Heney into a distinct victory for the prosecution. With both Schmitz and Ruef on the stand, the day was replete with sensations, but capping all was the neatly laid trap into which the defense made a precipitous fall. The trap was carefully laid, even to the point where the Mayor himself unknowingly sprung in.

When Mr. Heney announced that The Hague, June 15.—With the representatives of 46 countries gathered here for the opening of the second peace where the prosecution had completed its case, the defense, thinking that the danger from Ruef had passed, decided to put Schmitz on the stand. He reached the point on cross-examintion where Mr. Heney asked him if he had received any of the money paid to Ruef by the French restaurants, and, despite the warnings from his own attorney, Schmitz answered in the negative. Schmitz answered in the negative.

In so doing he played completely into the hands of the prosecution, not only by laying a basis for the introduction of the testimony of Ruef in rebuttal, but by passing the entire extortion up to Ruef in such a manner that the captive boss will
