A six months saloon license has been granted to T. M. Allison of Boring.

A new road district has been established just east of Sandy. It was cut out of the Eagle Creek, Boring and Sandy districts and is numbered 40.

Agent Elbert of the Morning Oregonian was canvassing the town, Tuesday, and giving away maps worth $2 with each 6 months' subscription to that great paper.

The river locks at Oregon City have been put out of use for several days by the high water, which has been running over them. The river was the highest it has been for many years, and several hundred dollars in damage has been done to sidewalk and breakwater work.

Several of the merchants have had their ads changed. Never overlook the ad columns. Read them. It is where you come in conversation with the business houses of the town. It is one of the branches of the newspaper business to convey to the public information of this kind, and therein lies the greatest money benefit of a paper to a community.

U. S. Senator Gearin spoke in the senate Monday on the Japanese question, and he took issue with President Roosevelt on that troublesome topic. The senator voices the sentiment of the people of the Pacific Coast, and the president will discover that he has disturbed a hornet's nest instead of a hive of school children.

A man named Harry Stevens has crossed the Atlantic ocean 1,000 times, and is still at it. His work is to look after the wine and prepare drinks for the drinkers. He is on one of the Cunard passenger liners, and has been in the work for 42 years. It is 3,000 miles from New York to Liverpool, hence he has traveled 3,000,000 miles on the water—looking for a watery grave, so to speak. The distance would have taken him to the moon and return six times. Mr. Stevens has been in several wrecks.

Owners of poultry are reporting an increase in the egg supply, hens are beginning to lay more. That is unimportant, at first thought, but the hen and her egg play a most important part in the world's commercial and domestic affairs. Eggs at 35 and 40 cents a dozen, and a necessity, attract attention.

A change has taken place in the free rural mail route out of Estacada. Wednesday, W. S. Irwin who has had charge of the route since it was established, retired as carrier, and A. Demoy took his place. Mr. Irwin has taken a position as night watchman for Barnes & Lindsley at the woodworking factory. Mr. Demoy, the new carrier, knows the country and people well, and no doubt, will give the work the same careful attention as was given it by Mr. Irwin.

The OddFellows Install And Entertain Friends and Rebekeh's

The Estacada Oddfellow lodge held a public installation of officers last Saturday evening. A large number of friends was present and an interesting and pleasant evening was spent. The installation of the new officers took place in the order's comfortable and nicely furnished hall, and was enjoyed by the visiting friends. Soon after the work of installing, an adjournment was taken to the hall below where a supper had been prepared, and a hundred and fifty or more hungry bodies were filled with the best of good things to eat and drink, and after a social chat, various games were played in the hall above, and dancing in the lower one. The boys know how to give their friends a happy time, and the friends know how to appreciate it. The ladies of the Estacada Rebekeh's were guests of the evening. Violin music by Ed. THE UNGLER.

According to my point of view,
I think that little Cupid,
Instead of being smart and bright,
Is often rather stupid.
His work at times is very coarse—
A thing of shreds and patches.
Not workmanlike, just judging from
Some samples of his matches.

Sometimes he takes a man and maid
And ties them with his tether
Who make a most ill sorted team
And do not pull together.
But there they are hitched up for life
And doomed to fret and jangle.
And make what should be happiness
A most distressing tangle.

He takes a little artless girl,
Of nights and heroes dreaming,
And ties her to some chivalry chap
Designed for plots and scheming.
Whereas, had she but turned him down
And wed the other fellow,
Her life had been one long, sweet
Of sunshine soft and mellow.

While Cupid sometimes hits it off
In dealing love and kisses,
'Tis frightful when you think about
The many times he misses.
I think that he should abdicate
At least one trial season
And turn his business over to
Some person blessed with reason.

Look out for the Parisan Rag Dolls.

Storm Brought Some Trouble

The heavy rains of last week and the melting snow in the mountains and foot hill caused more trouble to the railroads than was looked for. The public highways also suffered some damage. The O. W. P. had to abandon its line from Lent Junction to the Golf Links on account of high water, and for a short time passenger cars were run over the Mount Scott line. Along the river bank where the steam shovels are cutting away the bank and widening the road bed, the rains washed several feet of dirt down onto the sidetrack for several rods.
