Walnut Culture

Some interest is being manifested by several of our townspeople and farmers in the Walnut culture proposition. A number are looking up the Walnut with a view of putting out a few acres of the trees if the prospects are at all favorable, and make a business of it.

Mr. H. Cooper, Estacada, Oregon.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of 9th is rec'd. and am pleased to reply and give my experience in growing walnuts. Our trees are 9 and 10 years old; the most of them set out in a prune orchard, every other tree in alternate rows, the prune tree having been taken out. We felt that our prune trees were too near together, being set 18 feet each way.

The suspension of the "holidays" made no difference in the banking business in Estacada. Everything moves on as smoothly and sensibly as at any previous period.

The reader's attention is directed to a problem in finance by Mr. Gill printed in this paper. We would like solutions and answers to the various questions in this problem sent in for publication. It is not necessary for the name to appear in print. The answers must be bonifide and plainly written, that is all.
