PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. 2.

Dr. Hartman has claimed for many years that Peruna is an EXCELLENT CATARRH REMEDY. Some of the doctor's critics have disputed the doctor's claim as to the efficacy of Peruna.

Since the ingredients of Peruna. Since the ingredients of Peruna are no longer a secret, what do the medi-cal authorities say concerning the remadies of which Peruna is composed ? Take, for instance, the ingredient HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS, OR GOLDEN SEAL. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in discased mucous membranes of the nelvic organs. It is also recommended for diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, CORYDALIS FORMOSA, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic.

CEDRON SEEDS is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. THE SEEDS ARE TO BE FOUND IN VERY FEW DRUG STORES. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as er. a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE.

OIL OF COPAIBA, another ingredient of Peruna, is classed by the United States Dispensatory as a mild stimulant and diuretic. It acts on the stomach and intestinal tract. It acts as a stimulant on the genito-urinary membranes Useful in chronic cystitis, chronic dysentery and diarrhea, and some chronic diseases of the liver and kidneys. These opinions as to the ingredients of Peruna are held by all writers on the subject, including Bartholow and Scudder.

OF HYDRASTIS, BARTHOLOW SAYS it is applicable to stomatitis

(catarrh of the mucous surfaces of the mouth), follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynx), chronic coryza (catarrh of the head). This writer classes hydrastis as a stomachic tonic, useful in atonic dyspepsia (chronic gastric catarrh), catarrh of the ducdenum, catarrh of the gall duct, catarrh of the intestines, catarrh of the kidneys (chronic Bright's disease), catarrh of the bladder, and catarrh of other pelvic organs. BARTHOLOW REGARDS COPAIBA as an excellent remedy for chronic catarrh of the bladder, chronic bronchitis (catarrh of the bronchial tubes).

BARTHOLOW STATES THAT CUBEB, an ingredient of Peruna, pro motes the appetite and digestion, increases the circulation of the blood. Use ful in chronic nasal catarrh, follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynx), increasing the tonicity of the mucous membranes of the throat. It also relieves hoarseness. Useful in atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), and in chronic catarrh of the colon and rectum, catarrh of the bladder, prostatorrhea, and chronic bronchial affections.

MILLSPAUGH, MEDICINAL PLANTS, one of the most authoritative works on medicinal herbs in the English language, in commenting upon COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, says that it acts on the pneumogastric and vaso motor nerves. It increases the secretions of the mucous membranes in general. In the mountains of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Carolina, collinsonia canadensis is considered a panacea for many disorders, including headache, colic, cramp, dropsy and indigestion. DR. SCUDDER regards it highly as a remedy in chronic diseases of the lungs, heart disease and asthma.

These citations ought to be sufficient to show to any candid mind that Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Surely, such herbal remedies, that command the enthusiastic confidence of the highest authorities obtainable, brought together in proper combination, ought to make a catarrh remedy of the highest efficacy.

This is our claim, and we are able to substantiate this claim by ample quotations from the HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

COMMUNITY STOCK BREEDING

The stock breeder is often seriously handicapped in his work by the more or less complete isolation of his work. This is especially true in the where many sections are not as thickly settled as the older portions of the country. Sometimes this condition is due to a mistaken attitude on the part of the breeder-a tendency which is quite natural to men who are not accus-tomed to organized effort in accom-plishing a given object. I refer to the quite prevalent whim that if several men engage in the same business the work will be over-done, and the market for the products destroyed or seri-ously impaired. In no department of agriculture is this condition less likely to prevail than in the production of pure bred or even well bred live stock. The more animals of merit produced in any given locality, the greater likeli-hood of a better market, owing to the fact that often a few superior animals, even, are not sufficient to attract the interest of the prospective buyer. The buyer which the stock breeder wishes to interest is the man who is looking for several head, a car load, or perhaps several carloads, of animals at one time. Any one who has attempted to look up a carload of cattle of any par-ticular type or breed, can well under-stand how difficult it is to find the desired number of suitable animals in any one lecality; and in case the ani-mals have to be selected from remote herds what a vexing problem it is to assemble the animals at any given point for shipment. Now if a number of farmers in any given locality would all agree to breed the same kind of livestock, then it might be possible for a buyer to get the entire lot desired from that particular section.

Another important point in favor of community breeding would be the op-portunity offered for comparison. When a breeder is isolated from other men who are handling the same kind of stock, he may not have the opportunity to check up his stock to see if the de-sirable points are being brought out as they should be. Some important char-acteristics may be overlooked unless there is some standard of excellence available, with which to compare his own results. One of the most serious hindrances to the improvement of the breeds of live stock in the West, is the difficulty in securing new blood when it should be introduced. Several individual cases uge under the French flag should have come under our observation where a splendid foundation was allowed to run out, through too close breeding, which could not be avoided, except at a run out, through too close breeding, which could not be avoided, except at a great expense and trouble in securing new blood from remote sections of the country.

The question of feed and care could The question of feed and care could be much better solved in any given community if a dozen men were hand-ling the same kinds of live stock, rather than a dozen different types and breeds. These ideas are being put into actual practice in some sections of the Missis-sippi valley, and if needed there, where the country is densely populated, it is doubly important in the Pacific North-west, where farmers have not many of conveniences of transportation and rapid communication that are en-joyed in the more densely populated sections of the country.

"For the past year the state experi-ment station has had in hand the matter of gathering information relative to the practicability of utilizing this in portant crop in the manufacture of de-natured alcohol. Careful analyses have been made to determine the amount of alcohol that potatoes of this region will yield. We have found that one hundred pounds of potatoes will produce eighteen pounds of starch; that eigh-teen pounds of starch will produce nine pounds of alcohol, which, I believe, sells at from 50 to 55 cents per gallon. At this rate, the alcohol from one tom of potatoes would sell for about $18. "Alcohol can be made from the small potatoes as well as the large ones, and in this fact lies a source of considerable saving to the farmers. Also, waste fruit can be used, and considerable sucfruit can be used, and considerable suc-cess has been reported from the use of corn, and even the stalks. SORES FED AND KEPT OPEN BY IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD

Whenever a sore refuses to heal it is because the blood is not pure and healthy, as it should be, but is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which has corrupted and polluted the circulation. Those most usually afflicted with old sores are persons who have reached or passed mid-dle life. The vitality of the blood and strength of the system have naturally begun to decline, and the poisonous germs which have accumulated because of a sluggish and inactive condition of the system, or some hereditary taint which has hither blod and strength or some hereditary taint of a sluggish and inactive condition of the system, or some hereditary tant which has hitherto been held in check, now force an outlet on the face, arms, legs or other part of the body.
