Want 200 Acres for Apples

Portland people with plenty capital were out here last week looking over the Garfield country. They want to buy 200 acres in that locality to grow apples on. The J. P. Irvin and other farms were inspected, and, we are informed, that a transfer will soon take place. The people who want the land are going into apple culture the same as it is carried on at Hood River. They are satisfied with the kind of soil, and believe the climate is as favorable here as it is at Hood River. It begins to look as though the Gar- idence field country will become famous as

Humor and Philosophy By DUNCAN M. SMITH

ONE THING NEW.

Say, is it true there's nothing new Or strange or startling new
The big round sun? Is there not one
Thing we may cell a wonder,
Or may we not from some dark spot
A brand new secret plunder?

If there is not a single hot. Original creation
As rare as bilss at large in this
Or any ether nation,
fet here and there at times we scare
Up quite an imitation.

Back in the vast and moldy part.
They may have laid the tinkle.
And silvery tones of telephones.
And the electric twinkle. nograph to make them laugh And every other wrinkle

How should I know it is not so.
That people got knocked double.
While walking out to look about.
And hunting not for trouble.
Stood on their head by some great red,
Fierce automobobubble?

Ah, well, perhaps those ancient chaps
May not have been so simple.
And every lad may not have had
A head quite like a pimple.
But I can swear that nothing e'er
Could match my lady's dimple.

Return of the Hoop Skirt.

Leaders of fashion delving into the musty past have dug up the hoop skirts and are delighted with the find. In their haughty and arbitrary way they have decreed that lovely woman shall don the bird cage, as of yore, and go salling down the street demanding twothirds of the sidewalk for her prome- DONE AT THE NEWS SHOP!

We shall see whether the new and mproved woman, with all of the modern attachments, will submit as gracefully as did her sister of thirty years age, or whether she will rise up and tell the fashion leaders that it is too late in the history of the world for man to put barb wire fence around her

Meanwhile the expectant goat will tand around in the back lot and await he decision, for it is a long time since he has had anything as delectable as the hoop skirt lunch, and the humble humorist will dig into the files and resurrect the stock joke of the last gen eration and make it do one more stunt.

Going Him One Better. "Say, do you know who I am? I eat a bad man for dessert every once in awhile.

"Hub! I cat an injunction for breakfast every morning."
