure you are provided with something more than what nature gave you when you were sent into the world—you may need it to prevent maturity of that life insurance policy.

There has been a start made towards building a M. E. church in Estacada. Rev. Sleeth came out, as billed, last Friday and spent the day with the people in the hopes of getting enough encouragement to proceed with a new church building. We did not see Mr. Sleeth, but have heard that his encouragement was strong enough to give him hopes for the future. He was somewhat disappointed in the search for help in his line of business because the devil had absconded to tall timber, and his Deacons and Deaconesses were so taken up with their frenzied everyday life that he had to 'go round' by himself. And Dr. Rowland didn't arrive until a late hour, and had but barely time enough to administer the sacrament and depart. No sermon was made, and things were ruffled off until the next time Mr. Sleeth arrives which we hope will be next Sunday, for having once found the clew to support sufficient for a new church, he should cling to it. The idea seems to be gaining ground here that we can have spirituality and faith that will take us to heaven without a church, but it has been noticed that these things do not amount to much without a church to put them in.

Pain from a Burn Promptly Relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm. A little child of Michael Strauss, of Vernon, Conn. was recently burnt from a burn on the hand, and as cold applications only increased the inflammation Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James N. Nichols, a local merchant, for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: 'I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains and lame back and have never known it to disappoint.' For sale by Estacada drug store.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS Dr. C. B. SMITH PHYSICIAN & SURGEON OFFICE and RESIDENCE Over the Bank of Estacada PHONE But One Change in the Assessment Roll The county board of equalization completed its work last Saturday, and adjourned sine die. Its work was brief and easy. Only one, little change was made by the board in the assessment roll as turned in by Assessor Nelson. Mr. Nelson had placed the assessed valuation of the Southern Pacific railroad at $15,000 a mile and the board lowered it to $12,000 a mile. On this assessment the company will contribute a tax of $142 a mile to the county compared to $110 to $130 a mile in other counties in the state. That is, the company will pay more taxes per mile in Clackamas county than in any other county in the state. The other highest county gets $130 per mile. Marion county places a valuation of $17,000 a mile on the roadbed and $2,000 a mile on the rolling stock. TIME CARD O. W. P. & Ry. Co. SPRINGWATER NEWS

The writer attended the Garfield Grange picnic, held at Mt. Zion church grove Sept. 1st, which was very enjoyable and entertaining. The program was rendered in a painstaking and uplifting way, especially the children's part. Their trainer is to be congratulated. Misses Grace Davis and Cora Yocum are especially to be congratulated for the part they performed. The State Master gave us a good talk. The writer predicts a bright future for the Garfield people especially if they continue training the children in the way they should go, for as the twig is bent the tree is inclined etc., for they will soon be our future citizens. It is to be regretted that the Rev. J. Edward Blair, pastor of the Springwater church, has made up his mind to resign his pastorate here and take a field in Southern Oregon. Many have gone to the hop fields. J. Earl Shibley has brought his bride home from Southern Oregon. The threshing machines are about making their last whistle in Springwater for 1906. Grain turned out well and the farmers are happy. They threshed in Springwater about 40,000 bushels. Mrs. L. Estella Bard was taken quite ill Sunday with heart trouble but appears better now. WAS VERY SICK BOY But Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy "When my boy was two years old he had a very severe attack of bowel complaint, but by the use of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy we brought him out all right." Says Maggie Hickox, of Midland, Mich. This remedy can be depended upon in the most severe cases. Even cholera infantum is cured by it. Follow the plain printed directions and a cure is certain.
