The correct way to pronounce it is Es-ta-ca-da, accent on the third syllable, a having the sound of a as in ah in the two last syllables.

President Atwell of the State Horticultural Society has issued a call for a convention of fruit growers and fruit shipping associations of the Pacific Northwest to meet at Portland January 24. The convention will consider the organization of a fruit growers' central selling agency and also decide what attitude shall be taken toward apple box legislation.

It is proposed to model the association on the citrus fruit growers' organizations of California and limit it to the boxed apple trade. It will include Western Montana and Western Colorado, which, with the Pacific Northwest, grow practically all the boxed apples of the country. Better distribution of apples, providing against glut in some markets and scant supply in others, are the prime objects of the association.

The convention, coming as it does the week following the meeting of the Washington Horticultural Association at Prosser on January 17, will probably attract some attention from that body. President Atwell and others will go to Prosser and speak before the Washington orchardists on the proposed association.

A number of our exchanges have been getting out year end edition and dressing up in holiday attire.

The Portland Journal's year end edition was not only bulky but contained much information.

The Courier, of Oregon City, was all dressed up and gave its readers a shock as to the style it could put on and the information it was willing to give.

The Beaver State Herald, of Gresham, magazine itself in twenty-four pages of interesting information concerning men, business and opportunities at and surrounding Gresham.

Thousand of pounds of black walnuts and acorns are being shipped by the Government from Arkansas to District Forester Chapman of Portland to be distributed for seed throughout the burned-over forest areas of the Pacific Northwest. Forest rangers will take charge of planting the seed and within the next quarter century it is expected Oregon will have great quantities of hard woods available for furniture making and other uses.

Portland proposes to celebrate Dewey Day, May 1, 1911, in a manner long to be remembered. The cruiser Boston, which is credited with having fired the first gun in the Spanish-American war, will be in the harbor, acting as a training ship for the Oregon Naval Reserve, and the same gun that fired on the Spaniards in Manila Bay will boom out a salute to Admiral Dewey. That great sea fighter is to be invited to attend the Portland celebration.

Wealth in Oregon streams, as well as in the fertile soil of the Beaver state, is shown by the figures of the annual take of salmon in Oregon waters chiefly the Columbia River. A total of 290,000 cases, 35,000,000 pounds, was packed during the past year, having a value of $3,500,000.

A large increase in the general state fund is shown during the last two years, according to the report of the Secretary of State. Receipts amount to $3,752,939 against $2,805,495 for the preceding biennial period.

When buying a cough medicine for children bear in mind that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is most effective for colds, croup and whooping cough and that it cures no harmful drug. For sale by all good dealers.

Denatured Alcohol in Solid Form
(Cleveland Special Dispatch)
A well known Wheeling, W. Va., chemist has succeeded in producing chunks of denatured alcohol in crystal form by means of a small infusion of certain acids whereby crystals of an alkaloidal nature very closely resembling phylogically the effects of ethyl alcohol distilled from saw dust. The method employed and the results obtained are somewhat similar to the crystallizing of rock candy or that of Saccharine containing as it does 350 times the sweetening strength over that of cane sugar so this alkaloidal crystallized alcohol contains many times the strength over the ordinary denatured fluid alcohol they will yield 194 proof denatured alcohol with a greater heating and cooking power for stoves than gasoline and it is absolutely non-explosive.

From the Oregonian January 5th, we read the account of a tragedy enacted near Oregon City late in afternoon of yesterday in which Nelson Beche aged 80 killed his brother Hiram aged 77. It seems from the account that Nelson, who was addicted to the drink habit, had come home in an intoxicated condition and was met at the door by his brother Hiram with an axe with which he struck him when he attempted to enter the house. Nelson then secured a club and the fight to the death resulted. Nelson

Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. DEATH OF MRS. CAROLINE LOONEY
Caroline Looney, wife of Henry Looney, died on Tuesday at the home of her son R. A. Looney near Salem, Ore. Mrs. Looney had been in a feeble condition for a long time but recently her physician and her friends thought she was improving. On last Sunday her son R. A. Looney took her to his home near Salem where she only lived a couple of days. She was sitting in a chair conversing with some of the family when it was noticed that her voice was becoming weaker but she continued to carry on the conversation just the same until death closed it. Her remains were brought to Estacada on Wednesday evening and on Thursday were taken to the M. E. Church where they remained until 2 P. M. when Rev. Brown conducted the funeral services. Interment was made at the Lone Oak Cemetery.

Henry Looney and his family consisting of his wife and two sons R. A. and Wm. Looney came to Oregon from W. Virginia in 1881. They settled a couple of miles north of where Estacada now is and had accumulated considerable property. For some years Mr. and Mrs. Looney have been estranged. Her husband at this time being at Walton, W. Va. Their son William died a couple of years ago and R.

FOSTER PLEADS GUILTY

WASHED AWAY HIS HOME.
The Fortune That Came to a Man and His Clever Wife.
An Irishman named Whalen found a fortune in a very amusing way, says the Cape Town Argus. With the savings of his wife he bought not far from Ballarat a few acres of ground containing a water pool and a sluggish spring. With the mud and gravel from the bottom of the pool he made sun dried bricks and, building a cabin for himself and family, started a bar for the miners.

Quite contrary to their usual habits, a colony of Chinamen living near by commenced to visit his bar every night. Then Mrs. Whalen discovered that some one had bit by bit carried off the mud plaster and its surrounding wall so gradually that it had almost gone before she noticed it. Soon the chimney and the cabin walls also began to vanish. After a careful watch Mrs. Whalen discovered that while one band of Chinamen kept her husband busy in the bar another band was stealing the chimneys and walls.

Whalen knew the Chinamen were no fools, and, acting on his wife's suggestion, he also "stole a pan of dirt" from his own chimney and washed it out. Then he ordered tents for his family to live in and washed away the entire house. It was literally built of gold dust. After that the pool and the spring were also attacked, and the result was a big fortune for the lucky Irishman and his cute little wife.

THEIR FATHERS.
All Three Were Trimmers, but One Was a Star.
The story, long since familiar, of the little boy whose boast that his father had put a cupola on his house was capped by his playmate, who remarked proudly that his father had just put a mortgage on the deed, is brought to mind by an occurrence which was told the other day by a prominent politician.

The small son of a man who was in politics for revenue only on moving into a new district went out and struck up an acquaintance with two other kids of the same age who lived in the neighborhood. They were invited to the newcomer and began to try him out as to what his parents amounted to anyhow.
"My father is a window trimmer and an awfully big man," said the first kid.

"Ah, that's nothing!" said the second. "My father's a dump trimmer, and he's twice as big as yours."
It was plainly up to the stranger to make good. And he did it with much gusto.
"My father is a politician," he said, "but I heard a man tell him last night that he was the biggest trimmer in this ward."

And it was apparent to any one that the new kid had made a strong impression upon the neighborhood.—New York Herald.
Wood Too Hard to Burn.
There are certain kinds of wood that are too hard to burn or refuse to ignite for some other reason, such as iron wood and the good birch root, but it is a curiosity to come across a piece of common deal—the soft, light wood of which so many boxes are made—that cannot be set fire to. The piece of wood in question was common white deal from Sweden, but was remarkable for its comparative weight. It had formed part of a boat belonging to a whaler and had been dragged below the surface of the water to the depth of more than half a mile by a harpooned whale. The length of line and the short distance from the point of descent after being struck at which the whale rose to the surface was a proof of the depth to which it had dragged the boat. Only part of the boat came up again at the end of the line, and it was taken on board when the whale had been killed. That piece of wood was so hard that it would not burn in a gas jet. The weight of water had compressed it.—London Standard.

Chivalrous Johnnie.
"What's the matter, dear?"
"I have just had a fight with Johnnie over dividin' the candy you gave us."
"Was there no one to take your part?"
"Yes; Johnnie took it!"—Houston Post.

A Cruel Stab.
"Katie—What a lovely ring! Matie—Isn't it? This ring was given me on my recent first birthday. Katie—Really? Why, how well preserved it is! It's hardly a bit worn!"—Cleveland Leader.

Her Choice.
"May I offer you my umbrella and my escort home?"
"Many thanks. I will take the umbrella."—Fliegende Blätter.

Old Soldier Tortured.
