The correct way to pronounce it is Es-ta-ca-da, accent on the third syllable, having the sound of a as in ah in the two last syllables.

Low one-way colonist rates from all parts of the East to Pacific Coast terminals are offered by the railroad from March 1 to April 15. The opportunity to bring thousands of new settlers to Oregon is a valuable one and commercial organizations of the state will take advantage of it to the fullest extent.

The attractive literature sent out during the past year and the wide publicity given all parts of Oregon have been fruitful of results and inquiry about this state was never so general as at the present time. Because of this widespread interest in Oregon, it may be expected that the state will receive a large immigration during the coming Spring. Oregon people should do all they can to add to this movement to the Pacific Northwest by arousing interest among their friends in other parts of the country who are looking for new homes and information should be supplied them on the opportunities here for newcomers and particularly those who desire to engage in agriculture, horticulture, stock raising or dairying. These lines of endeavor are rewarding those who are engaged in them.

Completion of the Natron-Klamath line of the Southern Pacific within the coming 18 months is promised by Judge W. D. Fenton, counsel for the Harriman road, who says that at the end of that time trains of his company will be running between Portland and San Francisco over the new route, which will have a maximum grade of 1 per cent. Work is going ahead on 65 miles of the new route now and the remainder will be completed as soon as possible. The building of the Natron line will not only open up a large new territory that is now without railroads, but will give a low-grade freight line that will eliminate the heavy grades of the Siskiyou Mountains. The budget for new equipment for the Harriman lines in this territory for the year 1910 has been made up and is in excess of the money asked in any previous year for rolling stock. The budget calls for over $2,000,000 for new freight and passenger cars and locomotives.

The long continued cold weather of the winter has not had a bad effect on crops, as might have been expected, but has been rather beneficial to them, according to reports from different parts of the state. Fruit prospects throughout the Northwest are now the brightest in years, it is said, the cold weather holding back the buds so long that there is little fear of damage by late frosts. This is shown particularly in the apple and pear orchards, where the crop during the past year was the smallest in several seasons. The snowfall of the winter is said to have been generally ample to protect fall sown grain except in some portions of the Willamette Valley. The snow, too, has added moisture to the ground in the drier sections.

The January number of "The Timberman" has an unusual amount of information of interest, not alone to the timber and lumber industry, but the aggressive thinking man will want to keep it as a means of reference to subjects that for years are to be vital and important questions in the Northwest. Irrigation, reforestation and "conservation" are important subjects. "The Timberman," always interesting to us, is more so this issue and those who have failed to see it should send the price and have it forwarded at once.

Livestock men of the Northwest will meet at the Commercial Club rooms in Portland on January 27th when dates for the various fairs and racing meets in the Pacific Northwest for the coming season will be determined. The meeting will be a joint one under the auspices of the North Pacific Fair Association and the Oregon Pure Breed Livestock Association. The meeting will conclude with a banquet at night.

HIS BUMPS.

The Explanation Given by the Book on Phrenology.

They were newly married and were calling upon one of the friends of the bride who had been particularly pleasant upon the occasion of their wedding. The bridegroom, apropos of nothing, began to talk about phrenology and told how his wife had discovered a very prominent bump on the back of his head. He was proud of them. So was she, and she passed him around that the host and hostess might feel the bumps and know of their existence. Then she explained:

"My book on phrenology says that they mean good memory and generosity."

It was evident that she was proud of the facts, and so was he. But the best, being of an inquiring turn of mind, wished to satisfy himself, so he got down a phrenological work from one of his library shelves and after much labor found the bumps on the chart. Turning to the notes, he read, "First, then, ascendancy. The bride became suspicious, but she was game and said:

"Read it out loud, please do!" And the host read:

"These bumps are most frequently found on cats and monkeys."

Other topics consumed the remainder of the visit, which was brief.—New York Sun.

THE CABINET LEAK.

Daniel Webster Was Not Long In Discovering Its Source.

Once years ago, when Daniel Webster was secretary of state, there was an important foreign matter up for discussion before the cabinet, and the utmost secrecy was of course maintained, but the whole thing was blazoned about in a few hours after the cabinet meeting. So the president hastily sent for his cabinet to talk over this leak. Each man had a different idea of it.

Finally Mr. Webster arose, saying, "You, gentlemen, go on with your discussion, and I'll be back in a minute." In a few minutes he returned and repeated every word that had been spoken in the room in his absence. He explained that if by standing close to the door outside the cabinet room you held your ear to it you could not distinguish one intelligible word, but if moving back from the door and a little to one side upon a certain spot in the carpet you kept an attentive ear every word could be plainly heard as though whispered. Some enterprising newspaperman had been experimenting with the door and had found that upon that exact spot there was some acoustic property of the door or room that conveyed the sound in perfect entirety.

"Ging—ging!"—The auctioneer had auctioneered for the last time, for he was very ill and lay now almost at death's door. Beside his bed stood the doctor and the auctioneer's wife, anxiously watching each symptom, each movement, each respiration.

"Doctor," hoarsely whispered the hammer wielder's wife, "what is his pulse now?"

The doctor raised the patient's wrist. "His pulse," he answered, "is now going at 194."

The auctioneer sat up excitedly in bed.

"Going at 194!" he cried feebly. "Going at 194! Who'll make it 105? Do I hear 105 for a pulse that has been running steadily for forty-seven years and never once stopped? Will you bid 105? Who'll make it 105?"

But no one made it 105. And a minute later the auctioneer was going—going—gone!—Exchange.

How Eskimo Women Die.

On her first entrance to her new but of snow an Eskimo woman is buoyed by hope of welcoming a son. What of her last breathing to those narrow confines? She knows that the medicine man has decided that her sickness is mortal when she is laid upon her bed of snow. She gazes upon the feebly burning lamp beside her, upon food and drink set close to her hand. She sees her loved ones pass out of the doorway that needs to tunnel entrance to keep chill airs away, for presently the door is sealed with snow. The chill of death pierces through her enveloping furs. Her tomb insures that no long tarrying will be hers. The soul, accompanying with her, may refresh itself with food, but starving and freezing, her feeble body will witness even that soul's departure and know that its hour has come to perish alone.—Harper's Bazar.

Paying For the Spots.

"I conceived a perfectly dandy scheme for saving my table linen and teaching Jack to be dainty about his carving," said a young married woman. "Every time he gets a spot on the tablecloth I have him cover it with a coin. The larger the spot the larger the coin, and more often than not it takes paper money to cover it all. Then Norb takes up the money when she clears the table, and we save it up to buy kitchen utensils."—New York Press.

Think It Over.

Fudly—What a happy world this would be if more of us got what we wanted! Fudly—Yes, or else fewer of us got what we deserved.—Boston Transcript.

Comforting the Sick.

Louise Jebb—And tell Tom not to worry about me. Mary—I did. He said he wouldn't. "The horrid brute!"—Life.

The song that nerves a nation's heart is in itself a deed.—Tennyson.

PURE ALUMINUM 1892
TRADE MARK

This Mark Insures Your Health

Look at the bottom of every utensil you buy and if it bears the above trade mark and words "The Original Pure Bloon 1892 Aluminum" you are certain of 15 years steady service. The makers guarantee every piece to wear that length of time.

More important still you will safeguard the family health by using "1892" Pure Spun Aluminum because they can't crack, scale, peel, rust nor tarnish. No particles will chip off into the food and cause serious stomach troubles as physicians say the old enamel ware will do.

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum is beautiful as silver, easier to keep clean and lighter to handle. It cooks quicker, reduces chance of burning food and saves its cost in many ways.

Money refunded if this ware does not make good every claim made for it.

We have a full and attractive line. Drop in and see it and get a Pure Aluminum souvenir free while they last.

GARFIELD

Your attention is again called to the Social of the States to be held Tuesday evening Feb. 15th at the Nora Hale-Looney Memorial Church. The following states are known to have representatives and it is hoped that natives of many other states will be present to respond to roll call. We print the name of one person from each of these states who solicits the help and suggestions from all others from his state in preparing a suitable response to roll call. Each state will first give its sobriquet as Illinois "Prairie," Indiana "Hoosier," Ohio "Buckeye" etc. Washington, Mr. Robt. Duncan; Ohio, Mr. W. R. Stokes; Ill., Mr. A. O. Whitcomb; Virginia, Mr. C. Looney; Oregon, Mrs. S. E. Wooster; Indiana, Mrs. Elsie Rentschler; Minnesota, Mr. Howe; Missouri, Mr. S. E. Wooster; California, Mr. L. E. Belfis; Nebraska, Mr. Chas. Sparks; Pennsylvania, Mr. E. S. Womer; Foreign Born, Rev. H. W. Kuhlman; S. Dakota, Mr. Geo. Combs; Iowa, Mrs. English; Michigan, Mr. Phil Standish. Natives of other states not given above will kindly notify Mr. Robt. Duncan of their intention to be present. A competent organizer will be present to accompany states which respond by song. Kindly bring your minstrel. A lively competition is already developing. Try to make your state the prize winner. It is hoped some will appear in costume peculiar to their state.

EAGLE CREEK

The Douglas Ridge Telephone Co. held a special meeting Monday night and the funds for completing the line to Estacada were placed in the hands of the treasurer. The managing board intend to put it through as soon as possible, but have been delayed somewhat by the non arrival of material.

It is considered certain that a new telephone company will be organized at Eagle Creek to run to Estacada over the trunk line now being built. We have learned that the Dover people are also coming our way and are now at work on their line.

The good, old-time Henry Githens mistook the telephone poles for logs and came out to "the log rolling." We appreciated his assistance and enjoyed his company.

Mr. Lewis Rivers will wrestle with Noel Sarver at Wilbern's hall on Thursday evening. He hopes to regain his lost honors.

King Winter has changed his mood and the "webfeet" are, no doubt, all glad to have it so, as they enjoy life better so themselves and are glad to show the new comers what Oregon winters are like.

Hoover and Large, who have leased the mill on Deep Creek, shipped a car of shingles this week. This is their first output.

The shingle mill at Alsbaugh is running again with an output of 35,000 a day.

Fifty cords more of Uncle Andy Kitzmiller's wood went sailing this week. How the "river rats" must rejoice when it comes! This is the third time he has helped the poor in this way this winter.

Mr. Bohn and some railroad men were out Monday looking over the ground for a new switch on the Bohn farm, near the Grange hall.

A Pacific States' man was out the same day looking at their old line. He said they were contemplating building a new and more substantial line using 30 ft. poles and heavy copper wires.

Jowdy is selling out, see his bargains.
