Wm. Whitney, who was here a month ago has returned from Michigan, and he has decided to go into business in Estacada. He has bargained for lots on Main street and intends building for a general commission store. He intends handling country produce and grain. Mrs. Whitney will soon come West. Mr. Wiggins, who came out with Mr. Whitney on the last trip, likes the country and may invest here.

Inspect Bridge and Road Sites

The first real steps were taken the beginning of the week towards the realization of the Estacada-George road. County Judge Dimick and Bridge Builder Olds came over from Oregon City, and the judge, with a number of Estacada and George people inspected the proposed bridge site on Eagle creek, and the grade on the South side of the creek. Adolph Miller, Road Overseer Henry Johnson, Nick Rath and others of the George district were present. After a personal inspection of the whole proposition it seemed to be the unanimous opinion that no better place can be found for the crossing. The grade on this side will be about a six per cent. grade, and the bridge will cost about $400. A petition will soon be presented the county court asking for the bridge. The proposed crossing is directly east of the John Tracy homestead. Mr. Olds and others went down and took measurements of the two sites in question for the Clackamas bridge at Estacada. It is reported that his measurements at both sites were the same. When the county board and a number of citizens visited these sites last Spring it was the consensus of opinion that the lower site was considerable the widest place, measuring from the tops of the embankments. Either place is a good bridge location, if the money provided is sufficient to build the right kind of a bridge.
