Monday, R. C. Herring returned home from Salem, much improved in health. Mrs. Herring went to Salem last Saturday, and Mr. Herring returned with her as far as Portland and remained there over Sunday at the home of Al Lacey.

No one is quite so independent as he who owns a farm. The farmer is fast coming to be recognized as the only real monarch there is, and the young man who has no land can do nothing better than to buy a farm. There are thousands of acres of rich farm and fruit land yet to be cleared, within a radius of ten miles of Estacada which can be had at reasonable prices and which will be very valuable twenty years from now.
