LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Nancy Shankland is having a slight illness.

Mrs. W. K. Haviland was here a few hours Tuesday.

J. W. Reed and wife went to the metropolis, Tuesday.

John Bourbonia and wife returned to Portland Monday after a week or so at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bronson.

E. S. Womer came down out of the forest ranges last week and is spending a few days at home.

W. W. Boner has the job of making the window and door casings for the Cary Bros' new residence.

Miss Ruth Dale is spending a week in the big city millinery stores adopting the new styles for her Spring customers.

We were in error last week in regard to the person who received the 7th set of dishes at Merchant Sparks' store. It was Q. Craft who held the number 568.

Good fire wood, any amount of it for sale at $1.50 a rick at the farm of J. G. Brown, just north of town. Send orders early.

John Page is having some of the land he bought of B. O. Boswell cleared for fruit purposes.

S. L. Butler, a passenger train engineer on the O. R. & N. visited his aunt, Mrs. C. W. Seymour and husband last week.

By the new rates and rules at the Estacada rink, ladies are admitted free at all times, and are charged 15c a session for skates. Gentlemen are charged 10c admittance fee, and 15c for skates.

Quite a number of Estacada people are talking of attending the literary and musical entertainment to be given by Miss Stella Womer's school at Eagle Creek March 7.

Mr. E. J. Ladd and niece, Miss Gertrude Gill, of Portland, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Adix. Mrs. Adix is a daughter of Mr. Ladd.

J. B. Haviland & wife were entertained by Mayor and Mrs. Heylman last Saturday. Mr. Haviland took a party of timber claim seekers to California, Monday, and expects to take another party in a couple of weeks.

Hon. George C. Brownell gave the Honorable Mr. Fulton a jolt or two in Monday's Oregonian. It is not the most becoming department on the part of all these honorable gentlemen to be telling the public too much of their political bickerings.

An inexpensive yet excellent way to improve the looks of the home and town is for every family to set out a few good rose bushes, a few fruit trees or vines. The cost is merely nothing, and requires but little work, although the effect is wonderful.

An "open winter" some call it, but how can it be anything else in Oregon? Many farmers are seeding grain, and field work is in operation everywhere. We are likely to have a little chilly weather yet, perhaps some snow, and it might be a good thing.

Mary E. Cole has applied for letters on the estate of her late husband, Albert L. Cole, asking that they be issued to A. J. Johnson of Corvallis. He was employed by the Southern Pacific and is said to have lost his life as the result of an injury received at Roseburg on the last day of last year. The estate consists of a claim for damages against the railroad. The heirs are the widow and for four children.—Oregon Journal, 21.

Miss Erma Shibley of Springwater, Mrs. Opal Cragraft of Garfield, and John J. Roberts of Barton were successful in passing at the examination of applicants for teachers' certificates.

Wilson & Gerber's Grand Ball

A grand ball will be given in the park pavilion on the evening of the 7th of March. Earl Wilson and Louis Gerber are arranging for and advertising the event which promises to draw a large number of people not only from home but from Portland, Oregon City, Sandy and other places. An Oregon City orchestra of eight pieces has been engaged for the night, and a big oyster supper will be served at the Estacada Hotel. The printed program includes 24 selections. The management expect to give the public its money's worth in a good time and fine dinner.

Announcement

In announcing my candidacy for representative I wish to say: I am for statement No. 1 first, last, and all the time. I believe in preserving the initiative and referendum and the primary law, and of extending the power of the people still further if need be. I favor the "Recall" amendment to the constitution. I promise to place the people's interests above every other consideration. I favor the establishment of States Savings Banks paying 3% on time deposits and loaning the money on mortgage security at 6%, the net proceeds of the business to be distributed annually to the several public schools of the state. (This plan is favored by J. H. Ackerman, state superintendent of public instruction.) I favor good schools, good roads, and economy in public affairs.

Noah Stingley's Old Bill Figures In a Supreme Court Case

Some years ago Noah Stingley owned a William Goat, which the neighbors affectionately called Noah Stingley's Old Bill. Later in his career Old Bill was sold to Homer Ballou who is a neighbor of Ben Forrester. Forrester possessed a pretty good mate to Old Bill—and that is the sequel to the case. About three months ago Forrester sold 19 sheep and his goat to F. Van Duren, of the Estacada meat market. Not long ago Mr. Ballou discovered his Old Bill was missing from his goat herd. After failing to find any trace of his goat, Mr. Ballou accused Mr. Forrester of selling him to Van Duren, and thereat trouble began. Forrester threatened to bring suit against Ballou for damages, and upon advice of counsel a case was brought to determine what billy goat it was that Forrester sold to Van Duren. The trial came off in Judge Alspaugh's court held in the mayor's parlors last Friday. Attorney W. D. Freeman of Portland appeared for Forrester and W. A. Heylman for Van Duren. A jury was impanelled, but after hearing the evidence failed to agree. It developed in the trial that not long ago a dead buck was found near the Ballou premises, but he was past recognition. Whether it was Old Bill or not is the question. The trouble may now be adjusted out of court. Anyway, the legend of Noah Stingley's Old Bill will cling to the place, and afford some interesting tales as time passes and the story grows.
