Barton Saloonman Pays $20 Fine

R. Thompson, saloonkeeper at Barton, was arrested last Sunday by Sheriff Beatie for violating the Sunday closing law. Thompson gave cash bail and appeared before Justice Stipp Monday morning and pleaded guilty, paying the minimum fine of $20. The sheriff happened in unexpectedly and found people in the saloon drinking. It looks as though the authorities intend to compel the observance of the Sunday closing law, and are going to give all an opportunity to realize it before being fined heavy.

Surprise Mrs. O. H. Schock

Tuesday, the 30th, a number of Mrs. O. H. Schock's friends surprised her by walking into her home with baskets of the finest eatables and proceeding at once to assist her in passing her 53rd birthday. There were 25 at dinner, and four generations were represented: Mr. and Mrs. John Hunt, 1; Mrs. Schock and Ed. Hunt, 2; Alta, Clyde and Cecil Schock, 3rd; Gladys Carpenter, 4th. A pleasant and sociable day was spent, and the ladies decided they could make a success of brickmaking in Estacada. Mrs. Schock showed a good earthen jar made of Estacada clay 20 years ago.
