Hens and Eggs

Hens will lay eggs in Oregon all Winter, says J. W. Bailey, State Food and Dairy Commissioner, if they are hatched right, fed right and kept happy. Their happiness, he declares, is the most necessary condition, and this can be attained only by keeping them dry and warm. "There's no good excuse for a scarcity of eggs," he declared last night. The hen may have to work hard this time of year, was the sentiment of the auditors, but the consumer has to work harder to get the money for the price.

"Hatch chickens in March in incubators, and keep them out of the rain and the cold the next Winter and they will lay," and forthwith he told of a man named Tucker in Jefferson, Or., who, from 24 hens, has been gathering 18 and 20 eggs a day this month. Mr. Tucker," continued Mr. Bailey, "hatched his chickens last March, and now in their laying period, keeps them protected from the weather. He doesn't allow them to run around in the wet and the cold. They have dry living quarters, comfortable like his own. They don't shiver in a wet barnyard, nor stand in fence corners nor under an old shed.

Large numbers of farmers neglect their chickens or give them poor care and the result is scarcity of eggs. They need to wake up to business. The old idea that Oregon Winters are too wet for laying is exploded. The hens can be kept out of the wet."

Medium weight hens are best for winter eggs, says Mr. Bailey, such as Plymouth Rocks, Wyandotts or Road Island Reds. Careful attention to breeding must be given, as in building milch cows in the dairy. Just as cows that yield little milk should be culled from the dairy so hens that lay few eggs should give place to larger producers.

An indispensable aid to such work is the keeping of a daily record of each hen, so that the lagging fowls can be picked out from the busy ones.—Oregonian.

A Startling Statement!

500 Men Suffering from Actual Want

In the Bustling Little City of Estacada and Surrounding Towns

Sensationally Startling, yet positively TRUE! That number of Men, Youths, and Boys absolutely need, or will need, good Clothing, Suits, Overcoats, or Pants for the Winter or later on. Everybody in the civilized countries since the days of Adam and his fig leaf wear clothes. Then everyone must buy clothing. If you are a man and dont need clothing now, you're certain to need it later. You'll ALWAYS need clothes, even up to the time when that silent boatman shall motion "All aboard!" to ferry you across the Sharon—one must be drest even then

Isn't It Logical then that you should supply clothing ahead when Such Marvelous Opportunity Offers as Now to buy for months, yes years ahead, as such Tremendous Savings!!

Banks Brag of paying 4 per ct. Int. and you rush to give them your money to use (that they can make 100per ct on your money) Mining Speculators & Boosters tell you of the golden showers that shall fall and cover you at the rate of 200 pr. ct. on your investment—if you invest with them

Banks May Burst and Gold Mines May Vanish into Hot Air and you lose. NOW Here is an Investment that means something Take $10 or $15 from your savings and invest it with us for Clothing & Suits, Overcoats, Trousers or Shoes and we'll guarantee you From 50 to 100 per ct. Profit on Your Money We'll save you that much between our "Quitting Sale Prices" & the prices you'd pay (and will pay later) in Portland or somewhere else for your Winter or Spring Clothing.

This Sale Positively Closes Saturday Night this Week No juggling with truth or chicanery about this. We remove every dollar's worth of the Goldstein & Levitt Stock of merchandise from Estacada on the first outgoing freight of Monday next! And the chance of a lifetime is gone—FOREVER! "The mill will grind again with the waters that have passed!" What's To Do? Get Busy, Quick The more you spend here, the more you'll make to spend elsewhere. Stick Up a Bit on Thanksgiving in a New Suit or Overcoat. See how little it costs, Read
