

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

RIOTING CONTINUES

Two More Deaths Recorded at Springfield, Illinois.

HARD TO MAINTAIN ANY ORDER

Frequent Shots From Ambush at the Troops Serve to Keep Whole Town in Uproar.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—Following the addition of two victims to the death list, sporadic outbreaks of lawlessness in various parts of the city and increased symptoms generally that the mob spirit still rules Springfield, Governor Deneen last night issued six proclamations offering rewards amounting to $1,200 for the arrest and conviction of the riot leaders. The deaths now number five, but since one death was due only indirectly to the disturbance, no account has been taken of it.

The two new victims were J. W. Scott and a three-weeks old negro baby, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Payne, of Springfield. The baby succumbed to exposure when its parents started to walk from Springfield to Pittsfield in an effort to avoid persecution. Scott died in a hospital from wounds received Friday night.

Scattered sections of the city were in an uproar at different times during the early part of the night. Harvard park was again the storm center. Twice patrols were fired upon in that vicinity, but in neither case was any one injured. This is the section to which troops were called Sunday night by similar occurrences. Over in the western end of town in the vicinity of the state house and arsenal there were several cases of revolver firing by rowdies.

The marauders traveled in groups of two or three, obeying the orders of the militia patrols to keep moving, but as soon as they were well past the groups of soldiers they drew their revolvers and fired into the air and fled down side streets, escaping in the darkness.

Two arrests, apparently not connected with the rioting, added excitement and served to frighten timid residents. As a consequence calls for troops were frequent and the militia had a hard night.

A picket from Company L, Fifth Infantry, fired five shots at a negro who attempted to break the entry line at Eighth and Jefferson streets early today. The negro escaped.

Thomas Richardson, a brother of the negro accused of attacking Mrs. Mabel Hallam, fled to Mississippi last night after he had been attacked by white men in Harvard park. Tom Richardson was a teamster, and when attacked he jumped from his wagon, leaving the horses standing in the street, went to the railroad station, and boarded a train for the South.

YELLOW PERIL IS REAL.

Canadian Statesman Says America Has Cause to Fear.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—T. Hamer Greenway, the most prominent Canadian in the British parliament, and a member of the executive committee of the Liberal party of Great Britain, who is visiting Canada, predicts a conflict between Japan and America. He says: "Japan is preparing to restrict the overflow of her people into countries where they are not wanted, but it does not require a prophet to foresee the feeling between these swartzy John Bulls of the Pacific and the white races of America may soon grow acute and may mean war. Just now Japan is having a struggle to make both ends meet in national finance and has cut down her naval and military program by large amounts."

"I have no doubt myself, however, that when she gets over the enormous losses of the late war with Russia there will be trouble. If she can stir up and force an alliance with half awakened China the yellow peril will be a reality."

Volcano of Oil Burning.

Tampico, Mex., Aug. 18.—Despite every effort made to stop it the miniature volcano of burning oil in the San Geronimo district continues unchecked, consuming 100,000 barrels of oil daily. Workmen today are pumping immense quantities of sand and mud into the crater. Powerful centrifugal pumps are pouring a stream of earth into the vortex, but the fire burns as fiercely as before. Since the well began burning, July 4, more than 5,000,000 barrels have been destroyed. The oil is valued at $1 a barrel.

Call on Langdon to Act.

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—District Attorney Langdon today was presented with a copy of a resolution adopted by the depositors of the Market street bank at a meeting yesterday, calling upon him to immediately begin the prosecution of the officials and directors of the suspended institution. Langdon was scored by several persons at the meeting for his alleged inactivity in the investigation of the bank's affairs. The resolution demanding immediate action by the district attorney was adopted unanimously.

Arkansans Draw Color Line.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 18.—Serious trouble is expected today at Truman, Pointz county, Arkansas, over the importation of 12 negroes to work in the yards of the Springfield Lumber company. Last night the white employees of the company and residents of the town declared they would not permit the blacks to live among them and declared they would be driven from the county. A posse visited the camp, but the negroes fled.

Eva Booth is Stricken.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 18.—Overcome by the intense heat, after addressing an audience of 4,000 persons at the Winona Lake Bible conference, Miss Eva Booth, leader of the Salvation Army in the United States, fainted just after leaving the auditorium and is now under the care of physicians.

Bars Up Against Curacao.

Willemstad, Aug. 17.—Letters from Venezuela say that all cargoes and passengers coming from Curacao will be refused at Venezuelan ports, but vessels from the island will be admitted without consular despatch.

TROOPS SCATTER MOB.

Police of Springfield Also Fought Attempt to Cut Wires.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—Two deaths from injuries received in previous mob fights, the attempted cutting of the fire alarm wires, the exoneration of Private J. B. Klein, company A, First Illinois Infantry, by a court of inquiry for the killing of Earl Nelson at Kankakee Saturday, and the pursuit of a mob by guardsmen were the chief developments in the race war in Springfield yesterday.

The attempt to cut the telephone and fire alarm wires leading to the city hall was not successful. A policeman saw three men on top of an outbuilding trying to reach the lines overhead. He turned in an alarm to the headquarters of General Wells, commanding a provisional brigade, and the latter dispatched a wagonload of soldiers to the scene. They arrived before the trio had done any damage. The would-be wirecutters fled, leaving their nippers behind.

A genuine scare was caused at the headquarters in the arsenal last night after a squad had been sent to disperse a crowd at Allen and Spring streets. Five minutes later a report reached Lieutenant Colonel Eddy that shots had been fired in the threatened district. He immediately sent a full platoon to the place to reinforce the squad. When the additional soldiers appeared the crowd broke and ran. The soldiers pursued them for several blocks and the district, which is near the scene of Saturday night's lynching, was in an uproar for a few minutes.

The arsenal was crowded last night with negro refugees from Springfield and surrounding towns. About 200 men, women and children sought shelter in the building and slept on the floor or in chairs.

Alarms were more numerous last evening than on former nights. In no single case, however, up to a late hour, was there any circumstance which compelled the use of force. A fire early in the evening at East Mason and Fourth streets brought out the largest crowd, but it was composed mostly of curiosity seekers and was handled easily. Three barns were destroyed by the fire, which is supposed to have been started by mischievous boys.

Governor Deneen explained last night that the disposition of troops at the capital was not because of any apprehension of danger to that edifice, but because the grounds offered excellent camping facilities and were a strategic point from which Colonel Sanborn could control the situation west of Seventh street.

The state's attorney of Kankakee county called on the governor in the afternoon in an effort to have arrested the soldier who stabbed Earl Nelson with a bayonet in the First Regiment train at Kankakee last night. The governor referred him to the military authorities.

HE CLAIMS VICTORY.

Castro Crows Over Holland, Although No Blood Shed.

Willemstad, Aug. 17.—It seems that the authorities refused to permit the Dutch cruiser Gelderland to enter the port of La Guayra, and this act was regarded at the capital in the light of a defeat for The Netherlands men-of-war. It was celebrated with a reception by President Castro, at which there was music and dancing, and when the president made his way through the streets of the city, he was given an ovation.

An official of the customs house at La Guayra, who had communication with the Gelderland has been dismissed.

The Netherlands vessel went into La Guayra August 14, and when she returned here, her commander said that all communication with the port had been refused. The port authorities declined to accept an official communication to the German minister, who is in charge of the interests of the Netherlands in Curacao.

The population of Curacao has petitioned the governor of the colony to declare free the importation and exportation of arms and ammunition.

Revolt Against Castro.

Panama, Aug. 17.—Numerous members of the Venezuelan colony here express gratification over the news that revolutionary affairs in their country. Two special commissioners from the revolutionary forces at Los Andes arrived here yesterday and brought to their countrymen the news that the revolutionary movement in Venezuela is very strong. General Roland, ex-president of the state of Guayana, and military chief in the recent Matos rebellion, the commissioners say, is being joined by enemies of Castro.

Gold Amalgam Stolen.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 17.—A sack of amalgam shipped by express to the Carson mint from Manhattan, a few days ago has disappeared. About a week ago two sacks containing gold amalgam worth several thousand dollars, were shipped from Manhattan. Only one arrived at the mint. Where the other is a mystery. Detectives have found that the shipment, instead of going via Mount House, came to Reno and was forwarded. They believe one of the sacks was stolen while they were being transferred in Reno.

Bloody Yaquis Raiding Again.

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 17.—Mesager reports have been received here of a Yaqui raid in Mexico in which four men were killed. A raiding band attacked the ranch of Jesus Mejia and killed the owner and his three daughters. A young son was carried away. Other outrages are also reported. A strong force was summoned and is now in pursuit of the Indians. Most of the trouble is in the Montezuma district, near Nacozari.

Asking Too Much.

At last one of the mobbers spoke to her. "Pardon me, ma'am," he said, "but must ask you to comply with our rules. Everybody back of you is complaining of your hat. Will you kindly remove it?" "I'll remove it, sir," she snapped, as she took out the hatpins, lifted the gorgeous creation from her head, and laid it in her lap; "but I want you to understand, sir, that I don't do it kindly! Not on your life!" "Thank you—sir," fervently ejaculated the man in the seat directly back of her, as the curtain went up.—Chicago Tribune.

ARE LEARNING KALE.

Oregon Farmers Overcome Prejudice of Long Standing.

From the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.

Kale is one of the best talking crops in Oregon. When the Oregon booster wants to prove that Oregon is the best dairy state in the union he has to talk kale. Unless he knows what kale will do to the milk bucket he has not qualified as a booster. It is called the thousand-headed kale, and the farmer knows it as a variety of kale, but it is the plain kale of four letters that does the talking. The strange thing is that it has only been raised the last two or three years that it has had an audience, though it is nearly thirty years old in the Willamette valley. It has tried to talk all those years, but the people wouldn't listen when it sought recognition.

"We never heard of it," he insisted, "back in Iowa and New York. Back there cows produce milk with out kale, and I guess they will have to here." That is tradition. It took thirty years for kale to get an audience in this state and live down tradition.

The dairymen of New York understand what green succulent food means to the dairy cow, and they build expensive silos, buy expensive machinery, and grow fertility-robbing corn, which they irrigate with their sweat, in order that the farmer during the long winter months may have an excuse for milking his cows. The Oregonian needs no expensive silos to remind the cow of the good old summer time. Kale! A thousand blessings on the thousand-headed kale in making Oregon the greatest dairy state in the union.

When grown under favorable conditions kale will yield 40 tons per acre of green feed, and its chief value is as a soiling crop during the fall and winter. Splendid results are being secured by feeding kale and vetch hay to dairy cows, without any grain or mill feed. Dr. Withycombe, of the Agricultural College, says that 15 pounds of vetch hay and 40 pounds of kale a day is practically a balanced ration for a dairy cow. Mr. W. L. Wilson, of Banks, Or., says: "I received $207 from 14 cows in the month of December, and fed them nothing but kale, turnips and vetch hay. The man who feeds chop would have to make $237 to clear as much as I do. I have not had a speck of mill feed in the barn all winter."

Mr. Byron Hunter, of Corvallis, as assistant agriculturist of the bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture, made a special study of the forage crops of Western Oregon, and in Bulletin No. 91, published jointly by the Oregon Experiment Station and the Department of Agriculture, has the following to say about kale, which is timely:

"In the fall and winter use kale is usually sown in drills on well prepared and drained soil so soon after the 15th of March as the season will permit. This furnishes plants for transplanting in June and July. The land used for transplanting is well manured and plowed two or three times between the first of March and the first of June. With the land in perfect tilth it is plowed again with a 12-inch plow about the first of June, and the young kale plants dropped into every third furrow about two and a half to three feet apart. This places about one plant to every square yard. The roots of the plants are placed where the next furrow covers them, leaving the soil uncovered. The plants that are plowed in during the day in this way are ready to be planted in the next day to sack the ground. Two or three cultivations are all that can usually be given, for the plants will soon touch in the row, if they do well. Any plants that fail to grow may be replaced by hand. Some growers prefer to plant the seed in hills, and when the plants are large enough thin them to one plant in a hill. Others put kale out just as cabbage is usually transplanted, and they are ready to be replaced by hand. Some growers prefer to plant the seed in hills, and when the plants are large enough thin them to one plant in a hill. Others put kale out just as cabbage is usually transplanted, and they are ready to be replaced by hand. WOULDN'T LET HER TELL IT.

They Adjoined Without Permitting the Kansas City Woman to Talk.

Some women have the funny idea that they are born to be orators. They seize every opportunity to deliver addresses and frequently disturb meetings by their demands to be heard, says the New York Telegraph. One of the most persistent public speakers I ever knew was Mrs. Blank of Kansas City. When she could not find a meeting ready made to address she would hire a hall and call a rally and do all the talking herself. Once upon a time a meeting was called for the purpose of devising means to strengthen the State militia; I think it was intended to merge several independent companies into the national guard or perhaps raise a regiment. Anyway, it was something in which men and men alone were interested. Judge that of the surprise of the Missouri majors and captains and colonels to see Mrs. Blank sitting in their midst when the meeting was called to order.

The patriotic Col. Crisp made a short address, and when he sat down Mrs. Blank arose and, raising her hand, cried out:

"Gentlemen, an American patriot once said—"

The chairman interrupted her and said that Col. Allen was the next speaker. He was heard and Mrs. Blank again hopefully arose to her feet. She fixed the presiding officer with her eye and cried aloud:

"Mr. Chairman, an American patriot once said—"

Col. Moore, who presided, told her that the former sheriff, Col. John C. Hope, who had served under Price in the Confederate army, was on his list as next speaker. Would she please wait? She waited and Col. Hope spoke for a big militia.

Col. Hope had hardly ceased his oration when Mrs. Blank again said suddenly and without addressing the chair:

"An American patriot once said—"

But just then Major Warner interrupted her by saying that he believed he was down for a speech and would like to say what he had to say and get away, as he had another engagement. The major was heard and Col. Bullens moved to adjourn.

A reporter after the meeting asked the lady to tell him what it was that the American patriot said.

"Let us have peace," she replied.

"Who said it?" asked the reporter as he wrote the phrase down in his notebook.

"Aaron Burr," she replied.

A HERO OF THE HIGH SEAS.

The adventures of no dashing rover of fiction make more exciting reading than the true history of Capt. John Manly. The valuable aid of the privateers during the Revolutionary period has always been recognized and acknowledged by the navy, and it is in appreciation of the fact that "Torpedo Boat No. 22" bears the name of the gallant captain, Edgar S. Manly, in his "History of American Privateers," gives an account of Manly's services to his country.

Captain Manly took charge of the Cumberland in 1779. Soon after the port command he was captured by a British frigate and carried to Barbadoes, where he was cruelly treated. His escape from prison was most audacious. He bribed the jailer, fled from his confines, seized an English government tender, placed the crew in irons, and made his way to the United States.

He was immediately placed in charge of the fine ship Jason of twenty guns. He had hardly left port when a small cutter, carrying his man-of-war, was coupled with his misfortune on the Cumberland, made the crew suspicious, and they mutinied.

A disabled ship and a rebellious crew are difficulties enough to dishearten any commander; but Manly was not to be downed by untoward circumstances. With the vigorous help of a cutlass he reduced the mutiny, and brought his ship to port for repairs. More than that, he took two prizes, the Hazard and the Adventurer. These he carried to Boston. There he heard that a British fleet of merchantmen, homeward bound, were supposed to be skirting the New England coast.

Manly could not lie quiet under such news, and off he started in pursuit. One thick day the fog suddenly lifted and revealed to the Jason a fleet of forty large ships in a shaming position. This was a bit too much, even for the bold captain, and by the aid of the fog, which fortunately shut down, again, he escaped.

Not long after this the Jason came up with the British vessel Surprise.

"Have to, or we will fire into you!" shouted the English captain.

"Fire away!" We have as many guns as you!" coolly replied Manly. He fought bravely, but again his crew mutinied and the Jason was captured. Manly was carried before the lord admiral.

"Are you not the same Manly who commanded the Cumberland?" questioned the admiral.

"Yes."

"Were you not taken by the Thunderer?"

"Yes."

"Did you not escape by bribing the jailer and taking the king's tender?" roared the admiral.

Manly did not wish to incriminate the jailer, so he held his peace. He was sent to England to be kept in Mill Prison until the end of the war, but in 1782 he was exchanged. He was at once put in command of the Hague, and in thirteen days had captured a valuable prize ship. How much more he would have harried British shipping is not known, for he was run into Martinique, and blockaded there until peace was declared.

Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.
