The Palace Meat Market has bought ninety dollars worth of hides in the past twenty days.

Mrs. Honier and Mrs. Gardner of Barton were shopping in Estacada on Tuesday.

Dr. Adix has had his house treated to a coat of shingle stain. Cassidy did the work.

Progress on the new church building is being made. W. W. Boner is the boss carpenter. We will have more to say of it when we have an opportunity to see it.

Willis Yonce has so far recovered as to be able to be down town on Wednesday. He is not feeling real strong but is better than he has been for a couple weeks.

M. H. Richards has taken over the Palace Meat Market and is conducting it himself. He is trying to get a man to put in the shop to aid in the work.

$275.00 will buy a Conover, upright piano, Colonial style, mahogany finish, practically new. Retail at $425.00.—Estacada State Bank.

Mr. Lockerby went fishing on Clear Creek on Wednesday. He will be gone for a few days and we expect he will add considerably to his piscatorial experience and be able to have the goods to verify his statements.

The State Editorial Association of Oregon meets in annual session at the Assembly Rooms of the Commercial Club, Portland, Ore., on Friday and Saturday April 9th and 10th business of importance will be transacted.

The PROGRESS and Human Life for one year. Price of both $1.50 PROGRESS and Weekly Oregonian one year, $1.50 PROGRESS and Semi-Weekly Journal for $1.50 a year.

The Palace Meat Market has had repainted and lettered their delivery wagon and we expect before long to see "Mort" taking a hike to the country with a wagon load of meat, prouder of it than the little boy with his first pair of red topped boots. Ferry did the work.

We have several pieces of property left with us to negotiate a sale for. Intending investors in Estacada will do well to consult us as we may have just what you want. Inquire at the PROGRESS office.

The Gresham Oil & Gas Development Co. is the name of a new corporation, the capital stock of which is $500,000 with headquarters at Portland. They own a tract of land at Gresham and have secured options on three hundred additional acres. It is their intention to drill for oil and gas. The company is negotiating for a 10 inch drill and expect to go down 3,500 feet if necessary.

Another cattle war has broken out in Big Horn, Wyoming. Fifteen masked horsemen rode into the sheep men's camp on April 2nd and shot Joe Allemand, Joe Emge, wealthy and prominent sheepmen, and Jose Lazier, a herder. The telephone wires were cut and the news did not reach Basin until late. $2,000 reward is offered for the capture of the raiders.

The subscription price of Human Life—the Magazine about people—which has made such a remarkable success, and is now in such great demand, has been advanced to $1.00 per year. If you accept this offer now you can get this most unique and most interesting magazine and the PROGRESS for $1.50 a year. This offer must be withdrawn May 1st. Take advantage of it now.

L. S. Wilson, who in company with Mr. Smith, started for British Columbia last week went as far as Spokane and found that the road he was to travel was blocked by a wreck and that he would lose the work he was to do, so he returned to Estacada and decided to settle down here in earnest. Mr. Smith continued his journey.

Historical Incidents of The Pioneer Life In Clackamas Co. By "Emigrant"

Mr. Philip Foster settled on a donation claim in the Eagle Creek bottom, East of the river called by that name, and where Mr. Egbert Foster's modern residence now stands, in the early days. He had the first store of small supplies, that he kept to sell to the emigrants that came through the Cascade Range, over the old Barlow route.

As it was the first place where they could get these supplies after leaving The Dalles many were the greenbacks he gathered in in those days and as it was the farthest out-post where one could replenish his supplies in going into the mountains to prospect for the precious metals, many an ounce of the glittering gold he had weighed out to him. Many an early pioneer still retains memories of being at Philip Foster's place while their teams rested after their hard trip through the mountains. He had some small houses, standing where the Jacques buildings now stand, which were ten by sixteen built of small round logs. As high as three and four families were living in these houses at the same time, for a few weeks. As those pioneer families generally consisted of several in each family, one can see how they had gotten used to being close together. But after being from under a roof, except a tent or wagon cover, for five or six months anything in the shape of a house was nice to be in and especially if they could once more sit and let their feet hang down, instead of sitting flat on the ground.

Mrs. Foster was a Mrs. Petygrove, a precious good motherly old soul, the mother of three girls, Lucy Burnett, mother of the Burnett boys, Mary Young, and Martha Lake. Also three sons, Frank, Isaac, and Egbert. Mr. Philip Foster had other children by a farmer wife, George and James, who owned the property where Guss Burnett now lives, also one girl, who died quite young in an early day.

Mr. Foster owned and operated the first grist mill in this part of Clackamas County. It was built at the point of the hill, near the Suter property, and many were the grists he put through his mill. Burrs that wouldn't compare with the present patent process flour for whiteness or raising as there was so much of mother earth mixed with the grain in the process of extracting the berry from the straw, that it was a hard matter to have the flour clean. The grain raised at that date was fine and large berried but as they had to tramp out all the grain or else flail it cut and then clean it from the chaff by letting the wind blow through it, it was no wonder the flour was a little dark. The mill was run by an old turbine water wheel.
