Bryan was a congressman from Nebraska during 1891-5.

Attorney Livy Stipp has been appointed deputy district attorney for this district.

Glenmorrie is the name of a new suburb that has been platted and is to be a part of Oregon City.

The cherry crop is ripening and the quality is fully up to the standard though the yield will not be the biggest.

It has grown into such a habit of doing so, the Democratic party could do nothing else but nominate William J. Bryan.

The members of the M. E. Sunday School are preparing a program for Children's Day which will be given on the evening of the 19th.

It is County Commissioner W. H. Mattoon now, Mr. Mattoon having taken the oath of office Monday morning. J. E. Jack, who was elected assessor, will not take office until the 1st of next January.

Surveyors are at work running a line up Abernathy creek for an electric railroad, it is thought. This creek lies a few miles southwest of Estacada, and runs parallel to the Clackamas, and empties into the Willamette near Oregon City.

Mountaineers tell us that the wild huckleberry crop in the Cascades range is just immense this year. It is a pity that clean hands cannot be found to pick this native Oregon delicacy, which is left almost wholly annually to scabby Indians and squaws, who dry them on sticky blankets from sore-backed ponies, and peddle them out to be eaten by white folks.—Moro Observer.

The Estacada band was one of the main features of the 4th's celebration. Many complimentary remarks were made concerning it. It seemed to be everywhere, and dispensing "sweet strains of happy music." Under the leadership of Mr. L. E. Belfis the boys have done remarkably well in the short time since the organization of the band. It is hoped the boys will continue in their good work.

The Fourth of July celebration in Estacada was all that could be expected under the circumstances. As is usual on such occasions the program was not carried out completely as it was advertised. But no one is to blame for it. There are always some unexpected things happening, and it takes a united effort on the part of everyone to make a Fourth celebration a real howling success. The Fire Department did as well as anyone could with the means at hand.

Golden Wests Win the Game

After 12 Winning Games Eagle Creek Surrenders to a Portland Team 6 to 0

Southpaw Twirler Gets Hit

There is an end to all things, both great and small. One's star may be in the ascendancy today and beyond the horizon at tomorrow's dawn. And all stars are all e. political, sporting, dramatic and business stars, all of them, become, as it were, shooting stars, and strike a downward course. Eagle Creek has a baseball team this year of which that town is proud, and well it may be, for the nine played 12 games this season before it met defeat. Their long, unbroken list of victories came to an end last Sunday, and the needles given them by a bird of dusky huskies of Por Lind on the home field. Several hundred people saw the game, and many attended to see that the visitors were given a fair show. It seems that the umpire had made several bad decisions in the game at Estacada on the 4th, all in favor of his home team. This, the local fans decided would not take place at St. Nida's game, without a loud noise being made. Both teams played good ball, but luck perched on the visitors' bench, who appeared to have the best all-round players, although they were only able to get 6 runs off the locals. It is reported that the same teams are to play another game at Eagle Ck on the 19th.

Chautauqua at Gladstone On

The Annual Time of Education Inspiration and Recreation Taking Place, Beautiful Park and Grounds

July 7th to 19th Inclusive

Beautiful Gladstone Park on the banks of the lower Clackamas river is again alive with people who are attending the annual meeting of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua that gathers there from the 7th to the 19th inclusive. Quite a few people from around here will be at the meeting part of the time. This is one of the opportunities during the year when people can take an outing near home, under the cool shade of the dense groves, and listen to the very best and refined amusements; hear the ablest platform speakers and lecturers, singers and musicians. Every day's program is a rare treat, and the interest is never lost.

Tomorrow, Friday the 10th, is Portland Day, and at 2 o'clock p. m. John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, and the United States, will give his great lecture on "America for Americans."

There are a number of other big men with national reputations as public entertainers. Each day's program begins in the morning and continues until in the evening.

Rules Governing Rural Mail Carriers

What May Be Carried by Rural Mail Carriers—Postoffice Department Writes About It—The Law on the Subject

The postoffice department writes under date of June 30th— Reports have been received at the department that rural carriers are carrying mailable merchandise as express matter for hire and that there is laxity on the part of postmasters and rural carriers in the observance of section 98, rural delivery instructions, relative to express package business by rural carriers. Paragraph 3 of section 98 reads— "Rural carriers are permitted to carry, outside of the mails, for hire, for and upon request of patrons of their routes, only unmailable articles and packages of merchandise, articles and packages of mailable matter weighing over 4 pounds and mailable and unmailable articles when combined in one package whether weighing in the aggregate more or less than 4 pounds, provided such articles are received of one merchant or patron to be delivered to one merchant or patron. But intoxicating liquors (ardent, vinous, spirituous or malt), explosives, liquids liable to explosion by shock or jar, or to spontaneous combustion, or any article exhaling bad odor, shall not in any circumstances be carried by rural carriers in their vehicles while on the service of their routes, or while they have mail in their custody for delivery or dispatch."

Electric Plant Being Repaired

The first of the new generators that has been put in at the power station will be started tomorrow, Friday, and electricity will again be secured from that source. This machine is one that was in use at a substation. Another generator that is coming from the east will be ready for use in about two weeks. The company considers that these two generators will furnish enough power until in the Fall, when another machine will have been installed, completing the plant as it was before the wreck.

Archie Yocum goes up to Mount Hood today. He will help his uncle in the sawmill getting out lumber for Pompil.

Wilbur Wade is over from Olix. He says the crops over where he lives have been damaged by the hot weather.

If you have a friend in the East or anywhere else who you like, subscribe for The News and send it to him or her.
