The correct way to pronounce it is Es-ta-ca-da, accent on the third syllable, a having the sound of a as in ah in the two last syllables.

The attitude of the Progress toward the good of our city or country district is well understood by any thoughtful man or woman. We said in accepting the managing and editing of its columns over two years ago that it stood for and would advance the best interests of Eastern Clackamas and its people. We have felt that without fear or favor, and in some cases to our own personal financial loss, we have maintained that attitude and we further promise it will be maintained by us. Educational and church work has always been and will be upheld. Narrow minded, distorted and contorted ideas of such work will receive the consideration they deserve. We have ideas of a rounded out christian character in any individual that contemplates and does good. "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me" was the teaching of our Great Teacher. Any man's work that cannot be measured by the simple scale which includes doing good, has a mistaken idea of christian character. We do not expect every man to be judged by our standard of right, nor do we think any man has the authority to make ours.

Autumn, the time for gathering the products of the farm is here and the farmer is accordingly happy. Many days has he labored that he might have this annual payday. Unlike the day laborer in this respect who received the wages due him weekly or monthly, he must wait a whole year for most of his pay. It is free from many of the cares and worry of business or professional life. Like all professions it has failures as farmers, among those who till the soil but the loss and wreck of earthly possessions among this class of lively-hood seekers is small as compared to what it is in business and other means of earning a living. "Back to the farm" is becoming the slogan of many who have been actively engaged in business in the larger cities. As a rule farming does not afford the get-rich-quick opportunity that so many seek after but it does afford a way to be comfortable happy and contented also a means of making money and having a conscience void of offense.

The storm and rain that commenced on Sunday has thoroughly soaked the ground. The farmers are busy with the garnering of the grain, fruits and other products of their farms. Now the rains have come and they will be busy plowing and making ready to sow again that another reaping time may come.

$150,000 is the combined reward offered in Los Angeles, Cal., for the apprehension and conviction of the conspirators who blew up the Times building, killing probably twenty persons and wrecking the building.

It is reported that Lisbon, the capital of Portugal, has been captured by rebels with the assistance of the Portuguese army and navy and that King Manuel II is virtually a prisoner there.

STANLEY AS A FIGHTER.
His Revenge on the Africans For Attacking His Forces.
In the following language Sir Henry M. Stanley describes an attack of natives upon his party during one of his African expeditions: "The levantine bears down on us with racing speed, its consorts on either flank spurting the water into foam and shooting up jets with their sharp prows. A thrilling chant from 2,000 throats rises louder and louder on our hearing. Presently the poised spears are launched, and a second later my rifles respond with a ripping, crackling explosion, and the dark bodies of the canoes and paddlers rush past us. "For a short time the savages are paralyzed, but they soon recover. They find there is death in those flaming tubes in the hands of the strangers, and with possibly greater energy than they advanced they retreat, the pursued becoming the pursuers in hot chase. My blood is up. It is a murderous world, and I have begun to hate the filthy, vulturous shoals who inhabit it. "I pursue them upstream, up to their villages. I skirmish in their streets, drive them pellmell into the woods beyond and level their ivory temples. With frantic haste I fire their huts and end the scene by towing their canoes into midstream and setting them adrift."

THEY WERE "OVER."
He was a regular patron of the restaurant. Perhaps that is why he felt justified in making clever remarks to the waitresses, remarks which they were puzzled to know how to answer. One day, however, the smallest and timidest girl happened to be serving this irritating customer, and it fell to her to answer him in kind. "I'll have some steak," he said, coming in late for dinner, "and some squash, and some— Got some baked potatoes, fine, brown baked potatoes?" "Baked potatoes are all over," said the girl.
He leaned back in his chair and gazed at her quizzically. "Baked potatoes all over, are they?" he replied. "All over what?" "With," she replied simply—"Youth's Companion."

THE PLANET VENUS.
Night Eternal Reigns Over One-half of Her Globe.
To have the same hemisphere exposed everlastingly to sunlight while the other is in perpetuity turned away must cause a state of things of which we can form but faint conceptions from what we know on earth. Baked for aeons without letup and still baking, the sunward face must if unshaded be a Tophet surpassing our powers adequately to portray. And unshaded it must be, as we shall presently see. Reverse the other must be a hyperborean expanse to which our polar regions are temperate abodes, for upon one whole hemisphere of Venus the sun never shines, never so much as peeps above the star studded horizon. Night eternal reigns over half of her globe. The thought would appall the most intrepid of our arctic explorers and prevent at least everybody from going to the pole, or rather, what here replaces it, "through the dark continent." It exemplifies the eventual effects of a force in astronomical mechanics the importance of which is only beginning to be appreciated, tidal friction. It has brought Venus as a world to the deathly pass we have contemplated together. Starting merely as a brake upon her rotation, it has ended by destroying all those physical conditions which enable our own world to be what it is. Night and day, summer and winter, heat and cold, are like vicissitudes unknown above upon our sister orb. There nothing changes while the centuries pass. An eternity of deathly deathlessness is Venus' staturesque lot.—Dr. Percival Lowell in Popular Science.

Chivalrous Johnnie.
"What's the matter, Joe?"
"I have just had a fight with Johnnie over dividin' the candy you gave us."
"Was there no one to take your part?"
"Yes'm; Johnnie took it!"—Houston Post.

A Cruel Stab.
Katie—What a lovely ring? Matie—Isn't it? This ring was given me on my twenty-first birthday. Katie—Really? Why, how well preserved it is! It's hardly a bit worn!—Cleveland Leader.

Her Choice.
"May I offer you my umbrella and my escort home?"
"Many thanks. I will take the umbrella."—Fliegende Blätter.

A hunting party composed of Estacada and Springwater nirobds have planned a hunting trip up the Clackamas. It is expected, weather permitting, they will leave on Friday and expect to be gone a week or ten days. As they are all experienced hunters and all have records there is no question as to what is anticipated by the party. If favorable weather is their portion it is believed they will secure some game.

W. H. Kandle, of Springwater, who stays pretty close to his ranch usually, spent a couple of days this week in Portland.
