The correct way to pronounce it is Es-ta-ca-da, accent on the third syllable, a having the sound of a gas in ah in the two last syllables.

A good live newspaper is an important asset in the business of a community. A single item frequently catches the eye of a homeseeker and brings a permanent resident.

What particularly strikes the eye of the visitor to Estacada is the wonderful possibilities for fruit-raising on the logged-off lands. Conditions as to soil and climate are as favorable here as they are in any other part of the State, and what has been accomplished in less than a decade or two in Southern Oregon can readily be duplicated here.

The opinion has been held pretty generally among those interested in the raising of garden truck and farm products generally in this vicinity that the side hills herabouts were not adapted to the raising of corn. The fallacy of this reasoning has been thoroughly demonstrated by Mr. T. J. Reagan, who followed his own bent last Spring and seeded a considerable patch of ground to the succulent corn. The wisdom of his course has been most conclusively shown, although the weather conditions in the early part of the season were anything but favorable. No finer crop was ever raised even in Missouri, whose people are supposed to enjoy a monopoly of the knowledge of the science of raising first class corn. Skeptics who still entertain the idea that the Estacada hills won't produce corn, and that, too, of a class that would be hard to excel, have only to call at Mr. Reagan's most attractive little farm in order to be convinced that the soil on the hillsides will work wonders in the line of corn-culture.

Splendid Game of Baseball

On Sunday last a splendid game of baseball was played on the local diamond, the competing teams being the home aggregation and that from River Mill. The visitors were victorious, the score being 3 to 1. The game was almost errorless from beginning to end, and was watched by a large crowd of enthusiastic fans. The home boys took their defeat with good grace, and while local pride would have been better satisfied with a different result, the unanimous verdict of one and all of the local spectators was voiced in the assurance, "We gave them a good game, anyway." The batteries were: Estacada—Thompson and Partellus; River Mill—Calef and Toodles.

Escaped the Bullets.
Dr. James Crink, who was Washington's family physician, was with the Father of His Country in the expedition against the French and Indians in 1754, and the next year he attended General Braddock to his fatal campaign. Fifteen years later, while exploring wild lands in the western part of Virginia, Dr. Crink encountered a band of Indians led by an aged chief, who informed the physician through an interpreter that he had made a long journey to see Colonel Washington, at whom in the battle of Monongahela he had fired his rifle five times and ordered all his young men to do the same. In fact, Washington had two horses killed under him that day, and his coat was pierced with four bullets, yet he left the battlefield unscathed.

A Chemical Experiment.
When the genial Quaker, Isaac T. Hopper, met a boy with a dirty face or hands he would stop him and inquire if he ever studied chemistry. The boy, with a wondering stare, would answer, "No."
"Well, then, I will teach thee how to perform a curious chemical experiment," said "Father" Hopper. "Go home, take a piece of soap, put it in water and rub it briskly on thy hands and face. Thou hast no idea what a beautiful froth it will make and how much whiter thy skin will be. That's a chemical experiment. I advise thee to try it!"—Life of Isaac T. Hopper.

Ancient History.
"I'm satisfied," said the young man who was just home from college, "that the science of electricity was understood before the flood."
"Don't be a fool," snorted the old gentleman.
"Beg pardon, but Noah must have certainly used some kind of an ark light."

Engaged Men—Love me! Why, she usually counts the kisses I give her! Cynical Friend—That's bad. She may keep it up after your marriage.—Boston Transcript.

One of These Crazy Questions.
"Well, great guns, Jones! I see you're wearing glasses. What for?"
"For a sprained knee, you darned fool! What do you suppose?"—Toledo Blade.

Another Trouble.
The trouble with most men is that they want to be at bat all the time and are never willing to do any fielding.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Dark Smoke.
"Funny thing about smoking! If a man were compelled to puff a good cigar with his eyes shut the operation would lose its zest. A man who had undergone a slight operation upon one of his eyes had to stay in a darkened room for a week with his optics bandaged. After a few days his doctor told him he could take a gentle smoke if he liked. He jumped at the chance and to his amazement found it afforded not the slightest pleasure. To be sure, men often smoke in the dark, but there's always the rosy glow of the lighted end to be seen and the faint outline of the cloud of smoke in the air. There's no more fun in a cigarette smoke than a saltless egg or a kiss implanted upon your own hand. What's the psychology of it?—New York Press.

Thirty Years Together.
Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that good time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Aris, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it is the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for grippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Accused of Stealing.
E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at all druggists.

Summons.
In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Clackamas County, Estacada State Bank, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs.
D. F. Warner, Defendant.
To D. F. Warner, the above-named defendant:

D. 1911, and if you fail to answer, for want thereof, of the plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of One Hundred and Forty-One Dollars and Eighty Cents, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 18th day of November, A. D. 1910, together with the costs and disbursements by this plaintiff incurred.
This summons is published by order of the Honorable R. B. Beatie, Judge of the County Court for Clackamas Co., Oregon, and said order was made and dated the 14th day of August, A. D. 1911, and the date of the last publication of this summons is the 28th day of September, 1911.

SOUTH SEA FASHIONS.
The Dusky Native Belles Have Queer Ideas About Dress.
It would be hard to find a spot where the subject of dress does not away the feminine mind. To the world at large its observance causes either a great deal of pleasure or a good store of amusement. In the category of amusement may be placed the proceedings of the dusky belles described by Beatrice Grimshaw in her book, "In the Strange South Seas."
A lace trimmed garment of mine, usually worn at night under the shelter of sheets and quilts, went to a Sunday morning church as a best dress in full daylight on the person of the laundress entrusted with my wash. The funny side was so conspicuous that she never got the reproof she deserved.

A certain flower made of popples, a bloom unknown in the Pacific, first drove the women of the island half distracted with excitement then led thirty-six native ladies to appear simultaneously at a dance wearing excellent copies of my Paris model done in double scarlet bibaceous from the bush.
A wedding from which an unfortunate was absent furnished the finest display of native dress that took place that year. The bride wore fourteen silk dresses, not all at once, but one after another, changing her dress again and again during the reception until the white spectators were fairly giddy.

JOY IN THE SCHOOL.
How Infant Classes in Some Foreign Countries Are Handled.
The man in the club had been talking politics with the school inspector until that gentleman declined to discuss the subject any more.
"Well, I'll talk about the youngsters themselves for a change," he said. "Do you know that both in France and Belgium reading, writing and arithmetic are being omitted from the subjects taught in infant schools? The children are simply taught to be happy instead. And when they bring their dinners to school the food has, under the official regulations, to be put into a basket, which must be labeled at the school and set down in a special shelf in a clean, airy place. Fancy such regulations in England! Any old newspaper and any cupboard is good enough for our children."
"In Germany toys are provided for play time, and all little children are compelled to bring clean pocket handkerchiefs to school, and they must have a bath once a week."
"In Finland the school children are taught to wash dolls, dust, sweep, beat after flowers, and so on, and in some Japanese schools a resting room, with a bed, is provided, so that overworked children may have a nap!"—London Answers.

Bill and His Watch.
"Bill, can you give me the correct time?" says one of Bill's friends.
"Sure," says Bill, glancing out his watch. "My watch was just seven seconds slow at twenty minutes of 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and I don't believe it's varied more than a quarter of a second since. It's now twenty-two minutes and seven seconds past 5."
"Thanks, old man," says Bill's friend, who then drops his own watch into his pocket and goes on his way.
"Really he wasn't so particular about knowing the time himself as desirous of giving pleasure to Bill, for he knows that Bill is one of the few million men in the world who think each that his watch is a wonder and who feel themselves flattered when their friends ask them for the correct time."—New York Sun.

Caught Her Secret.
Old Podkins lay back in his chair in calm content, and though his wife was quite near him, he was happy, for she had not broken the silence for nearly five minutes.
He had been married 30 years and twenty long years, and Mrs. Podkins almost daily during twenty-four of them had disturbed the domestic peace by a too full exercise of her tongue.
"My dear," broke in Mrs. P., thinking it time she said something to interrupt the quiet. "I see by the papers that a pettifogger has two yards long been found in Corvallis."
"What?" cried Podkins, starting up. "Now I know your secret. But you never told me your ancestors came from that part of the world!"—Dundee Advertiser.

Pointed Advice.
There was a traveling man once who found himself short of funds. His first thought, of course, was to wire his firm, which he did. In a night letter he explained the situation and asked:
"How shall I act?"
The next morning he got a day message which was nothing if not illuminative:
"Act as if you were broke."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Uplift.
"Is she a help to her mother?" asked one woman.
"Yes, indeed," replied the other. "She has taught her to say 'culinary art' instead of 'rooking.'"—Exchange.

The Division.
He—So young March and his father are carrying on the business? She—Yes. The old man runs the business, while young March does the carrying on.—New York Globe.

The most changeable things in the world are the course of waters and the humor of women.—Pittacus.

Grammar and Good.
Mrs. Peasbush says that if she could have another chance she would rather marry a man who splits his infinitives than one who hates to break a dime.—Galveston News.

Belief.
"Do you believe in a hereafter?"
"You bet. I have several pen pals who are too strong for me to punish myself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

One has to spend so many years learning how to be happy.—Ellot.

Attack Like Tigers
In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then septicemias, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Bullish, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at all druggists.
