YOUNG LADY RUNS ENGINE TO MAKE LEONARD'S BEST

The following article which appeared in the Portland Commercial Review, shows that Leonard's Best need not necessarily be considered a brand of flour, but in this case it was a very determined and resourceful young lady. If the flour has the high standard of excellence which the young lady evidently possesses it ought to win instant favor.

"Garfield, Wash.—F. G. Leonard, who owns and operates the Garfield Flour Mills, was busy last week getting out a big order of flour for San Francisco, when his engineer quit and the mill was about to stop until another could be found. Mr. Leonard was hurrying to get the order out, and had no time to look up an engineer. Miss Mabel, his 18-year old daughter learning of the predicament her father was in, and knowing something about engineering, went to the mill, took charge of the engine, and stayed with it until the big San Francisco order was put out.

They are offering bargains in clothing that have never before been given the people.

WANTED: Better depot accommodations at Estacada. As conditions are at present about the depot, they are very unsatisfactory to the public. It is expected that the railway company will put up a good building here within a year, one that will answer the purpose both in the freight and passenger line.

CLACKAMAS FRUIT

Two fine boxes of apples, Spitzenbergs and Baldwins, were exhibited Saturday by J. W. Graslé at a meeting of the Clackamas County Horticultural society. These apples are without a blemish. Mr. Graslé also exhibited specimens of the Beurre-Clargeau from Richard Scott's place on Sauvie's island. These pears took first premium at the fruit fair held several weeks ago at Hood River.

"In Clackamas county", said Mr. Graslé, "high altitude will put on the color, and the juice will not only follow the knife, as claimed by the growers of Hood River, but will run into the hand. Apple growing requires an immense lot of work and the horticulturists of Hood River never rest, but are at it 12 months in the year. The last spraying in this section seems to eliminate and destroy the codlin moth that enters from the outside. The trees should be sprayed three times and four is better. Up to last year my orchard was free from scale but this year it was infested from neighboring trees from the south and west. We have the soil and the climate here for growing good apples and I believe that the Hood River method of growing nothing but apples in the orchard is a good one. The trees should be sprayed first just before the calyx closes, and then every 25 days".—Portland Journal.

Quarterly Conference

The members of the Methodist Episcopal church of Estacada with their Pastor, Rev. C. T. McPherson, and Presiding Elder, Rowland, held quarterly conference Tuesday evening. The preacher's salary was apportioned among his several charges, Estacada to raise $200 of it. Previous to the business meeting Rev. Rowland preached to the congregation.

City Cut Off From Portland—No Phone Nor Electric Cars

Heavy Wind and Rain Storm Last Night Does Things

Clackamas Raging and Doing Damage

The country was swept by a furious wind and rain storm all last night, and this morning Estacada is cut off from long distance phone, electric lights and electric car service. At this hour it can not be learned where the trouble is. Engine 111 started to Portland with the 7:37 car, taking a crew to clear the track. The Clackamas river is at high tide and, it is feared, that the bridge at Gladstone will be taken out. The wind went down this morning, and it is balmy as a day in May.
