In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is effective and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. Mr. J. A. Humphreys, a well known resident & clerk in the store of E. Lock, of Alice at Cape Colony, South Africa, says: "I have used Chamberlain's cough remedy to ward off croup and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale at the Estacada drug store.

JANUARY 3, 1907

"In the early days all roads led to Oregon City." A sentence taken from an editorial in Tuesday's Oregonian. And all roads in Eastern Clackamas county lead either to Oregon City or Portland, the same now-days as of long ago. That is one difficulty a new town like Estacada has to contend with. Roads in this country are the principal means of aiding or retarding the growth of any place that depends largely on the rural population for its support. Imagine the difference in the amount of business Estacada would get were there good plank roads extending a distance of eight or ten miles into the country in four directions from the city.

The year 1907 has been ushered in, so far as this neck of the woods is concerned, with the earth covered with a thin layer of snow. The trees and shrubbery have been beautifully decorated for the season's festivities, and all nature is doing its best to celebrate the birth of a new year. Yesterday the sidewalks in town were covered with ice and snow, and those who are from a colder country enjoyed it all.

PROVERBS XIII:24

A humorous story used to go the rounds of the press years ago, that brought a smile to the reader and an unconscious "Ouch!" A traveler met a boy of 60, weeping by the roadside, and was told by the sorrowing "lad," "My pop over there, he whopped me!" Farther on he met the old gentleman, working vigorously, despite his more than 40-score years. The father began using the rod early and let go late.

With sadness one must contemplate the change for the worse. Increase of luxury has developed a tender feeling that is filling graves and prisons. A recrudescence of hickory rod and birch switch is overdue. There is not enough thrashing to go around. Too many boys are being brought up wholly by their mammas. Perhaps the stress of life has compelled the father to delegate all training to his better half. The supply of Spartan mothers has long since run low. The result is pericardic and matricide and all the lesser crimes of the code.

If Sidney Sloan had been properly "whaled" he would never have had a trace of "insanity". An inch wide strap would have cured young Thompson's love malady in its incipency. Mrs. Ayers, now lying dead in Columbia county, should sent her foster son up-stairs just ahead of a husky piece of stove wood. Valuable lives would thereby have been spared, and in the declining years of their old age, their children would rise up and call them blessed. Now there is chaos.

Let the fathers and mothers of today take down the Great Book and read the verse.—Morning Oregonian.

THE CORN CROP

The people of this country don't realize the distinction that attaches to our corn crop. It is a crop that for the most part is peculiar to this country and by many million bushels exceeds every other, if not all others, in it. The most recent government report upon this year's yield, which is no longer a matter of guesswork, but a practically determinable quantity, makes it 2,881,000,000 bushels, or 173,000,000 bushels more than last year, which also broke all previous records. It means a money value to the country of more than $1,100,000,000. Forty years ago the crop was 867,946,295 bushels, and large as those figures seemed at the time, we have this year returns of over three times as much. It is said that this is not a cereal that goes abroad and helps to pay off our European "finance bills" inasmuch as the annual export is only between 10 and 20 per cent. That is true of direct shipments of the grain, but it is not true when we consider its relation to other articles of standard commerce. "Cornfed" is an American term. Literally it means that for rapid and rich fattening of either hogs or cattle it is the grain upon which we most depend. Other countries may have sweeter pastures but none other can equal us in what is known as stall-fed beef or pork. This fact is so generally recognized that we apply the term "cornfed" in a figurative sense to many things that have matured quickly to a very prosperous condition. It is applied to trusts and to heavy dividend combinations of all kinds. More than anything else it is the foundation of National prosperity. In an average year we consume about 2,200,000,000 bushels in this country and it out to have its praises sung by home market clubs all over the land. It is fortunate we can find so many uses for it, because our efforts to win favor for it in foreign countries have not been brilliantly successful, though at international exhibitions and in other ways we have given demonstrations of its infinite variety and its substantial value. In 40 more years we should be producing 10,000,000,000 bushels a year. The average yield per acre is now not over 25 bushels, and it might easily be made twice that with closer cultivation.—Boston Transcript.

After Water Rights

Notices of the proposed appropriation of enormous amounts of water from the streams in Clackamas County are being filed in the office of County Recorder Ramsby. Already a great part of the most available and desirable water power of the county is covered by appropriations which must be renewed at the expiration of six months periods except the purposes stipulated in the notice of appropriation are carried into execution, in which event the use of the water becomes the right of the appropriator.

A few days ago John W. Mel-drum, of this city, filed notice of the intended appropriation of 5000 cubic feet per second from the Upper Clackamas River. The point of diversion of this immense volume of water will be section 11, township 4 south, range 4 east. The water will be conveyed from the main river in a flume 50 feet wide and 30 feet high.—Evening Telegram.
